WRINKLES and hollow cheeks, dull, sunken eyes, don't always mean that a woman's old. Half the time they only show that she's overworked or suffering. To such women, to every woman who is tired or afflicted, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription safely and certainly brings back health and strength. It's a legitimate medicine that corrects and cures; a tonic that invigorates and builds up; a nervine that soothes and strengthens. For all the derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only guaranteed remedy. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

It won't do to experiment with Catarrh. There's the constant danger of driving it to the lungs. You can have a perfect and permanent cure with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

THE NEXT MORNING I FEEL BRIGHT AND NEW AND MY COMPLEXION IS BETTER.

My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a pleasant laxative. This drink is made from herbs, and is prepared for use as easily as tea. It is called

Oh, Woman! False modesty and procrastination are responsible for much of your suffering. We can excuse the delicacy of the young, but there is no excuse for a woman who neglects the freely offered assistance of a woman. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the product of a life's practice of a woman among women, and an unfailing cure for woman's ills. It removes at once those pains, aches, and weaknesses, brightens the spirits, and invigorates the entire system. An unexcelled remedy for Kidney Troubles.

All Druggists sell it, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00. Liver Pills, 25c. Correspondence freely answered. Address in confidence, LYDIA E. PINKHAM MED. CO., LYNN, MASS.

Ask your doctor what happens to cod-liver oil when it gets inside of you.

He will say it is shaken and broken up into tiny drops, becomes an emulsion; there are other changes, but this is the first.

He will tell you also that it is economy to take the oil broken up, as it is in Scott's Emulsion, rather than burden yourself with this work. You skip the taste too.

Let us send you an interesting book on CAREFUL LIVING; free.

MERCURIAL

Mr. J. C. Jones, of Fulton, Ark., says of S.S.S. "About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. Leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with unsuccessful results, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life one of agony. After suffering four years I gave up all remedies and commenced using S. S. S. After taking several bottles, I was entirely cured and able to resume work. S.S.S. is the greatest medicine for blood poisoning to-day on the market."

WHAT OF THE WEATHER

FOSTER'S FORECASTS TELL THE STORY.

A Storm Wave of Average Dimensions Will Cross the Country from Oct. 7 to 9—Cool Weather May Be Expected About the 10th.

October Predictions.

My last bulletin gave forecasts of the storm wave to cross the continent from Oct. 1 to 5, and the next will reach the Pacific coast about Oct. 5, cross the western mountains by the close of Oct. 6, the great central valleys from 7th to 9th, and the Eastern States about the 10th.

This disturbance will be of average dimensions, and will be at its greatest force on the Pacific coast and in the Western mountains about the 5th and 6th, while the storm preceding it will be at its greatest force in the Eastern States at the same time.

The cool wave will cross the Western mountains about the 8th, the great central valleys about the 10th, and the Eastern States about the 12th.

Local Forecasts.

Weather changes move from west to east across the continent, and each local forecast is made for within 250 miles east and west of the magnetic meridian mentioned, and for all the country between 25 and 50 degrees of north latitude. These local weather changes will occur within forty-four hours before or after sunset of the dates given:

HOW THE CROPS ARE.

Slight Damage Results from Storms and Occasional Frosts.

Following is the weather crop bulletin issued by the Weather Bureau:

Temperature—The week was warmer than usual in New England, over the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains, the plateau regions, and on the North Pacific coast. The excess of temperature amounted to from 2 to 4 degrees in New England and from 3 to 9 degrees in the Rocky Mountain regions, where the week was exceptionally warm. In the upper Mississippi Valley, lake region, and along the immediate Atlantic coast nearly normal temperature prevailed, while over the region from the Central Mississippi and Ohio Valleys southward to the Gulf the week was decidedly cooler than usual, the deficiencies in temperature amounting to from 3 to 6 degrees.

The seasonal temperature from March 1 is normal, or slightly above, along the northern border from the Red River Valley eastward to the Atlantic coast and thence southward to North Carolina. It was also normal or above in the vicinity of San Antonio, Texas, Santa Fe, N. M., and Olympia, Wash. Elsewhere over the country the seasonable temperatures are below the normal, the most marked deficiencies occurring in the Mississippi and Missouri Valleys.

