

Restoring the Drowned.
 Prof. Laborde's simple method of restoring life in persons apparently drowned has been recently tried in France with signal success. The other day at a watering place in Normandy two bathers, a young man and a boy, who were unable to swim, went out of their depth and disappeared. They were brought up, however, and were taken to the village. Two doctors were sent for, but the young man gave no sign of life, and they declared he was dead. M. Laborde, who was fishing at an hour's distance, came up as soon as he heard of the accident. He examined the body and found that the extremities were cold and the heart had stopped. Then taking hold of the root of the tongue he drew it violently forward, giving a succession of jerks in order to excite the reflex action of the breathing apparatus, which is always extremely sensitive. At the end of a few minutes a slight hiccough, showing that the patient was alive, was admitted to the usual restorative means. Prof. Laborde, in extreme cases, rubs the chest with towels soaked in hot and nearly boiling water, although the skin is blistered by this.

G. A. R. Encampment, Washington, D. C., Sept. 20, 1892.
 The Monon Route to Cincinnati, in connection with the Chesapeake and Ohio Route to Washington, is the only route of the Department of State of Illinois. Special trains will leave Dearborn Station Saturday night and Sunday morning, Sept. 17 and 18, arriving at Washington the following day. The route passes all the famous battle-fields of Virginia via Gordonsville. On the return tickets will be honored from Richmond, passing Lynchburg and Appomattox. Only $2 Washington to Richmond via the Potomac River and Old Point Comfort.
 Special stop-over privileges will be granted, enabling all to visit the battle-fields without extra cost.

Fern Gold.
 The largest specimen of leaf or fern gold ever found will be exhibited at the World's Fair. It was found near Walla Walla, Wash. It is valued at $300 for the gold in it alone, but to-day five times that amount would not purchase it. The delicate tracery of the fern is as fresh, beautiful and crystalline in appearance as ever Nature turned out of her laboratory, and it is fully a foot square.

HIGH LIVING.
 If you keep at it, is apt to live long. The things to prevent this are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Take one of these little Pellets for a corrective or gentle laxative—three for a cathartic. They're the smallest, easiest to take, pleasantest and most natural in the way they act. They do permanent good. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headache, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.
 They're guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or your money is returned.

BUILDINGS ERECTED FOR ENCAMPMENT QUARTERS.

The Busy Scene at the Monument Grounds. Where the Large Buildings Are Being Erected by the Citizens' Committee for the Use of the Visiting Grand Army Veterans.

Fifteen Thousand Beds.
 Washington correspondence:

To build homes for a population of some 15,000 men, as a rule, the work of years. But out on the plain that surrounds the Washington Monument there is to be a settlement of that size about the middle of September. There is nothing there now except swarms of busy workmen and great masses of lumber and skeletons of frame buildings. About the 19th of September the population of this town will begin to grow. By the next day, so rapid will be the growth, the high-water mark in the population will be reached.

A Bustling Short-Lived Town.
 The town will continue to flourish and will no doubt be an exceedingly bustling place, and then in the course of four or five days an exodus will begin which will leave the place without a single inhabitant. All this sounds like a tale from a fairy book. But it is a sober fact. The only magician in the case is the enterprise of the business men of the city which has provided the buildings for a portion of the great multitude of old soldiers who will come here to attend the G. A. R. encampment.

Just now it is impossible to get an accurate idea of the immense undertaking which the citizens' committee have on their hands. By the end of next week it is expected that the buildings will be completed. Then there will be seen five principal buildings grouped along the curving driveway which is on the south side of the Washington monument. A line of trees and clusters of shrubbery will partially shut off the view of the buildings from E street. All the buildings, which are long structures with sloping roofs covered with tar paper and a line of openings for ventilation at the ridge, are built of wood, with canvas sides, the latter of which can be raised or lowered at will, and makes necessary. They have a uniform width of 64 feet, and a varying depth from 200 to 350 feet. A building of the latter size has a capacity for about 2,300 men.

