ILLINOIS LAW-MAKERS.

On the 7th, by an almost unanimous vote, Mr. Ferns' anti-trust bill passed the House and was sent to the Senate. The bill provides that if any corporation or any partnership or any individual or other association of persons form any pool, trust, agreement, combination, or corporation to regulate or fix the price of any article of merchandise or commodity, or shall enter into, become a member of, or a party to any combination to fix or limit the amount or quantity of any article he shall be adjudged guilty of conspiracy to defraud. If a corporation, company, firm, or association shall be found guilty it shall be punished by a fine of not less than $500 nor more than $2,000 for the first offense; for the second offense, not less than $2,000 nor more than $5,000; for the third offense, not less than $5,000 nor more than $10,000, and for every subsequent offense and conviction shall be liable to a fine of $15,000. The Senate adopted a resolution for a sine die adjournment on June 21st. The Senate sent the Anti-Live-Stock Exchange bill to second reading.

NOONAN'S building and loan association bill passed the Senate on the 8th, and by its provisions all such associations must render an annual serial account to the State auditor and hold their books at all times subject to inspection. The Senate also passed Secrest's periodical grain-weighing bill. Andy O'Conor secured the floor and made an effort to advance his pool-selling bill to third reading, but after some heated opposition by those who argued that while they did not mind sporting a bit, they did not want it legalized, the bill was made a special order for the 13th. Senator O'Conor supports the bill because he believes trotting horses would be of little value without pool-selling. The education committee reported in a text-book bill providing for county uniformity and a State Board of text-books. Senator Mac Millan presented a bill giving the Chicago board of education the right of eminent domain so they may condemn land for public school purposes.

THERE was an attendance of only a couple of dozen members at the session of the House on the 11th. Speaker Crafts presided and all the committee reports that had accumulated on the last legislative day were presented and the bills advanced or tabled according to the report. No important business was transacted.

In the Senate, on the 12th, bills were passed as follows: Appropriating $1,500 annually for publishing the Dairymen's Association's report; $35,900 for fire protection and purchase of a farm for the Lincoln Feeble-minded Institute; $100,000 for keeping employed the Joliet prisoners now idle; $1,165 for a new walk at the State House; $6,750 for expenses of the State laboratory of natural history and State entomologist. Mr. Mahoney's bill providing that when cities condemn land for municipal purposes the same shall be paid for within two years, was passed. Mr. Sheets' bill, declaring that the Illinois State Dairymen's Association be made a public corporation of the State, and providing for annual meetings thereof, etc., was passed. Mr. Kerrick's bill, providing that property conveyed in fraud may be reached by the provisions of the garnishment act, and that unliquidated damages, when the measure of damages is fixed by the court, may be reached in the same manner, was passed. In the House the anti-Pinkerton act was advanced.

The Age of Decay.

Birth, growth, maturity, decay, death—such is the normal history of man. The three periods of life should sustain a certain proportion to each other: twenty years of growth, sixty years of maturity, twenty years of decay. This is what might be counted upon as the ordinary course of human life, but for the fact that we labor under a load of ancestral transgressions of physical and moral law, supplemented and intensified by our own personal delinquencies and follies.

How pleasant is the picture! Twenty years of happy childhood and youth, sixty years of intellectual progress and achievement, with domestic and social joys, and then twenty years of slow, almost unconscious decay, characterized by serenity of mind, pleasing memories, and joyous anticipations of a greater life beyond the grave.

Sadly different is human existence as we see it. We look with wonder upon Gladstone, past eighty, still vigorous in body and mind, still strong and wise to lead the great Liberal party of England. We accent three-score and ten as life's natural limit, and expect only labor and sorrow if this limit is passed.

We are doomed, we think, by our inheritance; and to some extent this is true. But we should remember the law of recuperation. The torn flesh heals; the broken bone reunites. Diseases tend toward recovery. The weary toiler rises from sleep strong for new labors. The wise physician bases his hopes upon this law.

And this tendency of Nature to heal herself may be greatly assisted by careful and intelligent living, so that it is always possible that the man of unfortunate ancestry may secure for himself a good old age, and start his posterity upon an ascending plane.

Do what we will, however, life must have its end. When the age of decay is reached, hidden changes are going on, the culmination of which is the last great change. The muscles shrink; the brain shrivels; the nerves lose their sensibility and active power; the arteries, perhaps, become chalky or fatty; the heart is weakened; the circulation enfeebled; and at last the end comes.

During this final period, then, we must take things calmly; avoid excesses of all kinds; guard against exposures to cold; keep up a degree of mental activity; cultivate cheerfulness; and look forward with hope.—Western Rural.

COLD COMFORT IN THE GRAND JURY'S REPORT.

Detective O'Mal'ey and Other Conspirators Indicted for Obstructing the March of Justice, and the Leaders of the Avengers Unmolested.