Frosts have occurred throughout the upper Mississippi and Missouri Valleys, and in New England have caused some slight injury to corn, which is now being generally cut. If favorable conditions continue corn will be safe in from ten days to two weeks.

Cotton picking continues general, except in Tennessee, where it has not yet begun, and the picking of the early crop has been completed in Georgia.

The week has been generally favorable for farm work and much plowing and seeding has been done.

Precipitation—With the exception of a slight fall of rain along the North California and South Oregon coasts and a light sprinkle in Northeast Oregon, no rain fell during the week over the region from the Mississippi River to the Pacific coast. Over the greater part of the country east of the Mississippi there was more than the usual amount of rain, and from the lower lake region southward to the east Gulf coast the excess amounted to from one to three inches, being greatest in Southeast Tennessee and Alabama and on the East Florida coast. In Southern Virginia the weekly rainfall was slightly below the average.

The seasonal rainfall from March 1 is in excess of the average in the Mississippi and Missouri valleys, in the lower lake region, portions of New England and the Middle Atlantic States, and in Central and Eastern Texas, the greatest excess occurring in the upper Mississippi valley.

Happiness.

Most of the wrong-doing in the world comes from an uneasy craving for pleasure of some sort. The desire for revenge produces all kinds of malicious and hateful conduct; the yearning for gain suggests dishonesty, fraud, oppression, injustice; the appetite for sensual gratification leads to gluttony, intemperance, and vice. A state of true happiness would render these cravings impossible; the higher gratifications once thoroughly enjoyed, no room would be left for the lower. The great happiness of love annihilates revenge and malice; sympathetic pleasures extinguish selfish ones; pure and innocent recreations, cheerful society, and wholesome habits preclude the temptations to vicious courses. In a word, happiness, in its truest meaning and best forms, is the foe to wrong-doing, and in this sense it may be said that those who are happy are good.

THE Bucolics of Virgil were written between 43 and 47.

WON BY WEISSERT.

Chosen Commander-In-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Gen. A. G. Weissert, of Milwaukee, was chosen by acclamation to succeed Captain John Palmer as Commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The new Commander-in-chief was born Aug. 7, 1844, at Canton, Stark County, Ohio, and removed to Wisconsin in 1849. He graduated at the high school at Racine and the University of Michigan, the last-named conferring the degree of LL. B. He enlisted early in September, 1861, in the Eighth Wisconsin (Live Eagle) Regiment Volunteer Infantry, and participated in all the many battles of that regiment up to the time of his discharge, serving over four years. He was brevetted for meritorious conduct in battle, and was seriously wounded at the battle of Nashville, Tenn. His wounds have never healed. They are constantly open and at times very painful, the bullet still remaining in his leg. He joined the Grand Army in 1866, and is a member of E. B. Walcott Post, Milwaukee. He attends all the meetings when at home and takes an active interest in all its affairs, has represented his post and department at numerous State and national encampments, was elected Department Commander of the Department of Wisconsin in 1888, and unanimously re-elected to succeed himself in 1889, but after his election as Senior Vice Commander-in-chief at Milwaukee he resigned the commandership, believing that the honors should go round. He is a member of the legal profession and has a large practice.

A. G. WEISSERT.

LAVED IN HIS BABE'S BLOOD.

Horrible Butchery and Sickening Spectacle Attendant Upon Illness.