 The entire group will furnish sleeping quarters for about 15,000 men, and in the vicinity other buildings will be put up, where the men can wash, and also buildings where they can get their meals. In the vicinity space has been reserved for the members of posts which bring tents, with the intention of camping out.
 The buildings where the men will sleep are interesting for several reasons. The great size is, of course, an element that will attract the curiosity of the public. But their design is such that they will cost the minimum amount of money. There was no plan drawn, but Mr. W. C. Morrison, the builder, worked out the scheme from the basis of a known number of men that must be provided with sleeping quarters. In a figurative way it may be said that 15,000 men were put into their little beds, and the size of the buildings necessary to give them shelter was calculated by a nicety. While ample room is allowed for each man, yet there is no waste space.

Each building is divided into two or three divisions by pass passage ways. These aisles are run down the length of the building with a row of bunks on each side, three high. The bunks are substantially built, and along each row is drawn tightly a substantial strip of canvas. The canvas is brought over a strip of wood at the head of each bunk, then fastened down to strips in the inside, thus supplying the place of a bolster. It is then securely fastened to each side of the bunk, and the same operation is repeated in the next bunk. In this way each bunk is supplied with a spring mattress which will receive the weary forms of the veterans and cause them to sink away into a dreamless slumber undisturbed by the nightmares which were a common experience of their soldier life, when they rolled over on a stubborn root in the ground or some sharp-pointed stone. Each bunk is six feet long, two feet six inches wide, with a space of two feet eight inches between them.

 Canvas instead of boards.
 The use of canvas for covering the sides in place of boards is another admirable feature, as the canvas is not only cheaper, but it can be rolled up during the night, and if the weather is cool it will be ample protection. All the occupants of these quarters will need to bring with them is a blanket, perhaps a comb to smooth out their tumbled hair in the morning and enough money to buy their meals. They won't even have the bother of thinking whether burglars are likely to break in, as the committee will have the buildings in charge of a competent corps of watchmen.

THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE BUNKS.
 The arrangement of the bunks is such that they will be comfortable and convenient for the men. They are built in a way that they can be easily moved and rearranged as needed. The canvas covering is designed to provide protection from the elements while allowing for ventilation. The overall design is practical and efficient, reflecting the committee's commitment to providing a safe and comfortable environment for the veterans.

"Mind that is More Valuable than Gold."
 "There is no gold in the hills around our place, but there is in that more valuable than gold," said Mr. H. L. Kramer, who registered yesterday at the Auditorium, of Indiana Mineral Springs, Warren County, Ind. It is a magnetic mineral mud and it is more valuable than gold, for it cures rheumatism in every form, no matter how long the victim has been a sufferer. "O, no," laughingly replied Mr. Kramer to reports that he was to have his patients mud to eat; it is made up in poultices and placed on the joints where the pain is the most severe.
 "It is only within the past few years that this wonderful Magnetic Mud deposit has been known. Lately hundreds of it have been carried away, and people are traveling from far and near to our new hotel and bath house, costing over $150,000 which has just been completed in order that they may visit the Magnetic Mineral Water and bath in the mud. There are upwards of two hundred people there to-day, and many have recovered so rapidly as to make it hard to keep them here. We look forward to the time when people will be journeying to the Indiana Mineral Springs from every State and Territory in the Union to be cured of their rheumatism, and kidney diseases that baffled the best medical treatment. The mud is found immediately at the base of the center of a horse shoe shaped bluff, where the springs are also located, and it seems that the waters of the hot springs are impregnated with this mud. It has been thoroughly impregnated with mineral particles, and magnetized it so that when a steel blade is left in it, after a few hours it becomes so thoroughly magnetized so that you can take up a magnet needle."
 Mr. C. L. Stone, general passenger agent of the C. & E. I. Railway of Chicago, has issued a beautiful little pamphlet which tells all about this wonderful mud, and how it can be used. It is the experience of many prominent people who have been cured there within the last year. It will be sent by mail free, upon request.—Chicago Tribune.

