

LOVELY WOMEN. SOME, OF COURSE, ARE NOT SO LOVELY.

English Women—The Shining Nail—The Little One's Rebuke—Between School Room and Altar—The Model Husband—Woman's Way—Mrs. Beecher's Marriage Views.

English Women. A WORD may be in place here about the English women, says Julian Ralph in Harper's Weekly. They are little like the better society of Americans.

The more dyspeptic a man is, the often his wife makes mince meat. Of the most busybodies and gossips defend their bad acts by saying that they are honest critics.

The Model Husband. One of the big New York papers has offered a prize of $100 to the woman who shall send in the most praiseworthy description of a model husband.

The Shining Nail. The nails of a fashionable woman are often to put it strongly—a positive abomination. They are vulgar, just as anything that is overdone and pronounced as vulgar.

The Little One's Rebuke. There is a woman in this city whose wealth, position and goodness fill her life with social and charitable occupations, says the New York Times.

Between School-Room and Altar. When the girl enters the world after her education is "finished," she does not always find it what she expected. The school-room is one thing, the world another.

Mrs. Beecher's Marriage Views. I have seen much of life and in almost all of its wonderfully changing aspects, and I am convinced that the joys and the sorrows, the crosses and the crowns of married life are about equally divided between the husband and the wife.

Miscellaneous Escapes. In the fight at Wounded Knee three soldiers had their clothing pierced by four bullets each without drawing blood.

Soldier's Inspiration and High Hopes. Elbe—That's a beautiful piece of poetry! I wonder who wrote it? Elsie—Some pale-faced thing that lives in a garret, eats bologna sausage twice a day and expects to marry a heiress.—Arkansas Traveler.

BIBLICAL FIGURES IN FICTION.

The Prominent Part They Play in Many of Our Modern Novels.

The last generation, to go no farther back, has witnessed an extraordinary collection of books, centering about the chief figure of the Scriptures, which owe their origin to a great intellectual activity.

Women's Ways. The more dyspeptic a man is, the often his wife makes mince meat. Of the most busybodies and gossips defend their bad acts by saying that they are honest critics.

The Model Husband. One of the big New York papers has offered a prize of $100 to the woman who shall send in the most praiseworthy description of a model husband.

The Shining Nail. The nails of a fashionable woman are often to put it strongly—a positive abomination. They are vulgar, just as anything that is overdone and pronounced as vulgar.

The Little One's Rebuke. There is a woman in this city whose wealth, position and goodness fill her life with social and charitable occupations, says the New York Times.

Between School-Room and Altar. When the girl enters the world after her education is "finished," she does not always find it what she expected. The school-room is one thing, the world another.

Mrs. Beecher's Marriage Views. I have seen much of life and in almost all of its wonderfully changing aspects, and I am convinced that the joys and the sorrows, the crosses and the crowns of married life are about equally divided between the husband and the wife.

Miscellaneous Escapes. In the fight at Wounded Knee three soldiers had their clothing pierced by four bullets each without drawing blood.

Soldier's Inspiration and High Hopes. Elbe—That's a beautiful piece of poetry! I wonder who wrote it? Elsie—Some pale-faced thing that lives in a garret, eats bologna sausage twice a day and expects to marry a heiress.—Arkansas Traveler.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Jared Lincoln, an uneducated man, who had made within a few years a large fortune by speculation, while driving out to Central Park passed Mr. Crouse, a plainly dressed, middle-aged gentleman who was on foot.

That man, he said to his wife, belongs to one of the oldest families in New York. His grandfather was one of the signers of the Declaration. He has been brought up in the midst of refined and scholarly people.

Down one of the leafy avenues a man sauntered thoughtfully, whose name is known throughout the country as a brilliant magazineist.

One of the foremost men on Wall street rode past him. The men having met at the club, bowed to each other. "Ah," thought the novelist, "if I could live without writing anything but checks!"

The minister's wife, whom somebody had taken out to drive, saw one of the parishioners pass, a woman who ruled in an exclusive fashionable circle.

Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Some Simple Remedies. Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

DEATH.

His private bedroom is near the rear of the car, and the locomotive on the rear train would have crushed him beyond recognition in an instant.

That man, he said to his wife, belongs to one of the oldest families in New York. His grandfather was one of the signers of the Declaration. He has been brought up in the midst of refined and scholarly people.

Down one of the leafy avenues a man sauntered thoughtfully, whose name is known throughout the country as a brilliant magazineist.

One of the foremost men on Wall street rode past him. The men having met at the club, bowed to each other. "Ah," thought the novelist, "if I could live without writing anything but checks!"

The minister's wife, whom somebody had taken out to drive, saw one of the parishioners pass, a woman who ruled in an exclusive fashionable circle.

Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Some Simple Remedies. Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

AFFAIRS IN ILLINOIS. ILLINOIS LAW-MAKERS.

On the 10th, the 116th ballot for Senator was reached, resulting: Palmer, 501, Streetor, 95, Oglesby 8. Flag positions were reached by 100 of them.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers.

Following is given the most important of Chicago news: Internal revenue officers seized from Fuller & Fuller 6,300 cigars, from Wirth, Gutman & Co., 9,000, from William Hoegard 5,000, and from McNeill & Higgins 1,550. Most of the cigars were manufactured by L. Kahner & Co. of New York.

Down one of the leafy avenues a man sauntered thoughtfully, whose name is known throughout the country as a brilliant magazineist.

One of the foremost men on Wall street rode past him. The men having met at the club, bowed to each other. "Ah," thought the novelist, "if I could live without writing anything but checks!"

The minister's wife, whom somebody had taken out to drive, saw one of the parishioners pass, a woman who ruled in an exclusive fashionable circle.

Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Some Simple Remedies. Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

THE OTHER SIDE.

Jared Lincoln, an uneducated man, who had made within a few years a large fortune by speculation, while driving out to Central Park passed Mr. Crouse, a plainly dressed, middle-aged gentleman who was on foot.

That man, he said to his wife, belongs to one of the oldest families in New York. His grandfather was one of the signers of the Declaration. He has been brought up in the midst of refined and scholarly people.

Down one of the leafy avenues a man sauntered thoughtfully, whose name is known throughout the country as a brilliant magazineist.

One of the foremost men on Wall street rode past him. The men having met at the club, bowed to each other. "Ah," thought the novelist, "if I could live without writing anything but checks!"

The minister's wife, whom somebody had taken out to drive, saw one of the parishioners pass, a woman who ruled in an exclusive fashionable circle.

Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Some Simple Remedies. Boils frequently break out upon the face and body. The person thus affected should eschew rich pastry, gravies, and every kind of meat excepting lean mutton.

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."

Very Funny. An amusing device that produced unbounded fun for a party storm-bound in a small village, was what, to fit in with the prevailing nonsense of the plan, was called a "soiree musicale operetta."