William Loch, aged 34, has been ill with typhoid fever several weeks at this home near Reading, Pa. The disease made him insane, and within the last few days his mania turned to religious topics and he decided to make a sacrifice of one of his family. He got out of bed and beat his aged mother terribly, breaking one of her arms in two places and bruising her body. In the night he became wild and wanted to sacrifice his eldest son, and he was locked in his room. His ravings soon attracted the neighbors, who gathered around the house nearly one hundred strong. Mrs. Loch, weak from fear and illness, and nursing a 3-weeks-old infant, called upon them to do something to quiet her husband, but they seemed paralyzed with fear. The oldest child was locked in a room next to Mr. Loch's, the windows of both opening on a porch roof. Loch climbed out on this roof, smashed the window of the child's room and jumped in. He reappeared with the child in its night-gown. He held the child up in full view of everybody and, with a razor he had procured, cut the infant's throat, nearly severing the head from the body. Throwing the body over his knee, he caught the dripping blood in his hands and said: "And now I will wash my face in the blood of my child," and did so. People beheld the ghastly sight by the light of their lanterns. Several men climbed to the porch roof where the tragedy took place, but Loch, with bloody hands, forced them down. At last constables came and forced him back.

STRIKERS RESORT TO THE LAW.

Prominent Carnegie and Pinkerton Men Arrested for Riot.

The Homestead men are apparently endeavoring to turn the tables upon the Carnegies and Pinkertons and administer to them some of the medicine, in a legal way, which has been dealt out to the latter so freely of late. Secretary F. T. F. Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel Company, was arrested by Constable Joe Wallace, on a warrant issued by Alderman King, charging Mr. Lovejoy with aggravated riot and assault and battery. The secretary was arrested in his office and taken at once to the Alderman's office. He waived a hearing and gave $2,000 bail for his appearance. As soon as it was learned by the Carnegies and Pinkertons that informations for certain others of their members were out those others went to the Alderman's office and gave bail. These included H. C. Frick, H. M. Curry, J. G. A. Leishman, Otis Childs, L. Phipps, J. L. Potter, G. Corry, J. F. Dovey and Nevin McConnell. Robert Pinkerton and William A. Pinkerton also gave bail.

Jehus Boost Prices.

Twenty-two dollars a day for carriages!

That is what the liverymen of Chicago have compelled the World's Fair Directors to pay for rigs to be used in the presidential procession on October 21. Three hundred carriages have been contracted for at $22, and 200 more at $20 each for the day—a total of $10,600 for vehicles alone.

SALEM, Oregon, is interested in an assassin who has confessed to five murders and shows symptoms of having others on his mind. It is not known whether he is really guilty or is bidding for the flowers and other favors that come to the truly bloody.

THERE are good reasons for hoping that the approaching campaign may be conducted on a higher plane and be freer from personalities than any has been for many years. The story that Mr. Cleveland was seen smoking a cigarette in Boston is probably a campaign roorback.

NERO tried to kill himself, but was afraid to do so. He finally gave himself a slight wound in the throat, one of his friends pushed the sword further in, and a fatal wound resulted.

His Turn to Smile.

She was stout and heavy, and her temper was evidently not improved by the worry of traveling in hot weather, says the New York Commercial Advertiser. He was tall and slim and bearded, and wore gold-rimmed spectacles. He gave one the impression of being more accustomed to the duties of some professional position, where he could take time to write his language before reading it, than to "boss" domestic matters with any amount of extemporaneous invective and executive vigor. Her expression indicated that she apparently managed the domestic matters and he acquiesced "for peace sake." They were riding down from the Grand Central depot on a Third avenue elevated train, and the train was rather crowded. It was just about six o'clock in the evening.

"I don't see," she snapped, "why you didn't go right in and get one of those side seats that go across there in the middle of the car. You might have got it all right if you'd gone right ahead and hadn't stopped to look around, as you always do. It's bad enough to travel in weather like this without having to stand up——"

"My dear," he expostulated, mildly, but ineffectively to stop her torrent of talk, which all in that end of the car could hear. She kept right on in the same tone till a weary workman got up and offered her his seat, while her patient partner gruefully hung onto a strap.

"I don't care," she continued; "I'm going to look out for myself at the bridge and get a cross seat in the bridge car. You can look out for the bundles, and I'll see you sticking up somewhere when I want you."

It was plain that he endeavored to explain that the bridge cars didn't have any cross seats. She was not in a mood to listen to any explanations. He just quietly kept her in sight when they got to the bridge, and saw her borne along in the crowd, and squeezed up in the line at the ticket window, and knocked along in the rush without a chance to say anything until she found herself standing in a car wedged in where she had scarcely room to breathe. Then, from a respectful distance, the husband turned his head and quietly smiled to himself.

