AT THE GOLDEN GATE.

PRESIDENT HARRISON AND PARTY IN CALIFORNIA.

Mrs. Harrison Presses an Electric Button Which Launches the Monterey—Correct Description of the Train—Human Ingenuity Must Strain Itself to Devise Anything More Elaborate or Comfortable.

The morning of President Harrison's marine excursion from San Francisco opened with a fog enveloping the shores of the bay, but as the forenoon wore on the fog lifted and left the harbor sparkling in sunlight.

Notwithstanding the announcement that the invitations to accompany the President were limited to five hundred in number, the committee having charge of the excursion were besieged with applications from fully 5,000 persons who, being unable to secure coveted billets, crowded the steamers Ukiau and Garden City and numerous smaller craft which dotted the bay, so that at the hour of the President's embarkation over 10,000 persons had left the shore to accompany him on the trip. At 10:30 o'clock the Pueblo steamed out into the bay from Broadway wharf and was soon followed by the warship Charleston, the Government steamers Rush and Marono carrying the Federal officials, and the revenue cutters Rush and Corwin with the Custom House officials. As the Pueblo passed these vessels, which had formed a line about 300 yards apart, a salute was fired, and the band, which had been stationed on the Pueblo, played a patriotic air. After the Government vessels had swung into the line other steamers and craft conveying unofficial excursionists made haste to follow, and, with the white sails of the yachts skimming the scene, the pageant, from a marine point of view, had never been excelled on the Bay of San Francisco.

About 2 o'clock the Pueblo headed for the Union Iron Works. The vessels which had been lying in the stream waiting for her got under way and followed in her wake, making a marine procession several miles in length.

At the Union Iron Works the Pueblo was received with the blowing of whistles at the factory and on all steam vessels lying there. The cruiser Charleston, which had followed the President's steamer all day, anchored a short distance from the Pueblo. The President was taken off in a tug and paid an official visit to the Charleston, being received with a national salute when he boarded the vessel and also when he took his departure. By this time the bay for a mile in every direction from the Union Iron Works was studded with vessels of every description, upon the decks of which there were fully 20,000 people, who had come there to witness the launching of the armored coast defense vessel Monterey.

In addition to those on vessels there were probably forty thousand people who witnessed the launching from the shore. Every housetop and street and every hillside overlooking the iron works yard as well as the yard itself was literally covered with people. Never was there such interest taken or such enthusiasm displayed at any similar event in this part of the country. On the shore and on the bay there was a perfect sea of flags and bunting, and for some time before the launching occurred there was a continuous screeching of steam whistles, to which was added the music of a score of bands on excursion steamers.

A small platform had been built around the bow of the vessel, and on this were the Presidential party and other distinguished guests, and also a band from the navy yard. At 4:30 Mrs. Harrison pressed an electric button, which sent the vessel down the ways. The navy yard band played a national air as she glided into the water, and immediately there burst forth the greatest noise from steam whistles, to which was added the thundering sound of the Charleston's guns as she fired a national salute; cheer after cheer also arose from shore and from the vessels.

The launch was entirely successful. The President and party then returned to the Palace Hotel.

When the Presidential party arrived at San Jose a national salute was fired and a large crowd gathered at the station cheered lustily. The visitors were escorted to the Hotel Vendome, where an address of welcome was made by Mayor Rucker, and responded to by the President as follows:

Mr. Mayor and fellow-citizens, I am again surprised by this large outpouring of my friends, and by the respectful interest which they evince. I can not find words to express the delight which I have felt, and which those who journey with me have felt, as we have observed the beauty, and more than all the comfort and prosperity which characterize the great State of California. I am glad to observe here as I have elsewhere that my old comrades of the great war for the Union have turned out to witness afresh by this demonstration their love for the flag and their veneration for American institutions. My comrades, I greet you every one affectionately. I doubt not that every loyal State has representatives here of that great army that subdued the rebellion and brought home the flag in triumph. I hope that you have found in this flowery and prosperous land, in the happy homes which you have built up here, in the wives and children that grace your firesides, sweet contrast to those times of peril and hardship which you endured in the army, and I trust above all that under these genial and kindly influences you still maintain that devotion to our institutions, and are teaching it to the children that will take your places. We often speak of children following in the footsteps of their fathers. Nearly a year ago at the great review of the Grand Army of the Republic at Boston, after those thousands of veterans, stricken with years and labor, had passed along, a great army nearly as large came on with the swinging step that characterized you when you carried the flag from your home to the field. They were sons of veterans, literally marching in their fathers' steps, and so I love to think in the hands of this generation that is coming on to take our places our institutions are safe, and that the honor and glory of the flag will be maintained. We may quietly go to our rest when God shall call us in the full assurance that His favoring providence will follow us, and that in your children valor and sacrifice for the flag will always manifest themselves.

