The Wrong Side of Fifty.

Reader, have you passed the meridian of life? Are your joints getting stiff, your muscles and sinews losing their elasticity? Are you troubled with lumbago? Are you, in short, in daily or occasional receipt of any of the admonitions which nature gives to remind people that they are growing old? If so, try a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a most genial and agreeable mitigator of the infirmities of age, a rapid promoter of convalescence, and an effectual means of counteracting bodily decay. Good digestion, sound sleep, a hearty appetite, freedom from rheumatic twinges are among the benign fruits that spring from the regular and persistent use of this superb tonic and corrective, which has received the unqualified sanction of the medical fraternity. Give it the fair trial that it deserves, and you will be grateful for this advice.

In the German artillery they have tried a three-legged ladder of steel tubing for enabling the captain of a battery to survey the enemy and direct the fire. The ladder is erected in a wagon, and the officer climbs to the top with his field glasses to reconnoiter.

PROGRAM FOR SCHOOLS.

ARRANGEMENT OF EXERCISES FOR COLUMBUS DAY.

Prepared by the National Executive Committee of the Educational Superintendents for the Columbian Public School Observance on October 21.

The Official Programme.

Following the recommendations in President Harrison's proclamation, that the public schools of the country appropriately observe Columbus day, the superintendents of education have instructed their executive committee to prepare an official programme of exercises to be used in every school in America on Columbus day, simultaneously with the dedicatory exercises in Chicago.

The following is the programme prepared:

The schools should assemble at 9 a. m. in their various rooms. At 9:30 the detail of veterans is expected to arrive. It is to be met at the entrance of the yard by the color guard of pupils, escorted with dignity to the building and presented to the principal. The principal then gives the signal, and the several teachers conduct their pupils to the yard, to drumbeat or other music, and arrange them in hollow square around the flag. The veterans and color guard taking places by the flag itself. The master of ceremonies then gives the command, "Attention!" and begins the exercises by reading the proclamation.

1. Reading of the President's proclamation. By the master of ceremonies.

At the close of the reading he announces, "In accordance with this recommendation by the President of the United States, and as a sign of our devotion to our country, let the flag of the nation be unfurled above this school."

2. Raising of the flag. By two veterans.

As the flag reaches the masthead the veterans will lead the assemblage in "Three Cheers for Old Glory."

3. Salute to the flag. By the pupils.

At a signal from the principal the pupils, in order of rank, bare the right arm to the flag. Another signal is given; every pupil gives the flag the military salute—right hand lifted, palm downward, in a line with the forehead and close to it. Standing thus all repeat together slowly, "I pledge allegiance to my flag and the republic for which it stands; one nation, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all." At the words "to my flag" the right hand is extended gracefully, palm upward, toward the flag, and remains in this gesture till the end of the affirmation, whereupon all hands immediately drop to their sides. Then, still standing, as the instruments strike a chord, all will sing "America"—"My country, 'tis of thee."

4. Acknowledgment of God. Prayer or Scripture.

5. Song of Columbus day. By pupils and audience.

6. Address. "The Meaning of the Four Centuries."

A declamation of the special address prepared for the occasion by the Youth's Companion.

Here should follow whatever additional exercises, patriotic recitations, historic representations or morals may be desired.

8. Address by citizens and national songs.

COLUMBUS DAY ADDRESS.

Prepared by the Youth's Companion for Delivery in the Schools.

The following is the address, "The Meaning of the Four Centuries," prepared by the Youth's Companion for use in connection with the above programme:

The spectacle America presents this day is without precedent in history. From ocean to ocean—in city, village, and countryside—the children of the States are marshaled and marching under the banner of the nation, and with them the people are gathering around the school house.

Men are recognizing to-day the most impressive anniversary since Rome celebrated her thousandth year—the 400th anniversary of the stepping of a hemisphere into the world's life; four complete centuries of a new social order; the celebration of liberty and enlightenment organized into a civilization.

And while during these hours the Federal Government of these United States strikes the keynote of this great American day that gives honor to the common American institution which unites us all, we assemble here that we, too, may exalt the free school that embodies the American principle of universal enlightenment and equality, the most characteristic product of the four centuries of American life.

Four hundred years ago this morning the Pinta's gun broke the silence and announced the discovery of this hemisphere.

