REVOLUTION IN THE AIR

FRENCH REPUBLIC MAY BE OVERTHROWN.

Royalist intrigue is everywhere—Movement of Deputies and Count of Paris Under Surveillance—Figures Which Tell of Corruption.

France May Fall. Imagine a beam of light from the American Senate; imagine an ex-member of the Cabinet appearing on the platform and declaring that he is not guilty of bribery; imagine a senator arising and denouncing the ex-Secretary and several other in virulent personalities, another Senator shaking his fists at the accused and saying, "He lies"; the whole assemblage rising to its feet and raving like kilkenny cats, with several members promise as many other members that death awaits them—imagine this spectacle and frame the picture with a gallery full of howling onlookers and you get a fair idea of Tuesday's session in the French Chamber of Deputies.

Violent as it is, the scene seems to be but a fair index of the feverish condition of the French Republic at the present moment. Charges and counter-charges against every one in high place are common. The air is full of exciting rumors, and the fact that ten legislators out of several hundred are now known to be implicated in the Panama scandal has stung the susceptible French mind to the conclusion that corruption is universal and republic institutions of evil growth. In the midst of the hurry-burly the Royalists have not been slow to seek their patiently awaited opportunity. There is a talk of a coup d'etat in favor of a monarchist reversion, and the young Duke of Orleans is spoken of as the most available royalist to be placed at the head.

With the memory of France's past history in mind it is not difficult to see that this crisis is extremely serious. On the other hand, the immense French army, officered by faithful Republicans, is loyal to M. Freycinet, Minister of War, and to the Republic. To effect an overthrow of the Government with this stupendous military power in opposition would be hardly possible.

If France, without resort to revolution, can extricate herself from the present disgraceful muddle in which are involved legislators, ministers, journalists, society itself, and the people the barefaced swindles the exposition of which has incensed the French people to M. DE FREYCINET, such a degree that they already confound the maladministration of government and the character of the government itself. The excitement of having a minister, four ex-ministers and five deputies formally charged with the worst possible form of political corruption may be of itself enough to foment evil passions in the hearts of the disturbance-loving Parisians; but when to this is added the popular outcry against the universal government, the cry of "all are guilty," it is easy to understand that there is a serious crisis impending in French affairs.

The excitement is increasing and the wilder reports are about monarchist plots and coming arrests. It is asserted that Herz has been in communication in London with agents of the Count of Paris and that the exposure of the Thiers check is directly attributable to royalist influence. Another rumor is that the officials and deputies, as well as civilians, connected with the Panama scandal have had it intimated to them that their salvation lies in an espousal of royalist schemes, and that all their offenses will be condoned if they will consent to betray the republic. Some confidence is paced by well-informed people in both these rumors, and it is apparent that royalist agents have assumed an activity they had not displayed for years, while there is also evidence that royalist money is again afloat.

The coming duel between M. Clemenceau, editor of Le Justice, and M. Droulede, who was called a liar by the editor in the Chamber Thursday, is attracting great attention. Clemenceau has been granted the choice of weapons, and both men say they intend to fight a duel to the death.

Panama Canal Figures.
According to the statements issued by the liquidators, the amount expended by the Panama Canal Company reached the enormous total of $260,000,000. M. Achille Montheilout, the last liquidator, placed under the following heads the sums expended:
Preparatory work and organization, $3,000,000
Concessions and general expenses, 12,000,000
Advances, interest, taxes, etc., 17,000,000
Construction material and transport, 32,000,000
Contractors, 85,000,000
Purchase of Panama railroad, 18,000,000
Paid to shareholders as interest, 18,000,000
Interest and invested for payment of lottery bonds, 5,230,000

According to this account not the whole of the $260,000,000 has been lost. One-fifth of this sum has been repaid to the subscribers in the shape of interest and interim. Then there are assets represented by the fourth, fifth and sixth items. These cost a little over $140,000,000 and their present value is estimated at about $14,000,000. The other three items, amounting to a little over $100,000,000 are total loss. Of the whole amount expended only a little over one-third was spent in the actual construction of the canal.

SHERMAN'S CANAL BILL.

Greater Security Given the United States than in the Original Bill. The Nicaragua canal bill, which has held the attention of the Foreign Relations Committee since the beginning of the session, has at last been completed, and was formally reported by its author, Senator Sherman. The new bill, according to a Washington correspondent, is drawn on substantially the same as the bill reported from the committee to the last Congress, including, as it does, a proposition to guarantee bonds of the company to the extent of $100,000,000 to aid in the construction of the canal. The new bill, however, contains some additions which increase the obligations of the company as well as the security of the Government. For instance, in the second section the real and personal property and franchises of the company are included in the liabilities. In the third section it is provided that all of the stock heretofore subscribed for or issued shall be called in and canceled; that all bonds issued shall be redeemed and canceled and that all outstanding obligations shall be satisfied before the act takes effect. Bonds of the company to the extent of the bonds issued Jan. 1, 1893, and to make them mature in 1933 instead of 1911, as is proposed in the original bill; and they are also to be redeemed at the pleasure of the United States after 1913.

The section requiring the company to execute a mortgage to the United States as security for the guaranty is amended by the addition of a clause requiring the exchange to contain a provision for a sinking fund for the payment of the bonds at maturity. In addition section 6 of the old bill provides that if the company default in the payment of interest or in other respects before the canal is put into operation the right of foreclosure shall at once attach in favor of the United States. In the last section an amendment is made so that ten instead of six of the fifteen directors shall be appointed by the President of the United States, not more than five of whom shall be appointed from one political party.

HOMESTEAD INDICTMENTS.

True Bills Found Against Participant in the Alleged Poison Plot.

True bills have been returned by grand jury against District M. Workman Dempsey of the Eighth Labor, Robert Beatty, Patrick O'Gher, and J. M. Davidson on six counts of administering poison to non-men at Homestead. The trials are fixed for a date as early as possible. When the cases were brought to grand jury one of the pre-entitled names said the total number of men far caused by the poison was 10. They have heard from this and there are probably other deaths which they have had no knowledge, majority of the nonunionists were of other States. After taking of them were furnished tickets to homes. A great many were of after this, and it is impossible whether the men died or scores of men, the attorney still sick. Some of them had been in the systems so they will never recover their health. What the poison was the countable to say. Chemists work on it.

The attorneys for the Carnegie Company has poor case, on account of not to say what kind of poison. An effort is being made to McLowell exhibit the names of the men who died in the mill of typhoid.