After six weeks' investigation the New Orleans Grand Jury completed its labors in the Hennessy case and the killing of Italians at the parish prison by presenting their special report.

The report first recalls the murder of Chief Hennessy and the trial of the accused Italians.

After reviewing the evidence concerning the corrupting of part of the jurors, the report says:

Taking into account the volume of testimony admitted by the numerous witnesses before this Grand Jury, and considering that evidence not only in the abstract relation to each party but in its aggregate and collective bearing, we are forced to the conclusion that Dominick O'Malley is chargeable with a knowledge of and participation in most, if not all, of the unlawful acts in connection with that celebrated case. With his skill, as acquired by years of experience, the most cunningly devised schemes were planned and executed for defeating the legitimate course of justice, the chief aim and object being to place unworthy men upon the jury in the trial of the nine accused. Without his assidnous and corrupting influence we believe the verdict would have been radically different, and as a natural consequence the fearful occurrences of the 14th of March last never would have been recorded.

Indictments of O'Malley and five others follow, and the report says:

The indictment of D. C. O'Malley for perjury was based upon most undoubted evidence that he came originally from Cleveland, O., where Jan. 30, 1875, he was convicted of petty larceny and comitted to the workhouse of the city of Cleveland, where he served a term expiring June 22, 1875. He next appears under indictment for perjury in the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans, where an indictment was based upon the affidavit against one Ed Schleider, which O'Malley afterward contradicted under oath, and which he managed to secure an acquittal, owing to the timely disappearance of the affidavit, which he alone was interested in having suppressed. Later he was committed to the parish prison for attempting to levy blackmail upon one George W. Randolph in the proceedings against Randolph for intimidation.

The following record is verified by officials, showing his numerous offenses before the Criminal Court of this parish:

1—No. 19,488, July 3, 1884. Indicted for attempting to prevent witnesses from appearing and testifying. Nolle prosequied.

2—No. 4,838, May 9, 1884. Indicted for threatening and intimidating witnesses. Acquitted May 29, 1884.

3—No. 2,262, June 3, 1879. Pleaded guilty to carrying concealed weapons and sentenced.

4—No. 3,679, Nov. 3, 1883. Convicted of assault and sentenced.

5—No. 930, April 14, 1881. Pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon and sentenced.

6—No. 3,678, Jan. 3, 1883. Pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon and sentenced.

7—No. 5,186. Pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon and sentenced.

8—No. 7,242, Dec. 4, 1885. Convicted of carrying a concealed weapon and sentenced.

9—No. 7,241, May 22, 1885. Indicted for assault and battery.

So pernicious to the administration of justice were his doings and methods found that while Judge Roman presided in the Criminal Court he ordered that O'Malley be excluded from the court-room. This was during the time his present associate, Lionel Adams, was District Attorney, and it is a significant fact that the two indictments against O'Malley for tampering with witnesses were not brought to trial but were nolle prossed by the District Attorney just prior to the expiration of his term.

Then comes an exhaustive account of the secret society known as the "Mafia," exposing its iniquities and detailing its crimes. It is charged that part, if not all, of the slain Italians were in this country in violation of the immigration laws. Referring to the wholesale lynching the Grand Jury says:

The assassination of the late Chief of Police was the culmination of a conspiracy. His death was deemed necessary to prevent the exposure and punisment of criminals whose guilt was being fast established by his diligent pursuit. The condition of affairs in this community as to a certain class of violators of the law had reached such a state that the law itself was well nigh powerless to deal with them, so far-reaching was their power and influence in the trial of criminal cases. Good citizens were profoundly impressed by the repeated and signal failures of justice. The arts of the perjurer seemed to dominate in the courts, paralyzing and rendering powerless the ends of justice. Certainly this was a desperate situation.

In the public meeting above referred to—general and spontaneous in character as truly indicating an uprising of the masses—we doubt if any power at the command of the authorities would have been sufficient to overcome its intentions. Evidence is before us from official sources that eleven persons were killed in the attack on the parish prison. In the careful examination as to citizenship of those men we find that eight of them were beyond question American citizens, and another had "declared his intention" in this court, which act carries with it the renunciation of allegience to his native country.

It is a noteworthy fact in connection with the uprising that no injury whatever was done to either person or property beyond the act which seemed to have been the object of the assemblage at the parish prison. We have referred to the large number of citizens participating in the demonstration, estimated by judges at from 6,000 to 8,000, and regarded as a spontane us uprising of the people. The magnitude of this affair makes it a difficult task to fix the guilt upon any number of the participants—in fact the act seemed to involve the entire people of the parish and city of New Orleans, so profuse was their sympathy and extended their connection with the affair.

In view of these considerations, the thorough examination of the subject has failed to disclose the necessary facts to justify this Grand Jury in presenting indictments. Respectfully submitted.

PURSUING THE ITATA.

CHANCE FOR THE U. S. CRUISER CHARLESTON TO SHINE.