It was a virgin world. Human life hitherto upon it had been without significance. In the old world for thousands of years civilized men had been trying experiments in social order. They had been found wanting. But here was an untouched soil that lay ready for a new experiment in civilization. All things were ready. New forces had come to light full of overturning power in the old world. In the new world they were to work together with a mighty harmony.

It was for Columbus, propelled by this fresh life, to reveal the land where these new forces were to be given space for development, and where the awaited trial of the new civilization was to be made.

To-day we reach our most memorable milestone. We look backward and we look forward.

Backward we see the first mustering of modern ideas; their long conflict with old world theories, which were also transported hither. We see the stalwart men and brave women one moment on the shore, then disappearing in dim forests. We hear the ax. We see the flame of burning cabins and hear the cry of the savage. We see the never ceasing wagon train always toiling westward. We behold log cabins becoming villages, then cities. We see the growth of institutions out of little beginnings—schools becoming an educational system; meeting houses leading up to organic Christianity; town meetings growing to political movements; county discussions developing federal governments.

We see hardy men with intense convictions, grappling, struggling, often amid battle smoke, and some idea characteristic of the new world always triumphing. We see settlements knitting together into a nation with singleness of purpose. We note the birth of the modern system of industry and commerce and its striking forth into undreamed of wealth, making the millions members one of another as sentiment could never bind. And under it all, and through it all, we fasten on certain principles ever operating and regnant—the leadership of manhood; equal rights for every soul; universal enlightenment as the source of progress. These last are the principles that have shaped American; these principles are the true Americanism.

We look forward. We are conscious we are in a period of transition. Ideas in education, in political economy, in social science are undergoing revisions. There is a large uncertainty about the outcome. But faith in the underlying principles of Americanism and in God's destiny for the republic makes a firm ground of hope. The coming century promises to be more than ever the age of the people—an age that shall develop a greater care for the rights of the weak and make a more solid provision for the development of each individual by the education that meets his need.

As no prophet among our fathers on the 300th anniversary of America could have pictured what the new century would do, so no man can this day reach out and grasp the 100 years upon which the nation is now entering. On the victorious results of the completed centuries the principles of Americanism will build our fifth century. Its material progress is beyond our conception, but we may be sure that in the social relations of men with men the most triumphant gains are to be expected. America's fourth century has been glorious; America's fifth century must be made happy.

One institution more than another has wrought out the achievement of the past, and is to-day most trusted for the future. Our fathers in their wisdom knew that the foundations of liberty, fraternity and equality must be universal education. The free school, therefore, was conceived the cornerstone of the republic. Washington and Jefferson recognized that the education of citizens is not the prerogative of church or of other private interest; that while religious training belongs to the church, and while technical and higher culture may be given by private institutions, the training of citizens in the common knowledge and the common duties of citizenship belongs irrevocably to the state.

We therefore on this anniversary of America present the public schools as the proudest expression of the principle of enlightenment which Columbus grasped by faith. We uplift the system of free and universal education as the master force which under God has been informing each of our generations with the peculiar truths of Americanism. America therefore gathers her sons around the school house to-day as the institution closest to the people, most characteristic of the people, and fullest of hope for the people.

To-day America's fifth century begins. The world's twentieth century will soon be here. To the thirty millions now in the American schools the command of the coming years belongs. We, the youth of America, who to-day unite to march as one army under the sacred flag, understand our duty. We pledge ourselves that the flag shall not be stained, and that America shall mean equal opportunity and justice for every citizen and brotherhood for the world.

Song for Columbus' Day.

Air—"Lyons."

Columbia, my land! all hail the glad day
When first to thy strand Hope planted the way;
Hail him who thro' darkness first followed the Flame
That led where the Mayflower of Liberty came.

Dear Country, the star of the valiant and free!
Thy exiles afar are dreaming of thee.
No fields of the Earth so enchantingly shine,
No air breathes such incense, such music as thine.

Humanity's home! thy sheltering breast
Gives welcome and room to strangers oppress'd.
Pale children of Hunger and Hatred and Wrong
Find life in thy freedom and joy in thy song.

The fairest estate the lowly may hold,
Thy poor may grow great, thy feeble grow bold.
For worth is the watchword to noble degree,
And manhood is mighty where manhood is free.

O, unit n of States and union of souls!
Thy promise awaits, thy future unfolds.
And earth from her twilight is hailing the sun
That rises where people and rulers are one.