Waterproof Dress.
 Every winter sees a new idea in shoe-making to avoid wet and cold feet. The cork sole has outlived three or four inventions and seems very popular, but the fact is that it is not waterproof. An oil-silk lining between the uppers and the ordinary lining. This effectually keeps out cold and wet, and by doing away with all ventilation and retaining the perspiration, a considerable amount of heat is accumulated. The plan is probably open to certain sanitary objections, and residents in suburban districts far removed from granite or even plank walks are willing to take a few chances in order to get down town with dry feet and dry clothes. The plan is much cheaper way of securing the same result by using a very thick sock made of wool pulp and millboard, which requires an immense amount of water to soak through. It is doubtful whether the waterproofing of the shoes will muster from a medicinal standpoint, but as long as some people have a prejudice against wearing them, every winter will probably see some new invention to take their place.—St. Louis Shoe Dealer.

Indian Etiquette.
 A curious incident was brought to notice in connection with the recent marriage of the heir apparent of the Jodhpur state. It is reported that according to the custom in vogue among native chiefs, a khariya of invitation to the royal wedding was ordered to be sent to the Maharajah of Gwalior. The official who wrote the khariya did not know the name of the Maharajah, and the chief of Scindia, and therefore, referred to old records of the state, in which the name of the late grandfather of the present chief was mentioned. The official copied the address word for word and sent it off to Gwalior. The Maharajah on the khariya being presented to the Maharajah of Gwalior, he refused to open it, saying he could not open a khariya addressed to his grandfather, who died before the mutiny, and asked the man to take it to his grandfather's relatives of Gwalior. None of the representatives of the Gwalior state, the Bombay Gazette says, attended the wedding on this account.

A Broken Record, Indeed.
 This, and no mistake, is the individual whose stamina has waned to such an extent, for want of an efficient tonic, that he would certainly topple over and fracture something if a fly were to alight on his nose. He stands, were to lean upon him. Build up, ye lean, pitiless and strengthless, with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which will enable you to eat and digest heartily, and thus acquire flesh and vigor. The fortress of life will speedily capitulate to the grim specter of death, if you don't. Nervousness, sleeplessness, biliousness, constipation, malaria, rheumatic and kidney trouble are all conquerable by this superb restorative of health and vigor. The tonic will do you good, if you would be well for the debilitated invalid to study the ways of his once debilitated stomach with a view to the selection of the most digestible articles of diet.

Fins and the Weather.
 There is in the northern part of Finland a curious atom which serves the people instead of a barometer. This stone, which they call Ilmakivi, turns black or blackish gray when bad weather is approaching; fine weather has the effect of turning it almost white. The Finns have a great respect for this superstitious reverence, but scientists say that its changes in color are due to salts contained in its composition.

He Was a Proud Old Planter.
 "Speaking of the decadence of American spirit reminds me of a proud old Arkansas planter I knew before the war," said Col. John Hathaway of Tennessee. "I met the old gentleman in a hotel at Little Rock, and, needing some postage stamps, asked him if he could accommodate me. He took a sheet from his big pocketbook and told me to help myself. I took quite a number and tendered him pay for them. He straightened up, looked at me severely over his glasses, and said: 'Sir, a gentleman does not peddle postage stamps.' That old man's grandson is now coachman for a wealthy Chicago pork packer, and appears to be not a little proud of his gorgeous livery. Prosperity is a great promoter of independence. The average man is humble enough when both his stomach and pocketbook are empty."—Globe-Democrat.

REID'S GERMAN COUGH AND KIDNEY CURE.
 This great remedy is the best thing on the market for all maladies that arise from colds. These diseases are many, for when a cold attacks the system it produces a congestion in the blood vessels, and whatever organ is affected is weakened just as this congestion is widespread or small in extent. REID'S GERMAN COUGH AND KIDNEY CURE relieves the system by stimulating the circulation, inciting the kidneys to action, and stimulating the lungs to proceed in their work of removing the carbonic acid from the blood. When this is accomplished the cold is cured and the person is restored to health. The ordinary cough remedy seeks to stop the cough simply by drying up or paralyzing the muscles so that the sufferer is unable to cough, but they do not seek to remove the cause of the trouble. A cough thus checked is often driven upon the kidneys, and serious trouble is the result. REID'S GERMAN COUGH AND KIDNEY CURE opens the pores, stimulates the secretion, and drives the disease away. Get it of any dealer.
