Cheers for the Keeley Company and Citizens' Committee.

Dwight people have not enjoyed such a jollification in years as they did last night. As soon as the citizens' committee had performed their last work Thursday night and Friday morning, it began to be noised about that the Leslie E. Keeley company had decided to remain. Groups of citizens were gathered together here and there congratulating themselves and everybody else, and smiles of satisfaction lit up the faces of everyone you met. At noon posters were out announcing the great mass meeting, and the citizens' committee telegraphed for a liberal amount of fireworks, which were displayed in the evening on East street after the speaking. The band played in front of the Leslie Keeley company's office at 8 o'clock and the people of the town and country around poured into the park until it was packed, and a better natured, jollier crowd would be hard to get together. They were all of one accord, and were there to celebrate the final announcement that the great Gold Cure establishment would remain in Dwight permanently.

The meeting was called to order by Chairman Romberger, of the citizens' committee, and S. T. K. Prime was elected chairman. Mr. Prime stated the object of the meeting, and Mr. Romberger proceeded to make a report of what the committee had accomplished from beginning to end. What they have done is generally known throughout the town, and we will not dwell on that. It is enough to say that they have secured almost everything that they started out to secure. In another part of this article will be seen the real estate transfers that have been brought about by the committee. At the close of Mr. Romberger's remarks he called Mayor Thompson to the front and presented him with the deed of the thirty-one acres given to the town by David McWilliams for a park. Mr. Thompson thanked the chairman and said he was proud to accept the gift for the village, and that the enthusiasm reminded him of the girl going to campmeeting. She was "hell-bent" on getting all the religion there was in it. The people are "heaven-bound" to have all the improvements that is wanted and all there is in it. He thought they were right about it.

After the mayor's remarks a motion was made and seconded that a vote of thanks be tendered to the citizens committee for the efficient and successful manner in which they had conducted their duties in this matter. Mayor Thompson put the motion in, and it was passed with a hurrah, in a manner that showed that the people appreciated their efforts.

Rev. F. W. Merrill then made a few appropriate remarks that were highly appreciated.

Father Riordan dwelt at considerable length on the scientific phase of the Gold Cure, and said that the name of Dr. Keeley should be placed side by side with that of Pasteur. His remarks were well received.

Judge Duffy of Omaha, delivered a short address, in which he congratulated Dwight on securing the permanent residence of the Keeley company in their midst.

Col. Nate Reed, gave an eloquent address and it was a brilliant effort. He thought the 12th of June should be celebrated each year from this time on, to do honor to the occasion. He said the Dwight people had this day secured an institution that was accomplishing the grandest results of any on earth, and not since the shepherds journeyed towards the eastern star, and found the little babe in the manger, had such a discovery been made. He said Illinois had given illustrious presidents and soldiers to the country, but it remained for the little prairie village of Dwight, to give to the world the conqueror of the greatest curse the world ever saw—alcohol. His name is Dr. Leslie E. Keeley.

Rev. P. M. France made the closing address, in a few telling remarks in regard to the happy termination of the probable removal of the Keeley company.

The chairman announced that it would be the duty of the occasion to have some member of the Keeley company on the stage. Major Judd was in the audience but he had such a cold that he could not make a speech, so did not respond. J. R. Oughton was also there. Everybody knew that J. R. can talk all right, but he never makes public speeches. When he was loudly called for he got out of sight about the quickest of any man of his size we ever saw. He says he prefers to do his speech making to one person at a time, and they will last longer.

Dr. Keeley was loudly called for but did not come out. The worry and trouble regarding the location of the company, and the almost unparalleled amount of work he does, has greatly unnerved him, and it is hoped that his coming trip abroad will give him the much needed rest he needs and deserves.

After the speaking the great crowd adjourned to East street where a beautiful display of fireworks was witnessed. Anvils were fired at short intervals from the middle of the afternoon to eleven at night.

The band played most everything but "Annie Rooney."

The situation regarding the location of the Leslie E. Keeley company has for the past few days been badly mixed, and the town has been in an uproar continually. Reports, exaggerated and otherwise, were flying around, and the citizens' committee looked wise and mad at different times. The question kept our business men and citizens generally, in hot water, as it were, and now that the matter is adjusted it is better for all concerned.

The McWilliams deal hung fire until there was a great deal of dissatisfaction created, and finally fell through entirely. Mr. McWilliams placed the deed of the twenty acres on the east side of Franklin street in the hands of the committee Thursday, but there had already been so much dallying about it, that the Keeley company purchased the Hahn property, which has a large number of beautiful shade trees on it.

The Hahn property is also very desirable, and just as close to the city, and thirty-one acres inside the corporation and 281 outside. The whole tract was purchased by the Leslie E. Keeley company for $31,000.

