We see that one of our exchanges says: Reddy the Male Girl was good. We don't believe she is a male girl at all. That don't go. Go and see at the opera house next Friday night.

One week from Sunday evening will occur the regular monthly sacred concert, at the Congregational Church; the choir are making arrangements to make this one of their best entertainments.

John J. Flinn, of the firm of Shepard & Plinn, of Chicago, the popular publishers of the Chicago Guide, is now established in Dwight for a few weeks, and has two typewriters compiling copy for the next issue of the valuable work. Mr. Flinn is chairman of the National Executive committee of the Keeley League, and one of the most popular members of that organization.

The two tickets nominated last Saturday contain four of the same names as follows: E. T. Miller, Wm. Christensen, Thos. Jenkins and John R. Radcliffe. Parties seems to be mixed this year.

O. C. Jensen has some bargains in improved farms in Iowa, Nebraska, and Southern Minnesota. Write or call and see him at No. 214 Waupunose street, Dwight, Ill., if you want go west.

LAST CHANCE—A lot of best silver plated knives, forks and spoons at a bargain. I close here March 31. All persons having left articles for repair please call and get them.—McCaulley, Old bank building.

The Leslie E. Keeley Co., owing to the great amount of telegraphic business done by them, have placed wires in their office connecting with both the C. & A. and 3-I. Frank A. Hayes has charge of that important department.

"Reddy the Mail Girl," is said to be one of the best plays that ever made a contract to come to Dwight. It's the first time the show has ever come to so small a place as Dwight. Next Friday night at the opera house—the 31st.

The new clock that has been placed in the C. & A. waiting room is a beauty, and is worthy of its position. It was chiefly through the efforts of J. C. Lewis that such an elegant time piece has been placed in such a prominent position.

Jim Kelagher was nominated for assessor last Saturday by the democratic caucus, and Roger H. Mills by the republicans. Jim heretofore has run like a quarter horse, but Roger is a runner himself, and the race is likely to be close.

A CHANCE STILL.—For bargains in watches, jewelry, etc. I leave positively April 1st. I return my warmest thanks to those who have patronized me, especially those living in the country. I hope to meet you all again some time.—McCaulley.

Rev. N. T. Blakeslee, of Chicago, will occupy the pulpit at the Congregational Church next Sunday. Rev. Blakeslee comes here highly recommended, and no doubt a fine discourse will be given. Services will commence at usual hour morning and evening.

Miss Ella Fenn returned last week from an extended trip to the west. She visited relatives and friends in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, and also the family of Rev. Merrill of Rock Island, Ill. She returned in excellent health and enjoyed her visit greatly.

Rev. M. M. Longley, of Bloomington, former pastor of Congregational Church, made us a pleasant call Wednesday after the wedding of Miss Bessie Huey and H. P. Adams. Mr. Longley is nicely located in Bloomington, and came up at the express wish of the above two young people who were members of his flock while located here. The reverend gentleman has lots of friends in Dwight who are always glad to see him.

General traveling agent wanted. Male or female. Salary $50 per month and all expenses. No capital needed. We send you full supplies on credit. Must canvass for two weeks and prepare for general agent under special instructions. No specified number of sales necessary to secure this position. Send 50 cts. for postage on outfit. Only those who mean business need apply. Peerless Book House, Chicago, Ill.

In a short article that appeared in the STAR and HERALD last week under the head of "The Joliet News," we made a mistake in the names of the papers. It should have been the "Joliet Republican." "The News" has always been very courteous to Dwight and the Leslie E. Keeley Co., and has said some very kind things regarding our people. They undoubtedly appreciate the fact that Dwight has come from a quiet town of about 1,000 inhabitants three years ago to a rising little city of double that number at present, and if all agreements are kept, the prospects are bright indeed.

