
They poulticed her feet and poulticed her head,
And blistered her back till 'twas smarting and red,
Tried tonics, elixirs, pain-killers and salves,
Though grandma declared it was nothing but "nerves;"
And the poor woman thought she must certainly die,
Till "Favorite Prescription" she happened to try.
No wonder its praises so loudly they sing,
She grew better at once and was well in a week.

The torturing pains and distressing nervousness which accompany, at times, certain forms of "female weakness," yield like magic to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and adapted to the delicate organization of woman. It allays and subdues the nervous symptoms and relieves the pain accompanying functional and organic troubles.

It's a legitimate medicine—an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a positive remedy for "female weaknesses" and ailments. All functional disturbances, irregularities, and derangements are cured by it. There's nothing like it in the way it acts—there's nothing like it in the way it's sold. It's guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or the money paid for it is promptly refunded.

DECIDED TO CONTEST.

NEW YORK ANTI-HILL MEN ORGANIZE.

A Delegation Favorable to Grover Cleveland Chosen to the Chicago Convention—Hill Convention Electoral Nominees Indorsed.

Convention at Syracuse.

A Syracuse (N. Y.) dispatch says: The "dandelions" are on top to-day, as much as Hill was on top in February. The purpose of that early convention was to give Hill a grand send-off. It was believed by him and his near friends that a declaration by the Democracy of New York in his favor would be the initiative of a movement that would land him in the White House. Subsequent events proved the fallacy of this promise. Hill was short-sighted, and the ladder on which he expected to climb to the chief magistracy gave way under his weight.

When the convention of to-day was called, Hill was politically prosperous. Since then Hill's decadence has occurred, and Cleveland's rise into new prominence has been equally quick. The conditions to-day are different from those under which the call was issued. In fact, they were called into being by the February convention, and a pretext was given for the gathering of the delicious now. The purpose of the action taken will probably drive both Cleveland and Hill out of the field and leave the way clear to nominate Russell or Pattison from the East or Boies or Palmer from the West. Unprejudiced political observers of long experience predict that the nomination will not come from the State of New York.

Everyone concedes the eminent respectability of the delegates that assembled, but old hands at the business of politics call it a mob that could not carry on a campaign because of the lack of working element. Such comments, it should be stated, come mostly from Hill lookers-on. Chairman Kernan's speech as delivered was not at all the speech that had been mailed by the Press Association. The most savage of his thrusts at Hill did not appear in the written pages. There was no mention of him by name. He was ignored as tot illy as Cleveland was in the convention of February, which Kernan dubbed "the snowy-locks convention," but Hill's administration and his control o' the party were scored without mercy. "The delegates of the February convention," he declared, "will represent what a few men thought then, but the delegates from this convention to Chicago will represent what the people want now." When he reached the climax of Cleveland, and for the first time mentioned his name, it was the Blaine convention of 1884 over again as much as any State convention could be with smaller numbers. The delegates sprang to their feet, mounted chairs, and shouted themselves hoarse. Fairchild and Grace, from the platform, started the waves of applause with their umbrellas, and it was at least ten minutes before the speaker could go on. Another outbreak came when he made a demand that Cleveland should be nominated. This was a step beyond the policy of the most conservative, but apparently every one joined in the applause. The way was then open, he said, for a "Democratic disputes will end at Chicago. New York Democrats will accept the decision of the court as final." This sentiment was cheered to the echo, and it showed that the delegates were still loyal Democrats. The platform adopted contains declarations against Republican fraud, the tariff, and free silver.

RESULT OF A DRINK CURE.

Son of a Prominent Kansas Man Passes Away in Violent Spasms.

George Bradshaw, son of a prominent resident at Wichita, Kan., died from causes alleged to have been brought about by the treatment he was taking for the cure of inebriety. He entered what is known as the "Huntsinger Institute," and soon after taking his first shot his mind became affected. He was treated again and that evening had spasms. His friends saw the physicians in charge, but they advised a continuance of the treatment and gave Bradshaw three shots again. About midnight, after an evening of wild raving, Bradshaw was again taken with spasms which lasted until daylight, and a little later he died. His friends will make a full investigation.

