A MAD POET

rushed into a newspaper office recently, and threatened to "clean out" the establishment, because they printed his verses wrong. Said he: "I wrote, 'To dwell forever in a grot of peace,' and you idiots put it 'a pot of grease.'" The mortified editor presented him with a vial of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, a year's subscription and an apology.

The little "Pellets" positively cure sick and nervous headache, biliousness, costiveness, and all derangements of the stomach, bowels and liver. It's a large contract, but the smallest things in the world do the business—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They're the smallest, but the most effective. They go to work in the right way. They cleanse and renovate the liver, stomach and bowels thoroughly—but they do it mildly and gently. You feel the good they do—but you don't feel them doing it.

They're the cheapest pill you can buy, because they're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

You only pay for the good you get.

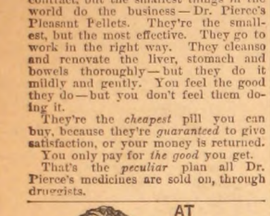
That's the peculiar plan all Dr. Pierce's medicines are sold on, through druggists.



THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

Get a bottle of Vegetable Compound, and take it faithfully, as I have done. I've been through this thing myself, but am never troubled now. Do as I tell you, my friend."

Prudent women who best understand their ailments find in the Compound a remedy for all their distressing ills.

It removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, restores digestion, and invigorates the system.

PROHIBITION PLATFORM.

Declaration of Principles Laid Down at Cincinnati.

The platform, as it was finally adopted, is as follows:

The Prohibition party in national convention assembled, acknowledging Almighty God as the source of all true government and His law as the standard to which all human enactments must conform to secure the blessings of peace and prosperity, presents the following declaration of principles:

Prohibition of Liquor Traffic.

The liquor traffic is a foe to civilization, the arch enemy of popular government, and a public nuisance. It is the citadel of the forces that corrupt politics, promote poverty and crime, degrade the nation's home life, thwart the will of the people, and deliver our country into the hands of rapacious class interests. All laws that under the guise of regulation legalize and protect this traffic or make the government share in its ill-gotten gains are vicious in principle and powerless as a remedy.

We declare anew for the entire suppression of the manufacture, sale, importation, exportation and transportation of alcoholic liquors as a beverage by Federal and State legislation, and the full powers of the government should be exerted to secure this result. We pay party that fails to recognize the dominant nature of this issue in American politics is undeserving of the support of the people.

Woman Suffrage.

No citizen should be denied the right to vote on account of sex, and equal labor should receive equal wages without regard to sex.

As to Money.

The money of the country should be issued by the general government, only and in sufficient quantities to meet the demands of business and give employment to the full employment of labor. To this end an increase in the volume of money is demanded, and no individual or corporation should be allowed to make any profit through its issue. It should be made a legal tender for the payment of all debts, public and private. Its volume should be fixed at a definite sum per capita and made to increase with our increase in population.

The Tariff.

Tariff should be levied only as a defense against foreign countries which levy tariff upon or bar out our products from their markets, duties being incidental. The only means necessary to an economical administration of the Government should be raised by levying a tariff on what the people possess instead of upon what we consume.

Control of Railroads.

Railroad, telegraph, and other public corporations should be controlled by the Government in the interest of the people, and no higher charges allowed than necessary to give fair interest on the capital actually invested.

Immigration Laws.

Foreign immigration has become a burden upon industry, one of the factors in depressing wages and causing discontent, therefore our immigration laws should be revised and strictly enforced. The time of residence for naturalization should be extended, and no naturalized person should be allowed to vote until one year after he becomes a citizen.

Alien Land-Owners.

Non-residents should not be allowed to acquire land in this country, and we favor the limitation of individual and corporate ownership of land. All unearned grants of lands to railroad companies or other corporations should be reclaimed.

The Recent Lynchings.

Years of inaction and treachery on the part of the Republican and Democratic parties have resulted in the present reign of mob law, and we demand that every citizen be protected in the right of trial by confettional tribunals.

One Day of Rest.

All men should be protected by law in their right to one day's rest in seven.

Favoring Arbitration.

Arbitration is the wisest and most economical and humane method of settling national differences.

Speculation in Margins.

Speculation in margins, the cornering of grain, money and stocks, and the formation of pools, trusts, and combinations for the arbitrary advancement of prices should be suppressed.

Pensions.

We pledge that the Prohibition party, if elected to power, will ever grant just pensions to disabled veterans of the Union army and navy, their widows and orphans.

The School Question.

We stand unequivocally for the American public school, and oppose all appropriation of public funds for sectarian schools. We declare that only by united support of such common schools, taught in the English language can we hope to become and remain a homogeneous and harmonious people.

Arraignment of the Old Parties.