Elegant Display.
Every year it is customary for Mrs. Fenn to give the ladies of Dwight and vicinity a chance to examine her display of spring and summer millinery, and this year she will do the same. She has decided on next Thursday and Friday for the time, and the display this year will be far ahead of anything ever seen in Dwight, and will include all the new styles of pattern hats in French and other styles. Miss McFee, the accomplished trimmer who with Miss Fenn last year, has returned and will remain during the season. This young lady comes directly from one of the largest houses in Chicago, and is acknowledged to be one of the best and most artistic trimmers in Chicago. The display of Easter hats at the coming opening will be something wonderful, also the display of all kinds of pretty flowers and fancy trimming goods. The store will surely be a bower of beauty.

Miss Mamie Terwilliger, one of the best dressmakers in these parts, has charge of that department, and does the best of work.

It should be remembered by all that Mrs. Fenn now occupies Miss Burger's old quarters, the fifth store from the corner, and also that the display will be fine and prices reasonable. Don't forget the date—next Thursday and Friday.

Institute Notice.
Since there are many who are desirous of attending the annual institute, whom we can not reach by circular, this brief statement is made, with the request that those interested will call upon us, or send for a circular for further information.

The institute will be held the week beginning April 10th. Every person teaching in this county is expected to be present or to send an excuse that is satisfactory to us prior to the opening of the institute.

If a teacher fails to attend the institute and also fails to present a reasonable excuse, it will be necessary for that teacher to take a full written examination when his or her certificate expires. I will grant certificates to all who show by a written test that their qualifications are sufficient for the work in this county.

There are false reports in circulation regarding the institute, examinations, and certificates. The following is my inflexible rule and it is reasonable and lawful one:—

I will issue certificates to all who prove themselves worthy of them. They may prove their qualifications to me by work at the institute or by writing at an examination. I will renew certificates about to expire, whether of the first or second grade, only when the holders have complied with the conditions stated above. The law says I may renew certificates when I may see fit. I need not do so in any case unless I think it for the interest of all concerned. Teachers who fail to be present or send an excuse, may take the examination when their certificates expire and will receive a certificate the same as any other candidate when they pass the examination.

I wish it distinctly understood that teachers may come to the institute or not as they see fit. If their work in institute justifies it, I will renew their certificates. Those who do not show their qualifications by institute work, must show them by an examination. It will thus be seen that I propose to reward faithful, deserving, hard-working teachers, by excusing them from the labor and expense of an examination.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., March, 1892.

MR. EDITOR:—I keep my promise to you and just send you a few lines about what I have seen, and yet I have not begun to see what I expect to before I return:

My journey across "The Plains" was to me one of deep interest from many standpoints. First you realize what a small proportion of good land there is to the poor, and what seems to be utterly worthless and good for nothing. For hours—yes, and I was going to say for a whole day, you see neither "flesh, fish nor fowl." The minds that planned such vast enterprises as building railroads across the country, and had the wealth and disposition to carry them out, deserve the best praise of mankind. I saw a man-to-day who drove a herd of cattle from Southern Illinois to California, thirty years ago, and it took him six months. Now you can make the journey in four days and four nights and lack none of the comforts of life and have many of the luxuries.

I found myself here on a bright, beautiful clear day. The novelty of the scene impresses one at once. People from all parts of the world, a city built upon hills and the ocean at your very door. I am more impressed than ever with the fact of the independence of the people here on the coast, from those of us who live, move and have a being on the other side of the mountains.

I think I shall like the state when I come to get into it and see the vast orchards of fruit, the flowers, the broad acres of wheat, and the great schemes which are being carried out for turning deserts into areas which can and do blossom as the rose. Yet with all I see and hear, and care to see, I am quite contented to fight it out on the line of Illinois.

The weather here is cold and I wear a heavy overcoat every day but I expect soon to put these emblems of winter into my trunk and pull out my summer clothes. I have done very little sight seeing except to take a peep into "China Town" and ride through the residence portion of the city and look at some of the palaces of the rich California millionaires.

The future of this state must necessarily be great. The diversity of industry and the great demands for its products, the gold and silver mines are enough in themselves to make California yet, one of the richest states in the Union. I leave here in a day or two, to see and explore, and then wend my way down into the land of cotton and sugar.
