

A. R. WIGGERSMAN, PUBLISHERS. Z. M. GURDIN, MANAGER.

DWIGHT, ILLINOIS.

LYNCH LAW RAMPANT.

TWO MEN DIE AT THE HANDS OF MOBS.

A Desperate Peoria Negro-Indiana and Her Bankers in a Recent Struggle—A Life Sacrificed to Anger.

MAN AND BOY STRUNG UP.

Florida and Tennessee Each Has a Hanging Without the Law's Sanction.

Andy Ford, a partner of the famous vice king, was lynched at Gaines, Harmon Murray, was lynched at...

PEORIA OFFICERS BADLY CUT.

One May Die from the Knife Wounds of a Vicious Colored Man.

Berry Ayres, a colored man, had a tussle with the Peoria police force, seriously cutting two of them...

DIAMOND DUST.

Games Won and Lost—How the Clubs Now Stand.

Following is a showing of the standing of each of the teams of the different associations:

NATIONAL LEAGUE. W. L. Pct. Chicago, 43 33 56.25; Brooklyn, 42 32 56.90; Boston, 41 38 51.32; St. Louis, 39 44 46.83; Philadelphia, 38 50 43.44.

War Is Declared.

The Indiana bankers and State Tax Commissioners look at the situation. The bankers throughout the State were required to bring their books...

Russia Busily Arming.

The Russian rifle factories are running night and day on the new breech-loading repeating rifle...

Wealthy Farmer Murdered.

Frank Hughes, a wealthy Kentucky farmer at Wood Lake, Ky., was murdered by one of his farm hands named John Dudley...

Vermont Legislature Meets.

The Vermont Legislature assembled in special session to consider the disposition of the United States direct tax refund of $170,000.

Murdered Over a Trivial Affair.

Near Oakland, Ill., James Winkielblock and D. N. Green quarreled over wages. Winkielblock was armed with a hoe and struck Green, killing him.

From Cabinet to Senate.

Secretary of War Proctor received a letter from Governor Page of Vermont, informing him that he would be appointed to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the resignation of the Hon. George F. Edmunds.

Russia's New Ulaux.

It is reported that the Russian Government is about to place a partial embargo on the export of oats. It is rumored also that wheat for export is to be taxed the equivalent of 2 1/2 cents per bushel.

National League Meeting.

President John Fitzgerald, of the Irish National League of America, has issued a call for a national convention of Irishmen, to meet in Chicago on Thursday and Friday, Oct. 1 and 2.

Died by Violence.

The body of John Moch, Sr., of Secor, Ill., was found beside a railroad track near Bloomington, Ill. He left home, accompanied by a farm hand and it is thought he was murdered.

Severe Fire Loss.

A barn near Hope, Ind., belonging to Mrs. Bighler, containing 1,500 bushels of wheat and nine head of horses, had been destroyed. The loss will be from $25,000 to $30,000. Insurance unknown.

Hotel Guests in Peril.

At Bedford, Ohio, fire broke out in the Bedford Hotel. A number of guests had narrow escapes. The town is without fire protection, and before assistance could arrive from Cleveland the hotel and three or four adjoining buildings had been destroyed. The loss will be from $25,000 to $30,000. Insurance unknown.

The Train's Narrow Escape.

The train's strike of the Lake Erie and Western at Lima, O., is practically over. There is no change in the situation at Lafayette 11.

THE OLD WORLD.

A dispatch from Nordenham, Grand Duchy of Oldenburg, says that a scaffold upon which a large number of men were working collapsed, dragging a lower scaffold to the ground, killing ten men upon the spot and seriously injuring forty others.

PERSONAL NOTES.

At Terre Haute, Ind., Amill Willis died at the age of 92. He was the oldest veteran of the rebellion in Indiana, and one of the first members of the G. A. R.

