

of Capt. John G. Bourke, a famous officer of the Third Cavalry, in the course-room at San Antonio, Texas. He was testifying in an investigation of the riotous conduct of the Sunday school at Galveston, in the Rio Grande border, when his testimony angered Paul Frick, United States Deputy Marshal, who shot him before the bystanders could interfere.

Deputy Sheriff Livingston, of Richmond County, North Carolina, attempted to arrest a negro. As Livingston was reading the warrant, McPhatter shot him dead and fled. He was pursued, and on Thursday night was captured near Laurin, S. C. He was taken to the Central train for Rockingham, where it was intended to jail him. At Laurel Hill station a mob invaded the train, carried the murderer out, and hanged him. Before being swung up McPhatter admitted the crime, but said he was incited to it by third parties.

Edward Glimber, 70 years old, of Straw's Mill, near Jeffersonville, Ind., fell from a horse and was tramped to death.

A cyclone wiped out the village of Washington, Ark. Every building except the schoolhouse was destroyed, but fortunately no lives were lost.

Near Hiawatha, Kan., two of Farmer Beeties' children found a match and touched off a stack of straw. Their clothing and the straw were burned to death before any one knew it.

At St. Louis, fire started in the building occupied by Hirsch and Bendheim, wholesale cigar dealers, and spread to the building occupied by the American Oak Leather Company. Loss, $50,000, fully insured.

The Arkansas legislature is at Pittsburg, in which over 300 girls are employed, was destroyed by fire. Luckily the flames did not start until the noon hour, when most of the employees were out.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Governor-elect Peter Turney of Tennessee is dangerously ill, and it begins to look as though Governor Buchanan would be able to hold on to the office of Governor for another year.

The Turkish War Office has prohibited all officers below the rank of Major from taking a second wife, as the pay is not sufficient to support them.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The most skillful turkey caller in Pennsylvania, George Gates, of Fayette County, was killed Saturday while turkey hunting. He concealed himself in the bushes and began imitating a turkey. Jas. Dills, who was also out after the birds, heard the call and its naturalness deceived him. He crept stealthily along through the bushes and at last, locating the bush from behind which the cry came, fired a load of buckshot into the man's back.

The long overland schooner Marion W. Page finally reached Chicago, with most of her canvas gone and the rigging badly wrecked. The Page was fifteen days in coming a distance of 250 miles.

New Haven, Conn., is very much concerned over a critical condition of affairs which exists at the naval hospital. A young man named C. W. Pratt was taken there suffering from a disease, the nature of which puzzled the attending physician for a time. Soon, however, it developed into a clear case of smallpox. A twelve-day quarantine was promptly ordered.

Since then the 221 inmates of the hospital have been ostracized by society. Tuesday the startling announcement was made that another patient had exhibited unmistakable symptoms of the disease. He was removed promptly to the rest-house. He occupied the cot adjoining that of Pratt. Three more patients are suspected of having the disease, but judgment on their cases cannot be pronounced yet. In the meantime the quarantine has been extended indefinitely, and the effect on the patients is that of a prison, as they are prevented from visiting their friends in the extreme.

Friday was the day planned for the culmination of the religious revival which has been conducted at Kansas City, Mo., for several weeks by Evangelist E. E. Mills. Mr. Mills and his people in sympathy with the work appointed the day as a midweek Sabbath, when business was to be suspended and when people should turn aside from worldly pursuits and give attention to matters religious. Only a few business houses closed, mostly wholesale establishments. The banks and the retail shops remained open as usual. There was a large attendance, however, at all of Mr. Mills' meetings, and there were many conversions. It is said that since Mr. Mills began his work 2,000 people have professed conversion at his meetings.

The World's Fair officials have accepted the Remington Typewriter Company's offer of $10,000 for the first souvenir half dollar to come from the mint. The Remington people have deposited their check for that amount and hold a contract for the first coin. The typecast company has not yet told what it proposes to do with its expensive purchase. The price paid is the highest ever given for a coin, and it will have the effect of raising the value of the entire issue. The Exposition Company expects to receive a high price also for the last coin minted. Bids are already coming in, and it is said that the Remington Company desires to secure that half dollar as well as the first. It is probable that at least 1,000,000 of these souvenirs will have been disposed of by Jan. 1.

A case of wholesale poisoning by eating canned meat is reported at Columbus, O. About twenty persons have been affected, in five different households, and although, with one exception, they all seem to be out of danger, many of them are still debilitated and are unable to retain food. The doctors were all taken from one cause. The meat is in doubt as to the nature of the poison. Some of the meat has been sent to the State University for analysis.

Agitation is proposed to be started at Montreal shortly with view to the admission of United States cattle into Canada. If the government grants such permission it is probable that dead meat factories will be established, and next summer will also see United States cattle exported to the old country via Montreal. Circulars will soon be sent out to the leading stock raisers of the country asking their advice regarding the introduction of United States cattle into Canada.

FINANCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL.

At New York, Wednesday, the decision of railroad presidents decided to maintain full rates to the World's Fair, on trains running between New York and Chicago in thirty hours, and on other lines a 20 per cent. reduction on slower trains. Several roads, the B. & O., for one, require more than thirty-five hours to make the road, and they will undoubtedly cut rates. The B. & O. has been a free lance, and has frequently been a thorn in the side of other east and west trunk lines. It will probably do as it did in the theatrical business—make rates to please itself and capture everything coming its way.

