Incorporated.

Judge Arnold returned from Springfield, Ill., Tuesday, having procured articles of incorporation for the World's Bi-Chloride of Gold club. The articles were adopted at the first regular meeting Tuesday, Major Moore, of Pittsburg, the president presided. This club is destined to become the grandest and largest organization in the world.

The management of the club is vested in a board of seven directors as follows: S. C. Moore, of Pittsburg, Pa.; W. S. Arnold, Janesville, Wis.; Jno. T. Rice, Attica, Ind.; J. D. Kehoe, Maysville, Ky.; J. J. Flynn, Chicago; Wm. Burris, Liberty, Mo. and L. H. Lyons, Lyons Falls, N. Y.

This board of directors met on Wednesday and selected officers for the B. C. of G. C. W. Major Moore, as above stated, was chosen president, and Hon. W. S. Arnold of Wisconsin was elected vice-president, and J. D. Kehoe of Kentucky permanent secretary. At the regular meeting of the club on Tuesday morning, Mr. Geo. B. Smith, who has been secretary of the club since April, resigned to take a high position with the Keeley Co. The resignation was accepted, and on Wednesday morning Mr. Kehoe was duly installed.

The organization of the Bi-Chloride of Gold Club of the World as it now stands is similar in many respects to that of any secret order. The directory is the nucleus of a grand lodge as it is in our club. The members who meet daily and who compose what has been known as the local lodge or club will govern themselves as formerly, the presiding officers now being called chairman and vice-chairman, and are to be elected every two weeks as formerly.

Mr. Kehoe having been elected secretary of the B. C. of G. C. W., the office of president of the local club became vacant. Hr. Jno. J. Flynn, at that time vice-president, was unanimously elected to the chairmanship by a rising vote, and W. E. Morrison of Illinois vice-chairman.

The president of the B. C. of G. C. W. holds his office until the next general convention, which will meet in Dwight next June or September. All clubs in other places will receive their charters from the parent club at this place. In this connection it may be said, that now a permanent organization has been effected the club has power to contract debts, make contracts, can sue or be sued, etc., thus putting the club on a solid foundation.

Monday morning the club was favored with remarks by Mrs. Agnes D'Arcambal, the founder of the great Industrial Association of Detroit. This lady enjoys a well-earned national reputation, and her services have been sought for by governors of many states. The home she has established is backed by such leading divines as Revs. Bishop Foley, James M. Barkley, C. R. Henderson, and Reed Stuart, Lee McAllister, and such solid business men as C.

A. Newcomb, Geo. H. Smith, Baldwin and others. The Home of Industry receives discharged prisoners from penitentiaries and brings them under the best of influence, and eventually secures them positions in which they may lead honorable lives. Mrs. D'Arcambal was in Dwight to visit her son, and it was Dr. Keeley's wish that she speak to the club. In the course of her remarks she said she thought Dr. Keeley was accomplishing a noble work, and that she would willingly do all in her power to assist in the great work. Her remarks were received with much enthusiasm by the club, and afterwards she received the personal thanks of Dr. Keeley and many members of the club. Mrs. D'Arcambal is a lady well advanced in years, of benevolent and motherly appearance, and her good, kind, intelligent face and cheering remarks was as a ray of sunshine in the club room.

Secretary Smith sent in his resignation to the club Tuesday night and it was accepted at the Wednesday morning meeting, after which he was presented with a handsomely engraved watch chain and charm. The latter is emblematic of the club. It is beautiful and Mr. Smith is very proud of the gift. Mr. Smith has made a painstaking secretary and has placed the business of the club in good condition. Mr. Smith has accepted a position in the clerical department of The Leslie E. Keeley Co.

Mr. W. L. Voris, of Louisville, Ky., who has been with us for the past four months, left for San Antonio, Texas, Monday night. Mr. Voris has devoted almost his entire time to our entertainments, and much of their success has been due to his efforts. He will be greatly missed in the club room, and the STAR and HERALD wishes him success wherever he goes.

Bob Harris, an old-time graduate of the Keeley institute, visited the club Friday and made a few encouraging remarks.

Judge Baxter, of Peeskill, N. Y., a former graduate of the institute, and club member, we are glad to announce was re-elected probate judge at the recent election in his state. The Judge thinks the Keeley cure is the best electrotherapeutic remedy he ever tried.

Col. Nate A. Reed was a welcome visitor at the club last week.

Dr. Keeley made a short address to the club Monday morning. A warm welcome always awaits the Doctor.

Dr. Tanner, who has been a familiar figure on our streets for the past three weeks, returned to his home in Paris, Ill., Monday.