Fathers of Great Men.

THE father of Diderot, the encyclopedist, was a knife grinder.

ROUSSEAU, the author of "Emile," was the son of a watchmaker.

THE father of Thorwaldsen, the sculptor, was a ship carpenter.

THE father of David Livingstone was an operator in a cotton-mill.

THE Roman Emperor Maximian was the son of a common soldier.

DEMOSTHENES was the son of a swordmaker and blacksmith.

THE father of Sir Robert Peel, the statesman, was a day laborer.

MARSHAL SUCHET was a silk-winder's boy, and enlisted in the ranks.

THE father of Spontini, the opera composer, was a farm laborer.

GIFFORD, the poet, was a sailor's son, and himself a shoemaker.

RAMUS, the divine, was the son of a laborer, and himself a servant.

THE father of the great Tintoretto was a watchmaker and jeweler.

MARSHAL LANNES was a carpenter's son, and himself an apprentice.

THE father of Alexander Wilson, the ornithologist, was a day laborer.

A CLEVER fraud has just been detected in Paris. An advertisement appeared recently in a French paper, to the effect that a widow, aged 28, herself in independent circumstances, wished to meet with a suitable young man, etc. Several candidates for matrimony were attracted by the announcement, and there were the usual preliminary inquiries, and ultimately the interview. The lady treated her different admirers in different ways, but in each case gave proof of her income, and seemed anxious for the ceremony of marriage. She was used to English ways, and liked to receive an engagement ring before the hoop of plain gold, and this predilection for the English fashion she explained to each of her fiances. They all yielded to the English fashion, and presented rings of varying value, two of them 4,000 and 3,500 francs respectively for their presents. Owing to her persistent delay, one of the dupes brought action against her. This revelation caused a whole string of bethrothed ones to put in their claims, so the dashing widow was summoned to court.

LOUIS XI., after having, by open murder or secret assassination, rid himself of the most powerful nobility of France, died in miserable fear, begging his physician to do something for him. During his last days he sent for St. Francis of Paula, and offered him untold riches to intercede with heaven for a further lease of life.

Just What Is Wanted.

Business is alive to a great coming event, and in the hurly-burly of its preparations for the Columbian Exposition in 1893, too much is already seen on the streets of a fanciful or amusing nature, both superficial and catch-penny. There has been observed a void in the line of the strictly useful, combining therewith instructive object lessons and the beautiful in art. Books there may be by the score, but the experience of the Centennial Exposition at Philadelphia shows that the mass of these are mere trifles and unserviceable. Visitors generally are at ever at a loss for a handy pocket guide of official stamp, not only reliable but pleasing and always fit to keep. Just what is wanted of this unique kind has happily already made its appearance, and we have before us "THE OFFICIAL PORTFOLIO OF THE WORLD'S COLUMBIAN EXPOSITION," illustrated from Water Color Drawings.

This Portfolio is a rare and beautiful exponent of the main architectural features of the Great Exposition at Chicago in 1893. The fourteen magnificent structures are faithfully exhibited, while the Bird's-eye View gives a realistic glance at the lay of the grounds, with their principal buildings, lagoons, etc., and the drawings, in exact reproductions, in water color effects, of the original drawings, made especially for this purpose from the official plans, by America's best known water color artist, Charles Graham. The pictures, therefore, are not only official but they are genuine works of art, and competent critics pronounce them to be equal to the finest productions of a similar kind of the famous art centers of Europe.

It is simply wonderful how such perfection in art, accompanied by full descriptive matter, can be served to the Great Public in so cheap and handy a form. But a copy of this exceptionally fine production will be sent to any address upon receipt of 10 cents in postage stamps by The Charles A. Vogeler Co., Baltimore, Md.

Carrier Pigeons.

Carrier pigeons played interesting parts in newspaper work of the recent elections in Great Britain. Important candidates in out of the way country districts, poorly provided with telegraphic facilities, as Mr. Gladstone's Midlothian district, were accompanied in their tours by newspaper men provided with carrier pigeons. The reporters who went with Mr. Gladstone had a regular "pigeon man" with them. When Mr. Gladstone delivered speeches from his carriage the reporters wrote their reports on thin tissue sheets, "flimsy," and passed them ro the pigeon man. The sheets were attached to the pigeons' legs by rubber bands and the birds set free. The birds performed excellent service in carrying the matter to neighboring cities or telegraph centers, as they had been trained. On several occasions, however, on fine, warm days, the birds alighted on roofs and sunned themselves for an hour or so, while the pigeon man tried to coax them in so as to file his copy, and the matter they carried had to be left out of the latest edition.