We arraign the Republican and Democratic parties as false to the standards and principles of their founders; as faithless to the principles of the illustrious leaders of the past to whom they do homage with the lips; as recreant to the "higher law," which is as inflexible in political affairs as in personal life; and as no longer embodying the aspirations of the American people or inviting the confidence of enlightened, progressive patriotism. Their protest against the subjection of the moral issues of the day is a confession of their own moral degeneracy. The declaration of an eminent authority that political purity is "the one conspicuous failure of American politics" follows as a natural consequence of such degeneracy, and both are alike guilty. Each protests when out of power against the infraction of the civil-service laws, and each in power violates those laws in letter and spirit. Each professes fealty to the interests of the toiling masses, but both covertly truckle to the money power in their administration of public affairs. Even the tariff issue as represented in the Democratic Mills and the Republican McKinley bill is no longer treated by them as an issue upon great and divergent principles of government, but is a mere cutting of differences between class interests. The attempt in many States to wrest the Australian ballot system from its true purpose and defeat by its means the rights of a extremely difficult for new parties to exercise the rights of surface is an outrage upon popular government. The complicity of both parties in the frauds in the slums and their assiduous courting of the liquor power and subserviency to the money power has resulted in placing those powers in the position of practical arbiters of the destinies of the nation. We renew our protest against these hurtful tendencies and invite all citizens to join us in the upbuilding of a party that has shown in five national campaigns that it prefers victory and defeat to an abandonment of the claims of justice, sobriety, personal rights, and the protection of American homes.

Italian Boots.

Italian boot factories are manufacturing boots of a single pattern. The heels and soles are not sewn on, but riveted to the uppers in such a way that if the heels are worn down on one side they can be taken off and turned round. Worn soles can be removed in the same way and new ones put on.

The People of Europe.

The most densely peopled continent is Europe. The number of people in Europe is known with a great degree of accuracy. There are about 360,000,000 people; and the continent which accommodates all these people is so small that there are upon it an average of ninety-three people to the square mile.

Coin in a Potato.

A gentleman in Ireland recently, on cutting open a potato at dinner, found in the center a half sovereign, around which the vegetable had grown. Though discolored it was in a good state of preservation, and is now a pretty ornament to a watch chain.

NO MAN is born into this world whose work is not born with him; there is always work, and tools to work withal, for those who will, and blessed are the heavy hands of toil.

"BURGLAR-PROOF GLASS" is among the late inventions. The domestic window cleaner would be more interested in dirt-proof glass.

FOSTER'S FORECASTS.

WHAT WE MAY EXPECT IN THE WAY OF WEATHER.

A Storm Wave Will Cross the Great Central Valleys from July 12 to 14, Reaching the Eastern States About the 15th.

Meteorological Matters.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm waves to cross the continent from June 30 to July 4 and July 6 to 10, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about the 10th, cross the Western mountains by close of the 11th, the great central valleys from 12th to 14th and the Eastern States about the 15th.

The path of this storm will be well to the north, very hot weather south of it along the middle and southern latitudes, and it will be at its greatest force from 13th to 15th, after passing east of the Mississippi.

A wave of cooler and refreshing weather will move eastward, crossing the Western mountains about the 13th, the great central valleys about the 15th, and the Eastern States about the 17th.

The 1892 drouth, which made its appearance in spots during April and May, will have spread to about its greatest dimensions by the 15th of July, and a fair estimate may then be made as to what will be the effect on crops. The turning point of the drouth will be about the middle of July, but many places will not be relieved till late in August.

I have no reason to change my estimate made in 1891, that our greatest crops will be found along and north of the fortieth parallel, while many local crop failures will be found in the southern part of the United States. Counties of more than 2,000 feet elevation were not generally included among those where crops would fail.

Vegetation and Coal.

Newberry, the geologist, says that quite a number of foreign boulders and other transported rock are found in the coal veins of Ohio. These boulders, in order to be in the coal vein, must have been deposited there while it was forming. How could these numerous foreign rocks get into a coal vein being formed of vegetable decay?

The only means by which foreign boulders and other rock are transported is in deep water by ice or roots of trees, and to have this deep water and the forming coal vein at the same time is an impossibility. To form coal from vegetation there must be dry or swamp land afterward covered with water, and with these conditions the boulders are found on top of the coal veins. But, as Newberry says, there are numerous cases where these rocks that have come long journeys are found imbedded in the coal vein, completely immersed in coal.

Remember that these coal-imbedded boulders are not otherwise found in the vicinity of the coal veins, but are generally recognized as belonging to rock formations that lie hundreds of miles away to the northward. Now let some advocate give, if he can, any reasonable means by which these foreign stones got to the forming coal-beds while vegetation was growing.

