

ON A GOLD BASIS.

H. C. Brace was unanimously elected president of the club Thursday.

The new club house was properly dedicated last evening, a full report of which will be published in next week's STAR AND HERALD.

We sent out several notices recently notifying subscribers of the expiration of the time the STAR AND HERALD is paid for. Please respond immediately. We need our money.

Mr. Dr. Banning and daughter, of Chicago, were present at the club Friday morning. The little girl favored the members with a beautiful little song.

The song service at the club room Sunday morning was not as well attended as it should have been. Miss Flagler presided at the piano, and several songs were sung. An encouraging letter was read, and Major E. C. Alliger, of New York, made some very interesting remarks.

H. C. Brace, of the Western Trade Journal, Chicago, is endeavoring to secure the organization of all newspaper publishers and journalists who have taken the Keeley Cure, with a view to discussing the relations of such men to the Cure, and the adoption of some settled policy regarding their attitude toward it.

At Monday morning's meeting of the club an interesting letter was read from Jas. Wood, of Chicago. Jim graduated two years ago and feels so happy that he hurrahed for Keeley every other line in his letter. A letter was also read from a bright little girl regarding the happiness brought to her, her mother and father by Dr. Keeley's great cure. The letter will be published in full in the Banner of Gold next week. The following original poem was also read which elicited lots of applause:

What will the "Keeley Cure" do for either me or you? The question you ask, And I'll make it my task To tell what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? Oh, list to a story true And in modest verse I'll try to rehearse The wonders the "Keeley Cure" will do.

Go ask the men that brew And ask the distiller too They won't even smile But will talk quite a while About what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? It will make you honest and true And trusty and brave Instead of a knave— That's what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

It comes as a glorious truth To bring back hopes of youth And makes you a man As nothing else can That's what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

It banishes pain and fear And clouds which for many a year Have hung like a pall Over each—overall— That's what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? 'Twill make the barkpeepers rue The day it was born For it makes them forlorn To think what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? Go ask our wives so true With hearts full of joy They'll tell you my boy Just what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? The children who prattle and coo In the homes of the land Are a chorus most grand To tell what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? God bless the power that drew This crowd down to Dwight— 'Tis a land of delight— You know what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

What will the "Keeley Cure" do? Many answers I've given to you— But here last and best It gives the devil a rest That's what the "Keeley Cure" will do.

Nicely Entertained.

The Lawrence Club at the Scott House entertained a few of their friends in a royal manner Monday evening. The program consisted of a musical and literary treat, such as is seldom heard in Dwight. There were probably seventy-five or one hundred people that availed themselves of the kind invitation extended, and each number as rendered, received their hearty applause. The first on the program was the Grand March, piano and cornet, by Profs. Temple and Penn, followed by an address of welcome by Major Alliger, of New York. The Major was introduced by Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, and both gentlemen were in a happy mood. The Major is a newspaper man and an author, and is possessed of those fine personal qualities and gentlemanly instincts which draws everyone to him and makes friends everywhere. He is one of the most pleasant and entertaining gentlemen we have had the pleasure of meeting in Dwight. His welcome was cordial and hearty and left the company in a merry mood for the reception of the program. Major Alliger acted as master of ceremonies during part first, and Mr. W. H. Lawrence, of Ohio, during part second. The latter is also a newspaper man, and his publication, the Ohio Farmer, is known in every state in the union. Personally Mr. Lawrence is a pleasant gentleman, one that it is a pleasure to meet.

A baritone solo by Prof. Savitz received much well warranted applause. A recitation "The Origin of the Weeping Willow," by Prof. Temple was excellent in composition and delivery.

The cornet solos by Mr. Strong could not be too highly spoken of. "The Mocking Bird" by Profs. Temple and Penn, and guitar solo, by Mr. Wheeler were excellent.

A recitation by Mr. Lawrence, "Marmion," was very finely rendered. Miss Cora Adams' pretty soprano solo, received a hearty encore, which was responded to.

After a short intermission, part second was enjoyed.

The reciting of a very appropriate and well written poem by Mr. H. C. Brace, of Chicago, elicited rounds of applause. Mr. Brace is also a newspaper man who is known in the whole commercial world, and a man of great ability. He is genial, entertaining, sympathetic, and he and his estimable wife are very popular with all with whom they come in contact.

A baritone solo by Mr. Smith, of New York, was well received. Mr. Smith is an author and critic, and a gentleman of great ability.

A recitation by Mr. McMurrer, of Chicago, received a hearty encore. He responded by giving a laughable imitation of catching a bee.

The duet by Misses Adams and Winkler was nicely rendered and received hearty applause.

The exercises closed with the rendering of a patriotic medley in which all the instruments joined, after which the whole company joined in singing "America."

The visitors then retired to their home having enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

THE HOME PAPER.

A Little Story from Real Life That Carries a Moral.

When you got married to the brightest and best girl in the country, where did you look for that notice that meant so much to you, and so little to nearly everybody else? To your home paper.

When your home was invaded by the blue-eyed girl, or the bouncing baby boy, to whom did you make it your business to convey early information as to the sex, the time and the weight? To the editor of that home paper.

In after years, when some manly young fellow takes that blue-eyed girl to a home of his own, or your own bouncing boy—now a man—is giving a partnership in the store because he had just brought home somebody else's daughter and set up an establishment of his own, to whom do you personally exhibit the wedding presents and load up with the bride's cake, and to whom do you look for that complete description of the interesting event, down to the last pickle fork and individual salt, which, once more, means so much to you and a very few others, and so little to anybody else? To this same editor of that same home paper.

And when trouble comes in the house and you add to your possession that desolate bit of realty, the lot in the cemetery, and somehow the sun does not seem to shine just as it used to, and there's a flutter of crepe at the door and the odor of tubercle in the front parlor, and the chair that has for years been beside yours at the fire-side and opposite you at the table is vacant—when all this happens, who makes it his business to write in tender strain of the one whose life has grown to be a part of yours, and whose sympathy and good deeds to others have long been known and recognized, if never publicly announced?

The editor of the home paper, and he's only too willing to do the little that he can to help you over the hard spot in the road.

And all these years you've advertised in the home paper, and done what you could to help the editor fight your battles in municipal and county matters, and encouraged him as he has worked to build up the town and bring business to it?

How is it? Have you?
