

Pres. Pemberton Talks.

Pres. Pemberton, the funny man of Harry Lawrence's favorite and popular hostelry, said good-bye to the club Saturday morning.

action was taken will be greatly relieved thereby.

Dr. R. D. King, of Missouri, a graduate of two months ago, is in Dwight training preparatory to taking charge of the Keeley institute at St. Joseph.

Mr. Ross, an ex-patient and club member who graduated some months ago, is in Dwight looking up a location, as he expects to start in business at this place.

Mr. Thomas A. Owens, the great and only "Sarah Bernhardt" of the club, was called to the platform to say good-bye to the boys Saturday morning.

A NOTABLE RECEPTION.

The Farewell to "Sarah Bernhardt" the Occasion of an Ovation to Genius and Beauty.

A DISTINGUISHED ASSEMBLAGE.

Leap Year Rules Governed, and It Was Go-As-You-Please--Some Elegant Toilets.

The reception in honor of Mme. Sarah Bernhardt Owens constituted in its several features the most notable society event in the history of bichloride of gold circles at Dwight.

Pres. G. away thoroughly cured and confident he will never drink again. He has been the life of the crowd at Harry Lawrence's, and made many warm friends among the boys at the club.

was an accordion skirt made over from plans and specifications furnished by Slack, the Owensburg modiste.

Miss Edna Rumsey, the noted St. Louis belle, wore the famous solitaire diamond, "The Light of Asia," recently presented by admiring friends.

Miss Georgiana McCormick, another Omaha beauty—a sunset-at-sea brunette of the purest type—wore a Jenness-Miller costume of linoleum, spangled with Climax plug tobacco tin tags.

Miss J. H. Gillespie, Burlington, Ia., was plainly but elegantly attired in a clean shave and Oxford ties.

Miss E. W. Kimball, the New Hampshire belle, wore a five o'clock toilet with close-fitting sleeves of Irish frieze, snap shot jewelry and double ruffles about neck and ankles.

Miss Mattie Gallagher, of Minneapolis—freckles and ornaments of last summer's ice melted over.

Miss Etta Jean, of Mount Vernon, Ill., black velvet basque and decollete shoes.

Miss Charlotte G. McNeill, Chicago—short sealskin saque and German socks.

Miss Harriet B. Cramer, Minneapolis—sleeveless coat of red paint, necklace of poker chips, and corsage bouquet of hypodermic syringes.

Miss M. W. Barkalow, of Omaha, was simply but faultlessly attired in a red jersey and yellow gaiters.

Miss Lillian H. Rousseau, St. Louis—wrought iron jewelry, straw hat and ear laps.

Miss Frederika Farley—sealskin collar and cuffs, paper-weight diamonds.

Miss Allie Douglas, of St. Paul—false hair and base ball shoes.

Miss Edith Colley, Nebraska—brocade gunny sack lounced and scoloped both ways.

Mrs. C. A. Powell, of Butte City—balloon overskirt with overlapping flounce draperies in front.

Miss H. G. Gorin, Chicago—Kate Greenway suit of plaited gingham stuck together with Armour glue.

Miss Geogianna Messer, Chicago—sun-kissed hair, necklace of snowballs.

Miss Mary Ann Kehoe, the Belle of Bourbon, wore a large open-face smile, displaying bichloride of gold fillings in her teeth.

Mrs. Cool. Higgins wore her pants in her boots, and dressed her hair a la Martha Washington.

Miss S. B. Hall, of Minneapolis, attracted much attention. Her form was locked in the em-brace of a white paper overskirt with upper-case trimmings.

A DRAMATIC TREAT.

The Great Act in the Role of Camille.

In the evening a dramatic entertainment was given, in which Mlle. Bernhardt took the leading role.

The play was the comedy-tragedy, burlesque, entitled: "The Last Shot, or Bloodshed in the Woodshed."

General Outlook - Old Miss Higgins Percy, his profligate son - A. T. Morrison Pauline, his daughter - S. Westphal Squire Square - O. M. Shanklin

Mme. Bernhardt appeared in a costume of "sicilienne" which showed her willowy form off to advantage.

Mrs. Judge Richardson, of Wisconsin, wore a Princess gown, draped in folds that strongly suggested that it is Love—"If I am found out I am indeed discovered"—"Mama, the ice man has come"—Finale.

The whole affair was a most enjoyable one throughout, and those present will long remember their last evening with the great actress—SARAH BERNHARDT-OWENS.

Warranted Safe.

Mr. Goodman—I want to buy a nice toy pistol for my little boy. Something handsome but not dangerous, you know.

Mr. Binks—Here's the exact thing you're after, sir. A French duelling pistol—very pretty, and perfectly harmless.—Grip.

The Fine End.

Mrs. Coleman—I'm surprised that your husband earns so little if he works as hard as you say. What does he do?

Mrs. Pentwaeze—"The last thing he did was to figure out how many times a clock ticked in the course of a year.—Epoch.

He'd Made a Discovery.

"Thinkhard—Isn't it curious? His Wife—What?"

"Thinkhard—That although a watch is misplaced or even lost, it is still handy.—Jewelers' Weekly.

A Spirit-Ed Discussion.

"What was the subject of your debate this evening?"

"Whisky."

"Was it well discussed?"

"Yes; most of the members were full of the subject.—Kate Field's Washington.

It Was Late.

I had asked the colored porter at the depot if the train from Savannah was on time, and he replied in the affirmative, writes Mr. Quad in the New York World, when another colored man came up and inquired:

"Did yo' want to know sunthin', sah?"

"I was asking him if the train was on time."

"And what did he say, sah?"

"He said it was."

"Dat's all he knows 'bout it! Dat pussen, sah, ar' employed to sweep out de depot an' fill up de water-cans."

"And you?"

"While I, sah, ar' employed to put de checks on de baggage an' put de baggage on de kyars! Yo' wanted to know if de train was on time, sah. No sah, it ain't, sah. De train is exactly two seconds late, sah!"