MAY'S BIG RECORD OF RAIN.

Average Precipitation for Twenty Years Nearly Doubled in Chicago.

The United States Weather Bureau records show that during the month of May rain fell in Chicago on 15 days more than twenty-one days, and, as is believed by 99 per cent. of the population, the precipitation was rather heavy every time. The rainfall for the month was 6.77 inches, a most remarkable record even for Chicago. A normal May precipitation for the last twenty years is 3.82 inches, but the May just ended is away far in the rear, not quite doubling the ordinary allowance.

At Austin, Texas, a $50,000 damage suit has been filed against Governor Hogg by Charles T. Bonner, of Tyler, on the charge of defamation of character. It is alleged that Governor Hogg called Bonner "a professional liar" in a campaign speech. Bonner stands high at the Texas bar for integrity and honesty. The case is attracting much attention.

A Generous Hero.

What one likes in Archibald Forbes' "Barracks, Bivouacs, and Battles" is the air of freedom, the robustness, the jauntiness of these episodes in the pageant of war. Men do brave deeds without parade and without false humility, but with just a touch of assumed carelessness. Of course, no man risks his life without knowing, unless he is fond of it—and in that case there is no special merit in running after death. But really to enjoy life to the utmost, and put it all in peril for a sentiment or through ambition to wear a bauble of a cross that means honor—that takes nerve, and to do it with a smile, as though it were one of the polite conventions of life which are expected of every gentleman, requires more of that physical imperturbableness which we call "nerve"—it demands a steadfast spirit.

So in these sketches, when we read of Lord William Beresford riding into the very face of death to snatch a wounded sergeant from the oncoming Zulus, we feel admiration for his humanity. And when we read that the wounded man refused to go with him because it would endanger two lives instead of bringing inevitable death to one—we say he also is a brave man. But when it is added that Lord William "swore with clenched fist that he would punch the wounded man's head if he did not allow his life to be saved," the touch of humor brings the whole scene within the range of our sympathies. It is not a play any longer with actors of another race, but a bit of ordinary, every-day life made ideal. Then we say: "Here is a hero."

Then a third man appears, Irish Sergeant O'Toole, and he shoots down the pursuing Zulus, who are at the very heels of the overburdened horse, and the three comrades together at last reach safety.

By and by the British troops sail home, but the news of the brave deed had long preceded them. Lord William is summoned to Windsor to receive the Victoria cross. Surely he has earned it doubly, but there is room for even more "stuff" in such a hero. He will have no honor that he cannot share with O'Toole, and the Queen knows valor when she sees it and gives two Victoria crosses.

Then we say: "Here is a hero who is not only humane and brave but generous and modest, and withal he has a sense of humor. Why, he is not what the books call a hero—he is a man, every inch of him, and I would like to take his hand and tell him so."—Life.

It Was Made for Washington.

Few people know that away down under the floor of the rotunda in the Capitol is a sarcophagus originally built for the remains of George Washington. It is two stories below the crypt, which is one floor below the tiling of the rotunda, and is exactly in the center of the big building. The ground plan of the sarcophagus is in the form of a cross, and the floor and walls are of brick and stone many feet thick. It is approached by a narrow passageway which strangers might strive hopelessly to find. The passageway leads directly into the sarcophagus, and the cross section is about twelve feet long by six feet wide. The architect designed it specially as the last resting place of George Washington, but the associations of Mount Vernon have served to retain the body of the father of his country in the beautiful tomb by the side of the Potomac. At present the sarcophagus at the Capitol is used as a store-room for heavy, cloth-covered bier utilized for Congressional funerals.

An Annoying Habit.

Biting the nails shows the force of mere habit, and though no doubt mainly due to some bad state of the nervous system, it is rather a narcotic than a nervine effect, and so it is not to be compared to the alcohol, tobacco, or opium habit. Though not as disgraceful, it is certainly very annoying to friends, and it can be broken up, as narcotic habits can be, by the gradual reduction plan. We have just read an account of how a lady persistently let alone and carefully cultivated to better shape first one finger nail, and then another, until there was only one suffering finger, and it took months of the most persistent effort to let that alone.