The dead body of Clark Woodman was found in his room at the Grand Pacific Hotel, Chicago, and many of the circumstances surrounding the affair indicate that death was self-inflicted. But his life was known to have been so full of happiness that his friends are loath to believe that he would voluntarily have relinquished it.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Pennsylvania Republican Convention is at Allentown, Pa., and on the first ballot chose the gentlemen named above as candidates for the respective offices. The convention took a lively interest in the surface indications, but committed itself to no candidate for the Presidency. The platform adopted favors the free coinage of silver.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

The American Wheel Company, the most extensive manufacturer of wheels in the world, is in trouble and to prevent the sacrifice of its property, Noble C. Butler, receiver, has its twelve plants secure from the attacks of creditors. The total assets of the company are $4,105,000, and the liabilities are $1,800,000.

THE GRIMALDO RECORD.

Frank Almy, who murdered Miss Christie Warden, a beautiful young lady of Hanover, N. H., several weeks ago, was discovered the other morning in a haymow on the Warden homestead, near that place. He fired several shots at the men who found him, but was finally captured.

FIRES AND ACCIDENTS.

Large tracts of land in Nevada and Eldorado Counties, California, are being completely denuded of buildings and all kinds of vegetation by forest fires. The losses already aggregate many thousands.

position by a telegram from E. L. Lacy, Controller of the United States Treasury, saying that the compulsory production of accounts and records should be retained in the United States Courts.

Charles Clausen, Chief Grain Inspector in all states, and who will be coming from Minnesota to inspect a large quantity of wheat for 100 cars a day here being received at Minneapolis, in addition to any old wheat that may be coming to market.

While Henry Rohrer, a farmer, was working in a field near Bloomington, Ind., he discovered a silver half-dollar, and after digging succeeded in finding old coins to the amount of $102. There are 142 half-dollars of various dates, none later than 1877, and they were made up of rare Spanish and American coins.

Three distinct shocks of earthquake were felt in St. Louis, Mo. The shocks were preceded by thunder and lightning, but no rain fell. The mercury for the first time just before the shocks, the first of which was severe enough to rock houses and break crockery and windows.

George Hamilton and his wife, of Ironport, Mo., went visiting, leaving at home their three children, Hele, Edith and Emma, aged 8, 4 and 2 years, respectively. When they returned the parents found the three little ones confined in an old chest, where they had died from suffocation.

THE GRIMALDO RECORD.

Frank Almy, who murdered Miss Christie Warden, a beautiful young lady of Hanover, N. H., several weeks ago, was discovered the other morning in a haymow on the Warden homestead, near that place. He fired several shots at the men who found him, but was finally captured.

James Roberts, arrested at New Washington for the Columbus Grove, Ohio, robbery and murder, was fully identified by Cashier Maple and John Crawford, the hardware dealer, who sold him two revolvers...

W. H. Tow, a farmer and politician living near Mitchell, Ind., was fatally wounded by an assassin who shot him from the ambush. Curtis Bass was arrested for the shooting.

Dan Reardon and Enoch Calvin, farmers, occupying adjoining farms near Kansas City, Mo., quarreled. Reardon struck Calvin on the head with a single-tree and killed him.

Three cows have died of Texas fever in St. Louis, Mo. It is supposed the disease was conveyed by the unloading of Southern cattle near the pasture of local cattle.

The sealing schooner Sayward arrived at Victoria, B. C., from Behring Sea with 800 skins. The Sayward is the first vessel of the season to return without being ordered to leave.

Mrs. Rebecca Rubenstein arrived at the New York large office from Odessa, bringing with her twenty-four children. The ages range from 1 to 25 years. The Rubenstein are in good circumstances and will settle in New York.

At Kansas City, Mo., traveling Passenger Agent Baxter, of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad, received in his mail $500 stolen from him at the time a Burlington train was held up and robbed by frontier bandits fifteen years ago.

The eminent tragedian, Mr. Thomas W. Keene, and an excellent company of players will be the attraction at McVicker's Theater, Chicago, commencing Aug. 31. For a long season at the Lyric and Grand, which occasion Mr. Keene will be seen in "Richard III." and "Richard III."

