Communicated. Of all places we have ever struck Dwight takes the prize, especially in regard to some of our young people. Our young people never meet to enjoy themselves, but what after everything has passed there are false reports flying around on all sides, and the parties for whom they are meant, cannot, and do not have any real idea, who it is that starts the reports, but have to bear it all. Now and then some one tells the victims what they have heard, and they are amazed to hear such falsehoods. The writer would advise all cranks to retire from such business, as it does no one a particle of good, but on the contrary, makes ill-feeling on all sides.
