PADDLE YOUR OWN CANOE.

"Voyagers on life's sea,
To yourself be true,
And whate'er your lot may be,
Paddle your own canoe."

"To yourself be true," "and thou can's't not then be false to any man." "Self-love is not so vile a sin as self-neglecting." Then "be wise to-day, 'tis madness to defer." Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for all affections of the lungs and throat. It is likewise a wonderful liver tonic, and invigorator.

All the year round, you may rely upon Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's not like the sarsaparillas, that are said to be good for the blood in March, April and May. The "Discovery" works equally well at all times, and in all cases of blood-taints, or humors, no matter what their name or nature. It cures all Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, as Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Fever-sores, White Swellings, Hip-joint disease and kindred ailments.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier, sold through druggists, because you only pay for the good you get.

Your money is returned if it doesn't benefit or cure you.

Can you ask more?

"I am not Well Enough to Work."

This is a daily event in mills, shops, factories, etc. It is the point where nature can endure no more. Then the poor sufferer, worn with toil and broken in health, stands aside to make room for another. "Quick Consumption" they call it. To this class of women and girls we proffer both sympathy and aid. When those distressing weaknesses and derangements assail you, remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will relieve them. We have on record thousands of such cases that have been restored to vigorous health.

Rather Be Without Bread. XI

BISHOP'S RESIDENCE, MARQUETTE, Mich., Nov. 7, 1889.

The Rev. J. Kossbiel, of above place, writes: I have suffered a great deal, and whenever I now feel a nervous attack coming I take a dose of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic and feel relieved. I think a great deal of it and would rather be without bread than without the Tonic.

Slept More in One Month than Five Years Previous.

SPRING VALLEY, Bureau Co., Ill., Dec., '88.

I was suffering five years from nervousness, and used to get spasms about three times a week; since I commenced using Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I had but one. I slept more the month subsequent to taking the Tonic than I had the five years previous.

STATUES OF HEROES IN MARBLE AND BRONZE.

A Week Made Memorable by the Unveiling of Many Monuments—"High-Water-Mark" Memorial Services at Gettysburg—People of Prominence Present.

Shafts to Their Memory.

Time is lending its halo as the years increase the perspective of those troublous times, times when "troops of heroes undistinguished died," and we of a later generation are arising more and more to that worship, ever the incentive to a fresh love of country, which a later generation showed for Washington, for Wellington, for Blucher, or in the dimmer past for an Arnold Winkelried. On Decoration Day three monuments of especial note were unveiled, and later in the week another was dedicated on the field of the battle of Gettysburg. All of these unveilings this year were made occasions of note, occasions for the outpouring of a younger generation's gratitude and appreciation. At Richmond the men who fought under Gen. A. P. Hill revealed the marble presentment of the Southern hero to the public eye. At Lenox, Mass., the statue of a revolutionary hero, Gen. Paterson, was unveiled, and at Rochester the denizens of that entire section of the State listened to what the orators of the day said in praise of the soldiers who fell in the civil war. Then came the capstone of the week's events, the dedication of the "High-Water Mark" monument at Gettysburg on the very spot where Hall's and Harrow's brigade attacked Longstreet's column on July 3, 1863.

The Rochester Monument.

The monument at Rochester is splendidly designed and is the outcome of a movement started nearly twenty years ago by citizens of that place. It is nearly forty-three feet in height, with a ground base twenty-two feet square. The base of the monument rises about eleven feet above this and the shaft is a magnificent piece of solid granite about ten feet in height. At the four corners of the base are bronze figures emblematic of the four departments of the service—the cavalry, the artillery, the infantry and the navy. These are of heroic size. The sides of the monument bear appropriate bas-reliefs.

SOLDIERS' MONUMENT AT ROCHESTER.

The Hackley Gift Uncovered.

At Muskegon, Mich., the soldiers' monument erected by Charles H. Hackley was unveiled and the entire city turned out in honor of the event. The monument is seventy-five feet high and of pink Rhode Island granite. It rests on a base of several steps, the lower one thirty-four feet square. Upon the four corners of the pedestal are placed bronze figures, each seven feet six inches in height, representing respectively privates in the navy, artillery, infantry, and cavalry service. The shaft is surmounted by a bronze figure of victory holding aloft a flag, the figure fourteen feet in height.

At Richmond, the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the Gen. A. P. Hill monument took on the nature of a State celebration. Col. W. H. Palmer, Gen. Harry Heth, and other officers under Hill raised the fund for this marble and bronze embodiment, and they took a prominent part in the ceremonies. Gen. James A. Walker, of Wytheville, Va., was the orator of the day, and General Harry Heth the Chief Marshal. The widow and two daughters of Gen. Hill attended the unveiling. The Governor and staff had seats of honor. At the unveiling all the civic organizations of the county took part. Among the noted guests were Secretary of War Elkins and Frederick Douglass.