JOHN H. WOODBURY'S PARLORS

A Description of the Wonders Performed by the Leading Dermatologist of America. Ill-shaped Ears and Noses Perfected Daily. Facial Expressions, Hard Lines and Wrinkles Softened by Electrolysis. Marks Disappear from the Touch of His Magic Hand.

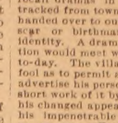
Physicians throughout the country are gradually beginning to give more and more attention to the subject of dermatology. A few years ago it was a very popular belief that a birthmark could by no possible means be eradicated from the skin. We have only to go back a very short time to recall dramas in which the villain was tracked from town to town and eventually handed over to outraged justice through a scar or birthmark left unheeded by his identity. A drama built on such a foundation would meet with well-merited ridicule to-day. The villain would not be such a fool as to permit a facial disfigurement to advertise his personality. He would make short work of it by having it removed, and his changed appearance would then prove an impenetrable disguise. Even the case of a person afflicted with a mortifying birthmark, with pimple or red nose, could have any one of these disfigurements completely removed. The progress of dermatology has not advanced at a snail's pace. It has run the race of the hare, but has not paused within sight of the goal. Able physicians have brought to this science all the wealth of their experience and knowledge, and if any one suffers to-day through facial blemish, it is his or her own fault.



OVERAGING ON THE SIMPLE FACE.

Foremost among the scientists who have made undeniable triumphs in dermatology is John H. Woodbury, whose magnificently furnished parlors at No. 125 West Forty-second street, New York city, are daily filled with people who apply to him for relief from birthmarks, moles, superfluous hair on the face and kindred disfigurements. Prof. Woodbury is really the dermatologist of to-day. He is the inventor of Dermafrore, which is sold to physicians only. He is also the inventor of Woodbury's Facial Soap for the skin, scalp, and complexion, which is for sale by all druggists. He also the inventor of several facial appliances, which are patented at Washington. There are eminent medical practitioners in New York who stand in the front rank as specialists in rheumatism, consumption, etc., but there is none holding a higher place among those treating skin diseases than Prof. Woodbury. Many methods of removing facial disfigurements were tried before Prof. Woodbury solved the riddle. This physician treated the blood, this one used his scalpel, and another a useless powder. Prof. John H. Woodbury revolutionized the science. He advanced the extremely radical opinion that birthmarks or moles should be treated by penetration: that they could be reduced to such a degree that they would take on a scab, and that when the scab fell the birthmark, or whatever the disfigurement might be, would necessarily disappear. This was a sweeping declaration, and old forms and practices were shattered by it. Yet it was a true solution of the riddle. He uses no scalpel, nothing more than a harmless solution which changes the birthmark into an ordinary scab. Many of the most eminent society people of the metropolis, who had been for years debarred from public life through a disfigurement of the face, testify every day to the success of the Professor's methods. There is no physician in this country who has not some time or other attempted to remove a facial blemish, but only he who has tried can show such a record of uninterrupted success in so doing as Prof. Woodbury. He does not keep a record of all the epistles he receives testamentary of his skill as a dermatologist. Here is one letter, however, from a prominent New Jersey banker, which is worthy of especial consideration, since it shows the deep interest of the writer in the physician who cured him. The banker, after reciting, like hundreds of other correspondents, how he had been cured of several very ugly moles on his face, suggests that the Professor write a book on Dermatology. He says he could not do a better thing for humanity. His volume would prove public interest in the great science, and those who have for years believed that they must live all their life with a crimson birthmark on their face would take courage and no doubt eventually be relieved of their misfortune. The banker is not, however, aware that Prof. Woodbury has already written a very instructive treatise of 145 pages on the subject, and which any one may obtain by sending 10 cents to his address. Prof. Woodbury's fame has now become so well established that he is busy with his patients day in and day out and has given no further time to literary work. He is the President of the Dermatological Institute, No. 125 West Forty-second street, New York city, which is the largest establishment of the kind in the world.

The Real Sufferers.