Also the house and lot of Len. Hahn for $2,200. If the growth of the business for the past year is any criterion, and it is only reasonable to believe it is, they will need it inside of five years. A 250 room hotel will be filled up in no time after it is opened, and more accommodations will be needed immediately. The magnitude of the business of the Gold Cure company is something that even the owners themselves can form no definite idea. With a proportionate increase for the next five years, 300,000 patients would be receiving the Keeley treatment here. The business has quadrupled in one year; there is no decrease in the sale of liquor; the gold cure is proving more successful and reaching a higher percentage all the time. The business advertises itself, most every man that goes away sends several back. It is only necessary to look at a man that has secured the Keeley treatment to judge of the good results. Some people will laugh at these statements as being "wild and woolly," but really, why should they, with these facts staring them in the face. There are four times as many patients here now as there was a year ago. Figure that percentage of gain for five years and get your own result. It is no wonder that the Keeley company itself are at a loss as to what is necessary to be done. The prospective magnitude of the business is almost beyond comprehension.

The people of Dwight hope to see the Keeley company purchase the McWilliams property also, which they have an option on. Such a course would do away with all jealousies, and cause an equal increase in prices of real estate in all districts.

In addition to the above property purchased by the Keeley company, deals were closed yesterday as follows:

The McPherson House property, $5,500.

D. B. Stevens trades his lot on West street for 24 feet on East street and gets $450 in cash, and will move his building as soon as L. J. Trunnell's lease runs out.

John Geis gets $350 for a similar trade.
Phillip Weicker gets $1,000 and the lot and buildings owned by Dr. Keeley now occupied by Will Scott's grocery.

Sudden Death of John Stren.

The sad news flashed across the wires Monday that John Stren an old resident of Dwight had died suddenly while working on a branch of the Alton railroad near LaRose. It proved too true. That large, healthy looking, strong man had succumbed to the strong hand of death. He had been suffering for several years, unknown to many, of heart disease, and it was from a sudden attack of this fatal ailment that he died. Many of his friends saw him in Dwight Sunday, apparently in good health, and were horror stricken to hear of his sudden demise.

He had been employed by the Alton road for a number of months as a bridge carpenter, and at the time of his death was working under Robt. Mays. Mr. Mays informs us that Mr. Stren was feeling well Monday morning when they started out. The construction train was near LaRose unloading ties and John moved them away from the track. Mr. Mays told John he would throw some off the other side and John got on the car and sat down. Mr. Mays thought it was curious that he sat down and went to him and spoke, but there was no answer. He took hold of him to raise him up and saw that he was dying, and called for help but it was too late.

The train pulled to Varna as soon as possible and two physicians were called, but they could do nothing as death was almost instantaneous. A coroner's inquest was held at Varna and a verdict rendered that he came to his death by natural causes. The remains were placed on the cars and brought to Dwight on the regular evening train, arriving between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Delegations from the Masons, Old Fellows and Knights of Pythias were at the train and bore the remains to Baker's undertaking establishment, where they were properly taken care of, and taken to the grief-stricken home Tuesday.

John Stren was born at Westphalen, Germany, August 12, 1853, and was nearly thirty-eight years of age. He came to this country at an early age, and subsequently came to Dwight. He was engaged in the draying business for a number of years. He was a very muscular man and numerous are the stories of the great weights he has lifted. It was thought by many that it was through over lifting that he might on heart failure. He was a very large man, considerably over six feet tall, and weighing 225 pounds or more. Mr. Stren was a particularly kind man to his family and well thought of by the entire community. He leaves a wife and three children to mourn his untimely end, who have the sympathy of the people of Dwight and vicinity.

The funeral took place Wednesday at 10 o'clock from the home, and was attended by hundreds of friends. The Masons, Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows, of whom the deceased was an honored member, took charge of the services, and marched to the house about 150 strong. Details from each society acted as pall bearers. The remains were interred in the Masonic lot in Oak Lawn, the beautiful Masonic burial ceremony having been gone through with, and thus ended the life of a good husband, father and citizen. God speed the grief stricken wife and mother and children is the wish of all.

Flower Mission Day!

Tuesday was Flower Mission Day and was beautifully observed in Dwight, under the auspices of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union. The young ladies of the Dwight Union are always looking for appropriate times and places to do little acts of kindness, and many are the people and homes in our midst that have been favored in one way and another. For some time arrangements have been made for the observance of flower day, and Monday the young ladies sought out every place where flowers could be secured, and Dr. Payne was pressed into the service to go into the country and secure wild roses and buds. Tuesday the beautiful flowers and buds were gathered together in abundance and a tub full sent to Chicago to the little homeless waifs in that city. This will be a source of much wonder and amusement to the little city children, many of whom seldom see flowers in bloom.