Unveiled at Farmington.

Amid the music of two bands and a large chorus of voices, the eloquence of native orators, and the plaudits of the people, the fine soldiers' monument was unveiled at Farmington, Ill., in the presence of soldiers, sons of veterans, and citizens from all the country around. Farmington, the first town in Fulton County to respond to the call to arms in 1861, was, in 1892, the first to testify its regard for the defenders of the Union. The monument was presented to the soldiers by Mayor Brown on behalf of the citizens, and was dedicated by the local Grand Army post.

At Gettysburg.

"High-Water Mark" Monument receives its name from the old ridge of scrub-oak trees on Cemetery Ridge at Gettysburg, where the Confederate army began its retreat on that fateful July 3. It was the "high-water mark" of the rebellion, and from the moment that Longstreet fell back dates the decline of the Confederate cause. The Monument Association has inclosed the copse of trees with a high iron fence to protect it from relic-hunters. The monument stands on the east side of the copse and was erected by the States of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio,

Michigan and Minnesota. Troops from all of these States fought and repulsed the famous assault. An open bronze book surmounts the monument. It weighs 1,272 pounds and is supported by a pyramid of cannon balls. The left page bears a legend describing the assault and that on the right tells of the repulse. The whole rests on a highly polished plinth and base of Maine and Massachusetts granite with a massive water table of Gettysburg granite. The dedication services excelled in interest any that have yet taken place on the famous battle-field.

In Memory of Paterson.

To Dr. Thomas Egleston is due most of the credit for the splendid monument which was dedicated at Lenox in memory of Gen. John Paterson. He is a grandson of that revolutionary hero and, together with other members of his family, has secured the erection of a fitting monument in the heart of Lenox and near the spot where the hero once resided. The bronze presentment of the General stands upon a granite shaft on which is engraved the story of his active life, of his school-days at Yale, his work in the Provincial Congress of 1774 and 1775 and of his quick response to the call to arms after the battle of Lexington. It tells that he crossed the Delaware with Washington, narrowly escaping death at Saratoga, and was prominent in the council of Monmouth in 1778.

Sending Flowers by Telegraph.

A novel and very remarkable industry has recently been started in New York. It is intended for the convenience of persons who have friends in other cities in this country or abroad to whom they may desire to pay polite attentions. Suppose that a lady of your acquaintance is at present in Vienna and you wish to send her a bouquet. It is very easily managed. You drop into a certain florist's on Broadway and pick out flowers suitable for your posy. Within two hours the bouquet you have selected is delivered to the intended recipient. The florist has an agent or correspondent in Vienna to whom he cables the order, stating the number of flowers of each kind, etc., and the name of the giver is written on a card and attached to the bunch of blossoms before it is conveyed to the address indicated. It is the same with other cities in Europe and America. If your lady love is in San Francisco you can send her a bunch of violets or a bouquet of roses by wire, as it were, within a few minutes.

Matching Teeth.

Perhaps the greatest difficulty that dentists meet with is the matching of false teeth with the natural teeth of their customers. The tooth factories supply dentists with rings upon which are strung thin, short metal bars, each carrying a tooth at its extremity. There are twenty-five of these sample teeth, that run all the way from nearly white to a shade that is almost olive. Sometimes one of the twenty-five usually almost matches the patient's natural teeth, and, at any rate, enables the dentist to match the teeth by application at the factory.

A Sugar-Beet Growers.

Richard Gird is probably the largest individual grower of sugar beets in the world. He has 50,000 acres of ground surrounding Chino, Cal., and this year will have 4,000 acres of it in beets. He is under contract to raise all the beets that are required for the beet-sugar factory at Chino. His contract requires him to raise 5,000 acres of beets next year, and the same average the following year.

A Startling Question.

It was early evening on a mid-winter Cuban steamer—the last hours of the dazzling day. A group of lively people sat upon the upper deck of the steamer, watching the sudden change of the fiery sky into shadows and silver stars. Some of the passengers were talking of home, some singing, and some scanning the far horizon for the sight of the Southern Cross.

Among the group was a richly dressed young woman, to whom the sea and sky and the somber and suggestive change were of little interest; she belonged to the class of self-absorbed people whom Wordsworth so aptly pictures:

A primrose by a river's brim
A yellow primrose was to him,
And it was nothing more.

She evidently belonged to a family that had suddenly become rich, and socially ambitious. She talked to a friend, who sat near her, in a loud voice that everybody could hear, and mentioned the names of well-known political and literary people whose receptions she said she had attended; described the costly style of living of families that made up her "set," as she called them, and by this ill-bred garrulousness had unconsciously pictured herself as leading a superficial, frivolous and wholly selfish life.