That Dear Old Word, Good-by.

Is a mighty sad one when it is the parting salutation between friends whom thousands of miles of salt water are about to separate. Mariners, buyers in foreign lands for heavy houses, commercial travelers who have made many trips across the stormy Atlantic, think little of an ocean voyage, but to the first voyager the initial trip is a momentous affair. Sea sickness is to be expected as a matter of course, but to prevent it? The finest remedy and preventive of the nausea provoked by the tossing of a vessel, the jarring motion of the screw of a steamship, or of a locomotive train, is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, pronounced by sea captains, ship doctors, tourists, travelers, and emigrants the finest protective and best defense against ailments of the bowels, digestive organs and liver in existence. Malaria, rheumatism, kidney trouble, and debility are remedied by it.

The Dog's Memory.

If anybody supposes that dogs have no memory, he certainly never knew a dog that had been unfortunate enough to make the acquaintance of the dog-catchers. A friend of mine living in the suburbs has a valuable dog on which he paid license, but on account of the collar shading the animal's neck he was accustomed to leave off this valuable protection. One day when walking with his dog he was unlucky enough to meet the dog-catchers. One of them threw his wire, and, the animal recognizing his evil intent, made a tremendous spring, went clear through the loop, struck out for home, and on his master's arrival a few moments later had jumped the fence and hidden in the cellar. For a considerable time the dog could not be persuaded to leave the yard, but finally by degrees got over his fright and ventured out as usual. About a year later, on walking out one morning the dog-catchers' wagon again came in view, and although it was nearly two blocks away, the animal recognized it and gave it a wide berth; nor could the dog-catchers, even by the exercise of the utmost adroitness, get within a block of the clever dog.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Why She Thought So.

An exchange reports a little scene which, it need hardly be said, did not occur in the new Companion building.

A very pretty young woman entered the editor's room with a delicate flush on her face.

"I suppose you don't care for poetry here, do you?" she inquired.

"No," said the editor, diplomatically, "I can't say we do."

"I guessed as much from the verse you published," she rejoined. And she went out.

Jupiter Has Another Moon.

An American astronomer has by the aid of an American telescope made a discovery which will cause the world of science to ring. It is the discovery of another moon on the planet Jupiter, by Prof. E. E. Barnard, of the Lick Observatory. The discovery was made through the great Lick telescope, and it has been heralded as the greatest astronomical achievement of the century. This new moon is the fifth which has been observed hovering over the planet.

Destitute.

"What be you after now, Samu'l Payson?" inquired a brisk and thrifty Vermont farmer of a shiftless neighbor, who came shuffling across the barnyard one morning with as much of a businesslike air as he was able to assume.

"I jest wanted t' know," replied the amiable Samu'l, with his usual vacillating smile, "I'm a-tryin' t' fix th' place up a little, 'gainst some vis'tors we've got comin', an' I jest wanted t' know if so be 't you c'd give me an empty barr'l o' flour t' make a hen-coop, t' put a pig in; for I ain't got nothin' at all t' put nothin' at all into!"

RULES FOR SLEEP.

Some one, in giving the rules for sleep, says "Six hours for a man, seven for a woman, and eight for a fool." But there was never a more misleading statement. The amount of sleep one needs depends upon the amount of mental work he does while he is awake. The man who does a great deal of mental work needs plenty of sleep. Lord Brougham, of England, after the trial of Queen Caroline, during which he had labored night and day for weeks, went to bed and slept for seventy-two hours, and the doctors declared that this alone saved him from an attack of brain fever. The cure for many nervous diseases is plenty of sleep. At the same time a tendency to yawn and a dull, heavy feeling is one of the signs of malaria. When you are thus affected get a box of the Laxative Gum Drops and take them regularly. Two or three at night upon retiring will soon relieve you of your trouble. You can get them of any dealer. The small boxes cost 10c, the large ones 25c.
