Brother Stuck, of the Odell Gazette and Reporter, thinks that editors get out of sorts and cranky during dog days, if they don't have a vacation, and he seems to prove it. Its all right, call an editor a crank but when a man proves it, that's different. Well, it's right, fishing goes.
Dr. Schram, who has been associated with Dr. Oakslett for some months, left this week for Cleveland, Ohio, where he will practice his profession. The doctor is a genial gentleman and a good physician and made many friends in this community, who wish him success in his new field of practice.
Kansas is again made the center of attraction for the grain, produce and stock markets of the country, on account of an enormous growth and yielding of her productive soil. There has been a rainfall in the last month, and especially the last few days which will be a repetition of her record as a great agricultural and wealth producing state. The yield of her natural products this year is hailed with great delight by the entire people of the country and does almost surpass the yield of 1889 and 1891. But a greater crop than 1889 hardly be contemplated in any agricultural county.