Monarchs have traversed land and sea and history has recorded the magnificence of many a royal equipage, but no emperor ever had opportunity to enjoy such luxurious traveling accommodations as have been conferred by ingenious and comfort-seeking man upon the President of the greatest republic the nations of the earth ever beheld.

There have been many fine specimens of the car-builders' art previous to the creation of this "Presidential special," but it is questionable whether there is in railroad annals a more elaborately complete vehicular aggregation than the one which was prepared for the journey of the chief executive and his guests. The great pan-American excursion train was regarded as being the acme of perfection, but that made its pilgrimage a year and a half ago, and there have been many important improvements since that came to a close.

First in the string of five cars is the combination baggage, smoking, and library-car, Aztlan, upon the forward panels of which is inscribed in large gilt letters: "The Presidential Special." In one of the corners nearest the engine is a perfect incandescent electric light plant, with a noisy little dynamo in frequent operation. In the same compartment the baggage and a reserve stock of supplies is stored away, all in the most admirable order and looking as little like the ordinary everyday baggage car as could be easily imagined.

A narrow doorway, generally occupied by a swinging door, separates the baggage section from the smoking-room and library. The upholstery is of olive plush, and the furniture is of a character that cannot fail to contribute to the comfort of those mortals who are privileged to use it. Two bookcases, one on each side of the car, contain a couple of hundred standard works, and beneath each of the cases is a desk and a supply of writing material. Between the cases and alongside of the clock is an electric screw-fan which faces a twin contrivance at the opposite end of the apartment; these, when in operation, will keep the atmosphere fairly clear and reasonably cool.

"Colorado" is the name of the dining-car, and a more nearly perfect creation in the shape of a restaurant on wheels could not easily be found. The furnishings of the dining-car proper are supremely æsthetic. Cleanly waiters, clad in spotless white raiment, are not least among the attractions. The kitchen lacks nothing, and is presided over by one of the most experienced Afro-American chefs.

Next the commissary headquarters is the President's car, the "New Zealand." So far as the upholstery of the main interior is concerned, this is probably the least attractive subdivision of the train. The plush is a dull variety of blue, and the curtains are seal brown. Here and there newspaper representatives are quartered.

But beyond the somberly comfortable-appearing draperies is a traveling paradise—the drawing-rooms occupied by the President and Mrs. Harrison. The apartments, which are en suite, are models of artistic taste. All the woodwork is enameled in white and decorated with the choicest floral patterns in gilt moldings, while the seats and sofas are covered with a rich shade of terra-cotta plush. A more pleasing effect would hardly be possible.

The "Ideal," which is the car following immediately after the Presidential vehicle, differs materially from the other cars. Its interior is divided into six drawing-rooms, and each of these subdivisions possesses coloring and design distinctively its own.

More interesting than any other portion of the train to the millions of men, women and children who will strive to see the President and Mrs. Harrison during the next few days will be the "Vacuna"—the last car in the train. From its rear end the President will deliver more than a few speeches, and, leaning over the brass-topped bronze fence, must of necessity shake many a horny hand, to say nothing of the hands that are not even moderately hard. When the train was inspected by Mrs. Harrison, shortly before the hour of departure, she expressed a decided preference for the Vacuna as a day-car, and her judgment was applauded by the ladies of the party. The foward end of the Vacuna contains six sleeping sections, upholstered in blue and metal fitted in brass. In the rear of these and separated from them only by the buffet is the observation compartment, with plush-cushioned willow chairs enough to accommodate sixteen people, provided no one chair is burdened by more than one individual. The windows are large and are made of the finest plate glass.

Human ingenuity may be able to make railway travel less irksome and more comfortable than it is now, but ingenuity must strain itself considerably if it succeeds in turning out anything more elaborate and complete than the "Presidential special."

EVERY man is by nature his own god.

ILLINOIS LAW-MAKERS.

ON the 29th bills were introduced in the Senate as follows: By Mr. Farmer, reducing the number of voters now required in any precinct before it may be divided by the County Board, from 450 to 400; by Mr. Kerrick, providing for the regulation of building and loan associations doing business in counties other than that in which their principal office is located. Mr. Bassett's bill amending the chattel mortgage law by providing that the law's provisions shall not apply to mortgages given for purchase money, was read a third time and passed. Mr. Bass' bill amending the law in regard to aliens, by providing that the title possessed by an alien before any legal proceedings have been taken by the State to seize the lands owned by him, shall be a valid title, was passed. The bill allowing women to vote at school elections was passed. In the House the Senate bill appropriating $21,000 for brick machines and brick kilns to keep employed convicts was read a third time and passed. On request of Mr. Paddock, Senator Bogardus' bill to protect labor organizations in their labels and trade marks was read a third time and passed. In the House Committee on Rules the following resolution was adopted unanimously as a substitute for the resolution offered by Mr. Merritt that the House adjourn sine die April 1st: Resolved, By the House of Representatives, the Senate concurring herein, that we, the House and Senate, adjourn on the 4th day of June, 1891, and stand adjourned without day.