Evidently this proves that the coal veins were laid down in deep water, where coal-producing vegetation cannot grow, and indicates that our coal-beds came from sources similar to those from whence are the other formations of the earth.

Prof. Vail says that a boulder weighing 200 pounds, found in the middle of a coal seam is now in the museum at Columbus, Ohio, and is an irrefutable evidence that the coal vein from which it was taken finished its formation after the boulder fell into it and that foreign boulders thus imbedded are often found at Nelsonville and Carbondale, Ohio.

Numerous instances are known where clay seams no thicker than a knife blade are found parting two coal veins, no vegetable fossils in the clay and a foot or more of coal above this clay seam. How could the vegetation exist to form these heavy coal veins above that thin as paper clay seam?

Is it not far more reasonable that the coal fell from above into the sea, and after a portion of it settled, a great river, at its flood, muddied the water, the clay quickly setting on the first coal vein and after that the carbon that still floated in the waters settled on the clay ocean?

Carbon forms in the stove-pipe or the chimney from smoke, because the oxygen of the atmosphere does not reach the smoke in sufficient quantity to combine with it and form carbonic acid gas. But the greater portion of the carbon which is carried up in the form of smoke forms the gas by uniting with oxygen. This carbonic acid gas is the food on plant life, and although it is not combustible—will not burn—it furnishes the carbon of vegetable growth, and is the substance of vegetation which gives its fuel properties.

Carbonic acid gas also unites with, or dissolves in water, in the proportion of 2 volumes of gas to 3 of water. There are, therefore, two ways by which carbon in the atmosphere may return to solids of the earth; one through vegetation and one through water. Chemists tell us that there is now about one part of carbonic acid gas in our atmosphere to 2,500 parts of other matter.

The utterly overthrow the accepted theory of the origin of coal, all that is necessary is to show how the carbon could have reached and remained for a time suspended in our atmosphere without destroying all animal and vegetable life, and this I will endeavor to do when I am done with the negative side of the subject and proceed to the discussion of its affirmative.

Crocodile Duel.

An Englishman living on the island of Sumatra had been down to the mouth of the Batu Bara River, to receive from the Singapore steamer the cask in which he paid the coolies who worked for him. He had four thousand dollars, weighing about two hundred weight, in a box balanced in the canoe, and with himself and two paddlers aboard there was, he says, "barely two inches freeboard."

I was very drowsy and was nearly asleep, when a cry of "Crocodile!" brought me to a sitting position, and about fifty yards ahead I saw a mass of foam and spray surrounding some black object, which in a few seconds I discovered to be two immense crocodiles in deadly combat.

The bowman let his paddle go in his fright, and we were drifting right down upon the struggling monsters, a touch from which would have sunk us. When the steersman, by desperate efforts, managed to alter our course, so that we cleared them by a few feet only.

As a ugly sight it was, the huge jaws, with their hooked ivory tusks, interlocked, the fore-claws anchored in each other's sides, the stiff, armor-clad bodies writhing like a lizard's, and the hideous, stony green eyes seeming to start from their sockets.

It was not a moment for accurate estimate, but I am sure that either of them must have been considerably longer than our canoe, namely, sixteen feet. Just as we passed, one of them succeeded for the moment in forcing his antagonist under water, and as he did so struck such a blow on the water with his tail that it sounded like the report of a duck-gun, completely drenching us with spray, so that I thought for the instant we were swamped.

The strong current, however, carried us quickly clear, and for ten minutes we watched them rolling over and over in a cloud of foam, now deeply reddened, until they suddenly sank and we saw them no more. The men's nerves were so shaken that they saw imaginary crocodiles in every log, and finally upset the canoe about a mile from home, luckily in only two feet of water.

They claim they are compelled to do this in justice alike to the public and to themselves, and have therefore given directions to their attorney to prosecute in every case where a publisher makes use of misleading announcements.

Bishops on Horseback.

The Bishops of the Church of England, although fond of horses, appear to be very sorry equestrians, for no less than three of the spiritual peers—namely: the Lord Bishops of London, Exeter, and Sodor-and-Mann, are suffering from the effects of falls from their horses. The "spill" of the Bishop of London was an exceptionally severe one.

It may possibly be remembered that one of the most famous falls of the Church of England—namely: Dr. Wilberforce, Lord Bishop of Winchester—died from the effects of a fall from his horse; or, rather, he was killed on the spot, his neck being broken. He was one of the most popular and worldly divines of his day, and used to go by the name of "Soapy Sam," on account of his extremely suave and courtly demeanor. Being asked one day by a pert young lady why he was called "Soapy Sam," he wittily informed her that it was because he had been so very successful in keeping his hands clean.—New York Recorder.