Some excursions will be run under the auspices of the World's Fair Commission, and the rates will be fixed by them. But it now looks as if the public generally will have to submit to be skinned by the railroads.

Tuesday's session of the twenty-sixth annual convention of the Knights of Labor at St. Louis, Mo., will be an important one. General Master Workman Powderly delivered his annual address. Mr. Powderly reviewed the periods of prosperity and depression of the order and said that at the present time its membership was on the increase. At no time in the organization's history, he however, had the membership exceeded 600,000. Mr. Powderly declared that there are too many societies, and that the tendency of the labor movement seems to be to divide up, while that of the opposing force—capital—is to consolidate and thereby to gain strength to combat the forces of industry when, single-handed, they are arrayed before them.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers announced that unless the Queen and Crescent and East Tennessee and Georgia Central Railways comply with their demands for an increase in wages, equal to about 57 per cent. for each mile, the absolutely entire number of operators employed by these roads will walk out and a general strike will be declared. This means that 1,800 men will open their keys.

CAMPING ON HIS TRAIL, FRONTIERSMEN AFTER AN ARIZONA OUTLAW.

Madman Niegler Did Wholesale Execution—Saw and Lumber Go Up in Flames—Three Killed by Carelessness—Forecast of the Next Congress.

Told in a Few Words.—Gov. Martin, of Arizona, offered a reward of $5,000 for the capture of "Kid," the notorious Apache cattle rustler, alive or dead, and $800 each is offered for the capture of his companions. The desperado committed by this during outlaw have made his name a terror to every white man in the territory. It is well known that he will never be taken alive, and he will sell his life dearly if an attempt is made to capture him. A number of old Indian hunters, allured by the princely price set upon the desperado's head, have gone on his trail. They are unhampered by military restraint, are familiar with his haunts, and they expect to kill him in a few days and claim the reward.

In a frenzy of murderous insanity Hermann Siegler Sunday morning took the lives of two human beings; and wounded two others at Chicago. His victims are his aged father-in-law and mother-in-law, Heinrich and Madame Sleska, who lie dead at the house of their daughter, Mrs. William Meier; his wife Emma Siegler and Officer Donoghue, who are slightly wounded. Siegler's weapon was a 12-bore shotgun, and by its aid he held a whole battalion of police at bay for several minutes. After his capture he only escaped lynching by the vigorous efforts of the officers. In the fracas he was dangerously wounded by a ball from a policeman's revolver, and he lies at the county hospital in a precarious condition. A species of religious mania provides the only motive or explanation of the ghastly crime.

Arkansas City, Ark., had a $200,000 fire in a lumber plant. A mill valued at $100,000 and 5,000,000 feet of hardwood lumber were destroyed. Thirty sheds containing 25,000 barrels of salt belonging to the Michigan Salt Company were also destroyed by fire and water at Chicago Sunday night. Sp. Haynes, manager, estimates the loss at $250,000.

Careless neglect to obey orders on the part of John Beauchamp, a conductor on the Chicago Belt Line, cost his own life and the lives of two others of the crew of a freight train Sunday morning. In consequence of his mistake a collision took place near the Archer avenue crossing. Those who were killed are: John Beauchamp, conductor; Richard A. Otto, brakeman; and Louis Obitz, fireman; all of Auburn Park, Ill. Those who were injured are: Thomas Garland, engineer, and John Best, brakeman.

The next Fifty-third Congress will convene the first Monday of December, 1893. The present House consists of 226 Democrats, 88 Republicans, and 8 People's party members, total 332. The next House will consist of 219 Democrats, 107 Republicans, and 11 People's party; total, 355. This is a Democratic loss of seventeen. A Republican gain of thirty-seven, and a People's party gain of three. The Democrats have complete control, entirely upstaging the career of the People's party and other experts of the People's party would hold the balance of power in the House. The present Senate stands 47 Republicans, 39 Democrats, and 12 People's party. The terms of 29 Senators expire March 4, 1893, and Republican losses are the result of the party gains which will result from the change of political control of legislators elected this year will make the Senate stand after March 4 as follows: Democrats, 43; Republicans, 40; and People's party, 5. The People's party will therefore have the balance of power in the United States Senate, and if the Senators have the nerve to stand up for what the rank and file of the party demand there will be some interesting Senatorial deals.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

No important change appears in the condition of business. The distribution of products continues enormous. The competition by manufacturers is greater on the whole than in any previous year, and while some hesitation is shown in entering into new accounts, the general tone of business and industries is remarkably healthy. Trading in cotton was much the largest ever known in any week, with the deal having been but moderate. At Boston business continues large, collections good, money easy. In general, the situation is unchanged, excepting that wool is a quiet market.

Goets of option trading are already at work at Washington and the Hatch bill will be again resurrected when the next Congress takes its seat. Assistant Secretary Worthington, on the Chicago Board of Trade said, "the board will exert its best endeavors to prevent its passage. The case of Dr. Graves, who was convicted at Denver, Col., by a jury, of the murder of Mrs. Barnaby, is set for Dec. 5 in the Supreme Court. Unless Judge Goddard Chief Justice-elect, consents to fill the vacancy now on the bench the case will be continued until 1893.