She Is Said to Be Hotly Chasing the Chilian Privateer—Questions in Regard to Her Possible Capture Not Definitely Settled.

A dispatch from Washington says: The most pressing thing in state affairs now is the escape of the Itata. The possibility that this can result in any serious destruction of our relations with Chili is remote, but the ever present specter of "indemnity" is what scares the State Department. "Indemnity" has become a hair-raising word in state circles. The Italians started it and the fear that Chili may also hoist an emblem with indemnity emblazoned on it causes uneasiness. Ever since we made Great Britain pay $15,000,000 for permitting the Alabama to escape we have kept a weather eye keenly strained upon every fishing smack that might be suspected of wanting to carry a revolver to an enemy. Hence the first business of the administration is to recapture the Itata.

Instructions were sent to Admiral McCann, now at Valparaiso, to put to sea with the Baltimore and Pensacola in order to intercept the insurgent vessel. Similar instructions were sent to Admiral Brown. The last report from him was that he had left Callao, Peru, with the San Francisco. His exact whereabouts along the coast is not known. Orders have also been sent to the Charleston, now at San Francisco, to start in pursuit as soon as possible. This last does not amount to much, for the Itata has five hundred miles and at least two days' start from any vessel that could sail from San Francisco, and it is doubtful if the Charleston could catch her in an even race. If the ship is caught or intercepted it will be by one of Admiral McCann's vessels, though if the Charleston should catch her in one of the Mexican ports she could undoubtedly fasten on to her and tow her back to San Diego.

U. S. CRUISER "CHARLESTON."

The actual status of the Itata is not that of a pirate, but an authorized ship upon the seas. She has no flag, no clearance, no charter. Any ship of any nation can seize her, and if she resists she becomes at once a pirate.

The position in which the United States is placed by the escaping of the Itata is a peculiar one, bearing in mind the forcible argument which Mr. Evarts and other able representatives of the United States laid before the tribunal at Geneva in respect to the escape of the "29," afterward the rebel cruiser Alabama, upon which arguments Great Britain was mulcted in heavy damages. In that case it will be remembered the suspected vessel got away before the British authorities had received sufficient information, as they claimed, to warrant them in seizing her. In the case of the Itata the vessel was absolutely in the possession of the United States Marshal, and the responsibility for her escape can not be evaded. It may be a question between the Department of Justice and the United States Marshal as to whether proper precautions were taken to insure the detension of the vessel, but as between the United States and the recognized Chilian Government should Balmaceda be successful in the internecine warfare now in progress, there can be no manner of dispute as to the complete liability of the United States Government for whatever damages the Itata uncaptured may be able to inflict. There is quite a feverish air of expectancy round the Navy Department as to the developements of the incident, and many of the officers on shore are envying the opportunities which the Charleston and other vessels are likely to have of brisk service afloat.

The question of the right of the United States to take the Itata on the high seas is not altogether settled. The State Department people have searched their authorities and have scrutinized the facts in the case, and are inclined to doubt the right. The whole question arises from a dispute as to the character of the vessel. Were she a pirate, a ship in the service of an enemy to this country, and a vessel of American register engaged in acts in violation of treaty stipulations, the case would be a simple one. But she is merely a Chilian vessel, engaged in the transportation of a suspected cargo, a cargo that may possibly be contraband in the light of the treaty, and there is a very great risk involved. No one doubts the right of the United States to arrest the vessel in our waters for the purpose of examination, and her detention was in accordance with this belief. But now that she has landed the deputy marshal and sailed along on her business she may prove a hornet that will sting in after years.

In the matter of the international law involved it would seem as though the State Department is not in entire accord with the rest of the administration, for both Attorney General Miller and Secretary Tracy lean to the belief that the vessel Itata is legitimate prey.

STATE laws regulate marriage in the United States and nearly all of them require the consent of the parent when the man is less than 21 and the woman under 18 years of age. In several States strict laws regarding marriage licenses are enforced even after both parties have passsed the 21st milestone in their life journey.

Changing Defeat to Victory.

The genius of Sheridan at Winchester changed defeat to victory. So when feeble adversaries in the shape of inefficient remedies fail to stay the progress of that obstinate and malignant foe, malaria, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters turns the tide—drives the enemy back. Nothing in materia medica, or out of it, compares with this as an opponent of every form of malarial disease. Chills and fever, dumb ague, bilious remittent, and ague cake—it matters not—one and all are extirpated by the Bitters. To take a course of the great preparative in advance of the malarial season is to buckle on, as it were, an armor of proof which defies attack. So fortified, so protected, you shall be scatheless. Remember, too, that the Bitters is an eradicator of liver complaint, constipation, rheumatism, kidney complaints, and dyspepsia.

Makes the Weak Strong

The way in which Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up people in run down or weakened state of health conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes that tired feeling, creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.