In Ledyard, Conn., a Miss Mary A. C. Avery was struck by lightning during a thunder shower while sitting in a carriage under a shed with her father and brother; she toppled over from her seat, and during more than half an hour was in terrible convulsions. Her resuscitation was thought almost miraculous, but she had no recollection or consciousness of having suffered any pain from the stroke. This would tend to show that the contortions of the victim of cholera are not evidences of conscious pain. Probably the first thing the electric current does is to destroy the faculty of sensation. The real suffering caused by such executions is among those who hear or read about it.

No Superhuman Strength, but Natural Vigor.

To attain the muscularity of the individual who snaps steel shackles like twigs by simply working his arms to and fro, for a few days acquire a reasonable amount of physical power and constitutional energy, to eat, sleep, and digest well, to possess an equable, quiet nervous system, is possible to the nervous, enfeebled, and dyspeptic invalid who begins and purshes a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The fruition of his hopes is not remote either. Speedily felt are the tonic effects of the inimitable invigorant, and there are no long intervals than prompt of attainment. The bowels, the liver, the stomach, the kidneys—all co-operate, under the benignant influence of this comprehensive medicine, to insure those stable guarantees of health, harmony, regularity, vigor of action. Never was there discovered a medicinal motor better calculated to actuate and keep moving the main springs of healthful vitality. Use it for malaria, rheumatism, indigestion, biliousness, kidney complaint, la grippe.

"I never see a tree fall without a pang," wrote a contributor; but the sentence was printed: "I never seen a tree fall without a bang."—Truth.

Blood Poisoning

Mrs. M. E. O'Fallon.

Mrs. Mary E. O'Fallon, a very intelligent lady of Pigeon, Ga., was poisoned while assisting physicians at an autopsy 5 years ago, and soon terrible ulcers broke out on her head, arms, tongue and throat. Her hair all came out. She weighed but 78 pounds, and saw no prospect of help. At last she decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and at once improved; could soon get out of bed and walk. She says: "I became perfectly cured by and am now well. I weigh 128 pounds, eat well and do the work for a large family."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HOOD'S PILLS should be in every family medicine chest. Once used, always preferred.

That Tired Feeling.

You can not always tell what may be its cause. Possibly it may be due to change of season, climate or life; possibly to overwork or overstudy, to mental suffering, nervousness, or various bodily ailments. But there is no mistaking its effects. You know you feel "almost tired to death," without strength to do anything; ambition seems to be all gone, and in its place indifference to how or when things are done—an indescribable languor and weakness. You have no appetite, do not care about food, and only eat because it is the hour for eating, or from force of habit.

This must be stopped. Your condition must be changed at once, or like a ship drifting with the inward tide, you will soon be dashed upon the rocks of incurable disease and death. Rouse the torpid kidneys and liver, tone the digestive organs, create a new appetite, purify and vitalize the impoverished and sluggish blood, cure the headache and overcome all the prostrating effects of That Tired Feeling by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just what you need, and to delay taking it is unwise.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by druggists, $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

"August Flower"

"One of my neighbors, Mr. John Gilbert, has been sick for a long time. All thought him past recovery. He was horribly emaciated from the inaction of his liver and kidneys. It is difficult to describe his appearance and the miserable state of his health at that time. Help from any source seemed impossible. He tried your August Flower and the effect upon him was magical. It restored him to perfect health to the great astonishment of his family and friends." John Quibell, Holt, Ont.

BE CAREFUL.

More deep-seated colds, coughs and similar maladies are caught in the spring, especially in wet weather such as we have been having, than at any other time. When you do take cold it is harder to be cured, because in almost all cases it attacks the kidneys, disables them, and thus lays the foundation for a long train of evils. When you are thus afflicted do not delude yourself with the idea that with the advent of warm weather you will soon be well, but get a bottle of Reid's German Cough and Kidney Cure and take it freely. Do not be afraid of it. It contains no poison, and there is nothing in it that would harm even the feeblest, but it is the best remedy in the world for all maladies that affect the excretory organs. Get it of any dealer, but don't allow him to give you anything else in place of it.