Her present motive seemed to be to excite the envy of those around her whom she inferred were less favored than herself.

A quiet-looking middle-aged woman sat near her. She had a reputation for "character." She certainly had intellectual worth and wealth. Her manners were simple and unobtrusive, and the loud talk of the gay traveler amid scenes of such sublimity evidently annoyed her.

A few moments later the young woman turned to her and said:

"I could not live without society. My life is a round of pleasure and social excitement. My nature requires it, and I intend to get the greatest enjoyment I can out of life."

"For yourself, only?"

"Why, yes! Of course I live for myself and to get all the gratification I can."

"Do you?" said the lady, slowly and thoughtfully. "Then will you please tell me what possible excuse you have for existence?"

"Excuse?"

A silence followed. The steamer whistle blew, and a hundred voices answered it from the night-covered hills not far away. The young woman did not speak again, but she will not soon forget the significance of that word—"excuse."

Effect of Little Bonnets.

Women have been ridiculed by men on account of the absurd little bonnets they wear, and the gentle creatures have patiently endured the criticism because they knew the bonnets were becoming. But now it appears that the wealth of lovely hair which the covetous bonnet reveals is really the result in many cases of the very lightness and inefficiency of protection the tiny covering provides. Air and sunshine are really the best promoters of growth and beauty of coloring in the hair, and if men would wear a crownless hat or perforated hat, instead of shutting the hair up in an unventilated tunnel every time they go into the air, there would be fewer bald pates in the front rows. Revenge is sweet. Astists tell us that woman's hair is growing more beautiful in texture and color, while every one knows a man past forty without a bald spot is rare.—New York Sun.

Way Off Color.

The hue of health! ho can mistake it? The white brow, the deepened tint of the cheek, these assoc ated with brightness and animation of the eye, a cheerfulness of the countenance, are infallible indicia that the liver is performing its functions actively, and that consequently digestion and the bowels are undisturbed. If, however, the complexion and eyeballs have a saffron tint, or the face is drawn and void of sprightliness and animation, the biliary gland is almost certain to be out of order. Rectify the difficulty speedily, thoroughly, with the paramount antibilious specific, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which promptly remedies not only the above outward and visible signs of biliousness, but also the sick headaches, constipation, vertigo, for upon the tongue, nausea, sour breath, and pains through the right side which characterize it. The liver is always seriously involved in malaria, for which the Bitters is a sovereign specific. This medicine remedies with equal promptitude and completeness, kidney complaint, dyspepsia, rheumatism, and nervousness.

Was Bunyan a Gypsy?

In the St. Mary Magdalene's (Launceston) parish register (vol. 1, fol. 74) is this entry, in 1586: "Marche the ivth daie was christened Nicholas, sonne of James Bownie, an Egiptian by calyge." This F. H. Groome offers as a fresh link in the chain of evidence that John Bunyan was a gypsy. "Egiptia," he says, is evidently "Egyptian," and "Bownia," he asks, may it not be Bownian? If so, have we not here a veritable gypsy Bunyan? It is a cry from Launceston, in Cornwall, to Elstow, in Bedfordshire, he adds, were nomads not in the case, and in time the interval between the baptism and the birth of the "inspired tinker" is but forty-two years.

The celerity of telegraphic communications was well demonstrated during the recent Oxford-Cambridge boat race. The green boat, as it steamed up the river, paid out a cable during its entire course, and at every point in the race the news was immediately flashed by means of this line direct to London.

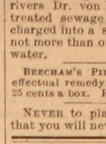
Thousands of Dollars



Mr. S. G. Derry.

I spent trying to find a cure for Salt Rheum, which I had 13 years. Physicians said they never saw so severe a case. My legs, back and arms were covered by the humor. I was unable to lie down in bed, could not walk without crutches, and had to have my arms, back and legs bandaged twice a day. I began to take and soon I could see a change. The flesh became more healthy, the sores soon healed, the scales fell off, I was soon able to give up bandages and crutches, and a happy man I was. S. G. DERRY, 45 Bradford St., Providence, R. I.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

TAKING COLD.

If you have taken cold during the last few weeks with its wet weather, steady rains, great floods, accompanied by its sea of mud, you should be more than ordinarily careful. A cold at such a time is apt to settle on the kidneys and produce future trouble in the shape of rheumatism, pleurisy, pneumonia and other diseases. These all come from disordered kidneys. A cold settles upon them. They fail to take the uric acid from the blood, and the result is the diseases enumerated above, all of which come from the kidneys in the first place. REID'S GERMAN COUGH AND KIDNEY CURE will cure all troubles of this sort. It is the most perfect remedy for all maladies that come from a cold that was ever given to the public. It contains no poison, but it will heal any disease that affects the excretory organs—the lungs, the kidneys or the skin. Ask your druggist for it, and do not let him give you anything else.