Tossed by a Whale.

A few evenings ago the five-ton fishing schooner Lulu, while off Port Canoas, 200 miles south of San Diego, Cal., had a strange experience. Something thumped her terrifically from below. The vessel raised out of the water from the middle as if forced up by a powerful jackscrew. She went up like a flash and fell back just in time to right herself. Then something struck the rudder a powerful jolt. The next instant a huge whale, appearing to be wounded, threw water from his spouting apparatus all over the vessel. The monster swam rapidly away, spouting at irregular but frequent intervals, and the two old salts got down on their knees and offered up thanks for their safe delivery. The schooner is at San Diego for repairs.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Calico.

The word "Calico" has a queer origin. Many centuries ago the first monarch of the province of Malabar gave to one of his chiefs, as a reward for distinguished services, his sword and all the land within the limit of which a cock crowing at a certain temple could be heard. From this circumstance the little town which grew up in the center of this territory was called calicoda, or the "cock crowing." Afterwards it was called Calicut, and from this place the first cotton goods were imported into England, bearing the name calico.

All Spaniards Not Dark.

It is a mistake to imagine that all Spanish are dark. In Spain there are certain families, the creme de la creme of the nobility, who are marked by fair or red hair. They are descendants of the conquering Visigoths, who descended on the Iberian peninsula in the fifth century, and are proud of the fair complexion that marks their descent from the strong old Northern heroes.

Train Loaded with Stove Polish.

Last week, Messrs. Morse Bros., of Canton, Mass., proprietors of the well-known Rising Sun Stove Polish, filled orders from two customers in the West for twenty-three car loads of stove polish. As each car contained 400 gross, weighing fifteen tons, the shipment to these two houses was 9,200 gross, or 345 tons. The immense business done by this firm is a monument to the excellent quality of the goods for which they have earned a reputation at home and abroad.—Boston (Mass.) Pilot.

Acorns and Pine Cones on One Tree.

A singular freak of nature may be observed east of Ashburnham, Mass. Persons have dug down under a tree and found but one root underneath, but it has two kinds of foliage, that of a pine and that of an oak, which may be distinctly seen from a distance. In the fall of the year burrs fall on one side and acorn on the other.

Wonderful.

Jacob A. Kunkel, a reliable farmer of Mt. Royal, York Co., Pa., says that a running sore broke out on the leg of his nephew, Milton A. Kunkel, when he was 5 years old. He would not walk. Two years ago they began giving him HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA, and in a short time the sore healed up, he regained perfect health, and he is now, at 13 years, lively and rugged. Mr. Kunkel says, "We all consider his cure little short of a miracle."

Things Worth Knowing.

Do you know that one cup of butter, solid, weighs half a pound?

That two cups of granulated sugar or two and one-half cups of powdered sugar weigh a pound?

That four cups of flour weigh a pound?

That three cups of corn meal weigh a pound?

That the favorite German polish for hard wood is made as follows: Melt half a pound of white beeswax, also two cakes of castile coap; then mix together, adding a pint of turpentine. Shake thoroughly before using.

That eggs covered, when frying, will cook much more evenly?

That after water is drained off from potatoes, and they are left in the kettle to keep warm, the cover should be removed and a cloth laid over the potatoes?

That a large slice of raw potato in the fat when frying doughnuts will prevent the black specks from appearing on the surface of them?

That a little flour dredged over the top of a cake will keep the icing from running?

That if you heat your knife you can cut hot bread or cake as smoothly as cold?

That the "fishy" smell may be removed from the skillet by boiling suds in it for ten minutes?

No Trees but Wood.

The Falkland Islands produce no trees, but they do produce wood in a very remarkable shape. You will see, scattered here and there, singular blocks of what look like weather-beaten, mossy gray stones of various size. But if you attempt to roll over one of these rounded bowlders you will find yourself unable to accomplish it. In fact, the stone is tied down to the ground—tied down by the roots, or, in other words, it is not a stone, but a block of living wood.