The young ladies also made up about twenty baskets of beautiful bouquets and took them to the office of the Leslie E. Keeley company, and as the patients fled out after their noon treatment each was presented with one. Three little girls and a boy presented them, and it was a very pretty scene. A card was attached to each bouquet, on one side of which was "Flower Mission Day, June 9, 1891," and on the other "Best wishes of the Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union." The patients feel very thankful for the compliment paid them.

In the afternoon flowers were distributed to the sick of the city as far as came under their observation. This is indeed a beautiful custom and the Dwight Y's deserve great credit for the way they observed the day in Dwight.

The Knights of Pythias sent to Chicago for a beautiful floral offering, and presented it to the family of John Stren.

Council Proceedings.

The Dwight Senate met at the town house Tuesday night, and after the city marshal labored with the lamps a few minutes, the board was called to order. The council should either bond the town to have their lamps cleaned or have electric lamps put in. Probably a little electricity in the council would do no harm. The board has purchased a book of E. B. Myers & Co., of Chicago, for $5, which is chock full of fairy stories relative to town and city laws. It tells what is necessary to do to raise money to build waterworks, etc., and is $5 well invested, if it will only be the means of going ahead.

The following bills were allowed: For street work, etc.; Wm. Peterson, $4.45; E. Collins, $9.75; Jas. West, $11.25; J. Lester, $7; H. E. Seibert, electric light for May, $60; STAR AND HERALD, printing, $7.75; E. B. Myers & Co., law book, $5.

The street and alley committee reported favorably on the Flagler railroad and on raising Weicker's roof. As these improvements had both been made and most forgotten, the report of the committee did not cause any very great excitement in the large audience.

The judiciary committee reported that they had decided not to have the ordinances oriented in pamphlet form at present, and thus the poor printer is not "in it."

A petition from K. F. Booth, chief engineer of the Alton, was read, asking for the privilege of tearing down the old freight house and building a new one on the west side of track near Mazon avenue. It was granted.

Alderman Stevens said he thought it was time to go ahead with the improvements the people had asked for, and which was necessary to keep the Leslie E. Keeley company in Dwight. Three members of the citizens committee were present, and by request, Mr. S. T. K. Prime, in behalf of the committee, made a statement before the trustees, in which he said there was no doubt but that the people wanted waterworks, etc., and the citizens committee thought proper to come before the board to encourage and assist them in hurrying the matter up. He then presented a resolution as follows:

WHEREAS, It is the sense of the people of Dwight that they have waterworks, and with that action in view,

Resolved, That the president of the board of trustees of Dwight, invite Geo. C. Morgan, of Chicago, a competent hydro-engineer, to visit Dwight and look over the ground and make estimates, so that the trustees may take up the matter in an intelligent manner.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

President Thompson was heartily in favor of the improvements, but didn't see how the money could be raised for all of them in one year, as the law did not allow a town to be bonded for more than 5 per cent of the assessed value. He thought, however, bonds could be issued each year until the whole amount was paid.

B. A. Buck, of the citizens committee, thought the sewerage and macadamizing question came under the personal supervision of the trustees, and they were authorized to raise the money for such by additional taxation.

Alderman D. B. Stevens thought the people were willing and that the sooner they got to work the better.

Ald. W. H. Taylor thought there was no use dragging along. The first thing they knew the Keeley company would get tired of it and pull out.

Ald. Bell and Leach were favor of the improvements.

Committeeman J. C. Lewis said that President Blackstone would make the desired improvements as soon as the Alton company were satisfied the town meant business.

In relation to the macadamizing business, Taylor said he had been laboring for three years to get it commenced, and that the town would never get as liberal an offer as they had at present. He hoped there would be no foolishness or delay about it.

It was the united wish of the board to go ahead with the paving and other improvements as soon as they were informed as to the location of the large hotel to be erected by the Keeley company. They thought paving Franklin street would be too large an expense to go to, if the hotel was to be located on the Hahn property in the southern part of town. If it was to be located on the race track property, the board was in favor of commencing the work immediately.

The question of dumping garbage in the raging Gooseberry was brought up, and the marshal will be ordered to arrest any violator of the law hereafter.

On motion the regular meeting was adjourned for one week to hear from Mr. Morgan. At that time some definite action will probably be taken and an election called.

Fourth of July.

Sealed bids will be received for the right of the East Side School House grounds for privileges for Fourth of July. Bids will be closed Saturday, June 20, and the rights awarded Monday, the 23d.

JAMES KELAGHER, Chairman.
