The Rev. H. F. Wood, D. D., of Bath, Me., a gentleman deeply interested in the workings of the Keeley cure, paid a visit to Dwight on Wednesday last. It was his first visit to the parent institute, but is quite familiar with various branches in Maine and other eastern states. Dr. Leslie E. Keeley and the faculty showed the reverend gentleman every attention, and he also met many of the patients, to all of whom he expressed the great gratification he felt at the attention shown him and his delight at all he had seen in connection with the Keeley Institute. In the evening Dr. Wood addressed the meeting in the Congregational church, where the usual attendance of from two to three hundred listened to him with great pleasure.

Good weather the past two weeks has made the country look like a garden. The corn fields are especially in fine condition and the hot weather has made the corn fairly jump out of the ground. Several friends of John R. Oughton were favored this week with Beaver Lake bass, which represented a single afternoon's catch. The generous quantity and the happy experience of the recipients leave no question as to the facts of this fish story. In the distribution, although the box was goodly in size, and the bass well up in numbers, they just missed reaching the printer. We are to have a double quantity next time.
The Epworth League will hold a social at the church next Thursday evening, June 29. Ice cream, cake and lemonade will be served by handsome young ladies in costume for the occasion. Committees are appointed to see that all present enjoy themselves. All committees for the evening will wear a distinctive mark in costumes, badges, etc. Everybody is invited.
A particularly interesting feature in the meeting of the Congregational Sabbath school on Sunday last was an address to the children by Mr. John L. McMurrer, of Elgin, who has just completed a four weeks stay at the Keeley Institute in Dwight. Mr. McMurrer was exceedingly happy in his remarks to the children and closed by reciting that beautiful poem "Somebody's Mother." Mr. McMurrer's departure from Dwight is universally regretted, not only by the patients, but by many friends he has made among our townsmen during his stay and we cordially wish him God-speed as he goes from us to a renewed life of business activity and usefulness.
Who Is John Chalmers Lewis?
Upon the receipt of a large number of handsome steel engraved wedding invitations from Minneapolis, the first of the week, the above question was asked by a great many. The invitation reads as follows:
"Mr. and Mrs. James B. Cooper request your presence at the marriage of their sister, Lucie Jeannette Stockwell, to John Chalmers Lewis, Wednesday evening, June 28, 1893, at 8 o'clock, 1,600 Fourth street, S. E., Minneapolis, Minn. At home after August 1st, Dwight, Ill."
Very few who received the invitations know who John Chalmers Lewis was until they read the last part. Mr. Lewis is familiarly called "J. C." and very few people, even among intimate friends, know what the initials represented. Mr. John Chalmers Lewis left Dwight for Chicago Friday morning, where he remained two days, and then left for the scene of the wedding. The intended bride, Miss Stockwell, is said to be a lady of fine attainments, having taught school in the high grades, and possessing beauty of mind and person. J. C. is as happy and pleased over the coming wedding as a man could be. His many friends in Dwight extend congratulations.

The Libby Prison War Museum.
Of the many attractions outside of the World's Fair in Chicago, there are but few in which is so much interest centered as there is in the Libby Prison War Museum. In 1859 this celebrated prison was removed from Richmond to Chicago and converted into a War Museum. The project was undertaken by a syndicate of the best known business men of the city whose enterprise was conceived in a commercial spirit, but has attained a national reputation. A project such as this was never before heard of. To move a brick and stone building the size of Libby more than a thousand miles, across rivers and mountains, was an enterprise that many of the best known contractors in the West refused to undertake at any price. But the move was made with success. Then the famous old structure was filled with war material that represents the work of a lifetime and the expenditure of half a million dollars. The great collection is conceded to be second to none in the country and includes much of the most valuable material that the greatest civil war the world has ever known has left to posterity. The collection includes thousands and thousands of relics of every description, many of which form important links in the history of the Nation. The old building itself is fraught with interesting memories and the story of the celebrated tunnel escape of Feb. 9, 1864, never fails to interest the visitors. One hundred and nine Union officers made their escape through that tunnel, which formed one of the most thrilling events in the history of the war.