IN the House, on the 30th, the ballot reform bill came up as the special order on third reading. Without debate the roll was called on the passage of the bill, and by a vote of 141 yeas to no nays the bill was passed. Mr. Merritt moved to suspend the rules to take up the compulsory education bill, but the motion was defeated by a vote 70 yeas to 66 nays. Mr. Ferns moved to make his anti-trust bill the special order for the 7th, immediately after the reading of the journal, but the motion was lost. Th Committee on Rules reported a joint resolution providing for the sine die adjournment of the General Assembly on June 4, but the farmers strongly opposed naming the final day at this time. In the Senate bills were introduced as follows: By Mr. Thomas, providing for the amendment of the Chicago drainage law by the eliminating from the law of the principal objections urged thereto. The bill provides that the ditch shall be large enough to accommodate 250,000 cubic feet of water per minute. By Mr. Bacon, amending the Chicago law by providing for more opportunities and more time for registration; by Mr. Mahoney, amending the Chicago election law by providing that election judges shall be able to read and write English and have the elementary English education.

IN the House, on the 1st, the Stock Yards fight began when the various Stock Yards bills were reported back by Mr. Moore, of the Committee on Agriculture, with the recommendation that they lie upon the table, and that the Cherry bill be substituted therefor and do pass. Mr. Ramsey, of Clinton, made a fight to table the Cherry bill, recommended by the committee, and advance his bill instead. The yeas and nays wers demanded, and Ramsey's motion prevailed by a vote of 72 yeas to 51 nays, and the committee was tabled. In the Senate, bills were introduced as follows: By Mr. Berry, changing the time of holding the Mercer County Circuit Court; by Mr. Arnold, providing for a maximum 5-cent fare on horse, cable, and elevated railways; by Mr. Bass, allowing interest on special assessments to be paid in annual installments. A message from the Governor was received announcing the following appointments: R. N. McCauley, Richland County, as Live Stock Commissioner; D. F. Deadrick, of Adams County, as Chief Grain Inspector; Alexander Brown of Adams County, C. M. Fike, of Monroe County, Fred Schaulin of Grundy County, as Fish Wardens. The appointments were confirmed. Resolutions thanking Captain A. B. Kellogg, of the United States navy, for his gallantry in rescuing the United States steamer Ozoma from the Haytian insurgents, were unanimously adopted. Mr. Karrake's bill, changing the time of holding the Circuit Court in the First District, was passed. The Senate then adjourned to 5 p. m. on the 4th.

ON the 4th Representative Merritt presided in the House at the session. Only about twenty-five members were present. After the approval of the journal a message was received from the Senate announcing the passage of several bills, and the House then adjourned. Senator Sheridan presided in the Senate, Senators Hunt, Kerrick, Bassett, Rickert, Wiles, Manecke, Caldwell, and Hamer being present. After approval of the journal the Senate adjourned.

Country Roads.

There is not a rural town within boarding distance of a great city which could not at slight expense assure itself all the city boarders that it could accommodate by the simple process of systematically and intelligently improving and beautifying its roads. If it were to appoint a town committee with power to employ experts, or to obtain expert advice, and to carry out the suggestions thus obtained in road improvement, the mere public advertisment of that proceeding would attract boarders from all directions. The expense would not be great. In nearly every case the gravel or cracked stone necessary for the construction of a serviceable, well-drained road can be obtained within moderate distance. There is, for example, in some parts of Orange County, in New York State, a kind of soft red sandstone to be found in great abundance, which crushes readily under the wheels and makes a hard, firm road-bed, which is never dusty and never muddy, which is yielding to the horses' feet and most agreeable to ride over. Ordinary gravel can be used with almost equally good results. The main thing is to secure something like scientific knowledge in the construction of the road and in the mixture of material. The vicious idea that anybody can make a road by shoveling dirt into the middle of it from the gutter, or, what is the same thing in a wholesale form, hauling it there by means of a "scraper," must be abandoned at the outset, and not only abandoned but prohibited. Until that is done no reform will be possible—The Century.

Of the Misery of It.

Human wretchedness touches bottom in sea sickness. Life is held a feather's weight by the unfortunate afflicted with it. Why endure its atrocious internal convulsions when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters relieves them instanter? Not only relieves, but prevents. It is not always on the "briney" that traveler's nausea is experienced. Railway journeying, riding with one's back to the horses or the locomotive sometimes produces it in super-sensitive stomachs. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is always the prompt remedy. The mischievous properties of brackish water, the evil influence of miasma, unwholesome or unaccustomed food, excessive fatigue, whether bodily or mental, the dyspeptic tendency bred by sedentary pursuits, the pernicious effects of exposure to extremes of temperature or dampness, all these are effectually counteracted by this genial preservative of health. Cures also rheumatism, kidney, and bilious trouble.