The negro who murdered young Farr near Clinton, Ala., was captured near Verbenia. A crowd took him to the scene of his crime and lynched him. He confessed his guilt.

Jack Bristol, of Tiffin, Ohio, and a jail-look named Crawford were lodged in jail until they could be removed from the place in the murder of John Stokely by Adm. White Mr. and Mrs. John Dexter were attending Stokely's funeral, their 10-year-old son took down a shot-gun. The weapon was discharged, killing the boy's 12-year-old sister.

The negro who murdered young Farr near Clinton, Ala., was captured near Verbenia. A crowd took him to the scene of his crime and lynched him. He confessed his guilt.

At Buffalo, N. Y., Howard D. Earle gave his wife a dose of laudanum, and when she threw it off he held a hammer over her head, forced her to take another dose, and left her to die. A woman in the house later discovered Mrs. Earle's condition and called two doctors, who resuscitated her.

John Tasher, of Chicago, was arrested at New York as he was leaving the steamer Normania, wearing a snakeskin lined overcoat. In the pockets of the coat were six silk handkerchiefs, a gold bracelet and a piece of red wax.

Harry F. Williams, a manufacturer of Chicago, arrived at Wilmington, Del., and identified the man shot dead on the causeway as his brother, James B. Williams, aged 25 years, of Chicago.

Rival clans of moonshiners fought at a mountain church near Greenville, S. C. One man was killed, one mortally and one seriously injured.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

The bankers of Indiana have decided on their course of action in resisting the order of the State Tax Commissioners requiring them to submit lists of their depositors and accounts. They will have test cases carried into the courts. In the meantime they will go to prison, if necessary, before they obey the order. They feel fortified in their

VERMONT'S GALA DAY. FIERCE FIGHT IN CHILL.

THE BATTLE OF BENNINGTON COMMEMORATED. Many Notable People Grace the Occasion—The Event Fittingly Culminates Years of Preparation—Description of the Monument—How It Was Secured.

Historic Bennington.

The ceremony of dedicating the monument erected to commemorate the battle of Bennington, proved that little Vermont town to overflowing. The presence of the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet, as well as the Governors of three States, gave the event more than local interest.

The celebration of a series of events culminating in the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

VERMONT'S GALA DAY. FIERCE FIGHT IN CHILL.

THE BATTLE OF BENNINGTON COMMEMORATED. Many Notable People Grace the Occasion—The Event Fittingly Culminates Years of Preparation—Description of the Monument—How It Was Secured.

Historic Bennington.

The ceremony of dedicating the monument erected to commemorate the battle of Bennington, proved that little Vermont town to overflowing. The presence of the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet, as well as the Governors of three States, gave the event more than local interest.

The celebration of a series of events culminating in the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

VERMONT'S GALA DAY. FIERCE FIGHT IN CHILL.

THE BATTLE OF BENNINGTON COMMEMORATED. Many Notable People Grace the Occasion—The Event Fittingly Culminates Years of Preparation—Description of the Monument—How It Was Secured.

Historic Bennington.

The ceremony of dedicating the monument erected to commemorate the battle of Bennington, proved that little Vermont town to overflowing. The presence of the President of the United States and members of his Cabinet, as well as the Governors of three States, gave the event more than local interest.

The celebration of a series of events culminating in the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

trains arrived the gayly decorated streets were well filled.

Among those prominent in national affairs were the President and his cabinet, ex-Gov. Prescott, of New Hampshire; Gov. Page, of Vermont; Gen. Veazey, of the G. A. R.; Edward J. Phelps, and others was the culmination of a series of events culminating in the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument to the great organized effort made in 1783.

The celebration of the anniversary of the battle of Bennington is to the people of Southern Vermont what the Fourth of July is to the nation. For nearly fifty years there has been more or less preparation for the building of a suitable monument