In Torment.

Surely if there are unhappy sufferers on earth upon whom the angels look down in pity it is the poor agonized with rheumatism. They are in torment the year round, with little or no respite. Now, there is no evidence to which publicity has been given in behalf of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters more concurrent and convincing than that in behalf of its efficacy in incipient rheumatism. And since rheumatism and rheumatic and simple gout are among the most obstinate complaints to which this admirable remedy is adapted, and since they all have a fatal tendency to attack the vital organs, the advisability of an early use of the Bitters, when they manifest themselves, must be apparent. Efficacious, and most signally so, are the Bitters to obtain malarial diseases, kidney and bladder ills, costiveness, dyspepsia, liver complaint and nervous ailments.

WINDOW CLEANING IN SAFETY.

Vienna Servant Girls Protected in the Work by a Rope and Girdle.

Whether it is that the parlor maids of Vienna suffer more from vertigo than those in any other city, whether they have lighter heads and heavier boots than the servant girls of other places, or whether it is that window cleaning is more dangerous in Vienna than elsewhere, certain it is that the lady window cleaner is better protected there than in any other quarter of the globe. The servant girl in the capital of Austria has an attachment that is necessarily of the amatory kind—but co npulsorily of the cordage kind. She must not mount the window sill without her belt and a rope connection with the building, so that should she be overcome by any feeling whatsoever by cleaning the window and lose her head—that is to say, her balance—she can fall only the short length of the rope, and will remain suspended. On this subject a correspondent of the New York Herald writes from Vienna as follows: "A few months ago a parlor maid fell from a fourth floor window sill, and from her hard pavement bed she was removed to our big general hospital. She recovered sufficiently to show that she would never be of use again for hard service, and as it was proved by the police authorities that the lady of the house had provided no safety girdle a heavy fine was imposed. An allowance—if I mistake not—of $2.50 weekly during the lifetime of the injured parlor maid has also to be paid.

A Marked Family.

Charles Hodge, when born, thirteen years ago, had twelve fingers and fourteen toes. A few days ago an operation was performed removing the extra members. Extra fingers and toes appear to have been the rule in his family. His mother and grandmother were alike afflicted in their infancy, as were all his maternal grandparents for the last five or six generations.

Dear Sir—Two years ago I was pale and emaciated, food fermented in my stomach. A physician pronounced my case "Catarrh of the Stomach," but he could not help me. I lived a month without solid food and when I tried to eat it would vomit. At this time I began taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and in two weeks I was decidedly better. I am now in good health, and never felt better in my life. I have a better color, eat more, and have no distress after eating—having gained thirteen pounds since I began taking them.

CURED ME.

Dropsical Swelling, Cold as Ice.

LIFE WAS A BURDEN.

"Swamp-Root" saved my life after I had suffered everything but death.

I send you my photograph and this description of my case and you can use it if you wish.
My hands were as cold as ice; fire would not warm them. Dropsical swellings of the lower limbs; I could not button my shoes. Exertion completely exhausted me; death seemed so very near. The swellings have gone, and all my troubles have disappeared. My health is better now than it has been for years.

REPORT ON HAWAII.

MINORITY CHARGES VIOLATION OF THE CONSTITUTION.

The Republican Members of the Foreign Affairs Committee Say President Cleveland Overstepped His Powers — Tariff Will Precede Other Legislation.

Unworthy the Nation.

Washington correspondence:

The minority report on the resolutions presented by Chairman McCreary on the day Congress adjourned as a substitute for the Hitt resolutions has been finished. It was prepared by Mr. Storer of Ohio, and is signed by Messrs. Hitt, Harmer, Blair, Draper, and Van Vorhis of New York. It is very voluminous, and goes in detail into the whole history of Mr. Blount's appointment as commissioner paramount and the course of the administration. It reads in part:

When President Cleveland was inaugurated, March 4, 1893, the Hawaiians were under the control of a republican government recognized, not only by the United States but by every civilized nation. This government was in name provisional, but was, in fact, to remain in existence for an indefinite period, until the time when terms of union with the United States should have been agreed upon. The Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Hawaii was in person at his post and the Senate of the United States was in session. The President sent to the Senate the name of Mr. Gresham as Secretary of State, and that body, March 5, confirmed the appointment. It was at that time generally stated, though as yet not officially known that James H. Blount started from Washington March 9 on a mission to the Hawaiian Islands with verbal secret instructions from the President. If this be true, his subsequent written instructions, which made public note in the Senate by the outgoing administration Feb. 14, was withdrawn by the President March 9, between the time of Mr. Blount's departure and the date of his written instructions.

Then follow copies of the instructions to Mr. Blount, with Mr. Cleveland's greeting to President Dole. The narrative then proceeds to relate Mr. Blount's action in hauling down the American flag and the investigation which he made. It then discusses at length the President's power to appoint a diplomatic officer armed with powers given to Mr. Blount without the consent of the Senate. The report goes on:

This covers all that is needed to show how the President ignored the plain language of the constitution. He has assumed to appoint of his own volition, without the advice of the Senate, a diplomatic officer with plenipotentiary powers. To try to argue that Mr. Blount was not a diplomatic officer of the United States, but only "my representative," is idle.

There is no ground of debate now whether the present Hawaiian Government was rightly or wrongly established nearly five years ago. The issue is directly before the House whether to approve and commend the course of the present administration as declared by himself. If a President, without the consent of the Senate, can send a paramount diplomatic officer to supersede a minister resident, the latter only routine duties, he may do it in Great Britain or in Germany as well as in the Hawaiian Islands. That officer according to the President's apologists, is only the "President's commissioner" and not an officer of the diplomatic service of the United States. The same right asserted here to appoint an ambassador under the name of commissioner will enable the President to appoint any agent of his own without conference with any other branch of the government to exercise judicial functions paramount to judges already in office by and with the Senate's consent. After a review and consideration of the course and the administration as appears from its own records, the minority of your committee have no hesitation in recommending the adoption of the following substitute for the resolution reported by the majority:

"WHEREAS, Executive communications to Congress disclose that the executive department has been furnishing to a Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States instructions to conspire with the representatives and agents of a deposed and discarded monarchy for the overthrow of a friendly existing government, duly recognized by all the civilized nations to which said minister was accredited, and to which his public instructions pledged the good faith and sympathy of the President, the Government and the people of the United States:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this House that such intervention by the executive of the United States, its civil or military representatives or officers, without authority of Congress, is a dangerous and unwarranted invasion of the rights and dignities of the Congress of the United States, and a violation of the law of nations, and further

"Resolved, That the manner of such attempted intervention by the executive and methods used are unworthy the executive department of the United States, while the confessed intent of such intervention is contrary to the policy and traditions of the Republic and the spirit of the Constitution."

TARIFF WILL PRECEDE.

Other Legislation Will Await the Passage of the Wilson Bill.

A Washington dispatch says that it is generally agreed among Democratic Senators that the financial question will be allowed to remain untouched in the Congress until the tariff bill shall be disposed of. Senator Voorhees replied to a question concerning his silver bill that no effort whatever would be made to press it until the tariff bill should be out of the way. Then, he said, the bill would receive attention and he thought it would prove the solution of the problem. He said he felt confident that after Senators and members had an opportunity to examine it they would see its merits and put it through both houses before adjourning. Representative Bland has also said recently that he did not expect to try to get up his free coinage bill in the House until after the disposal of the tariff.

There is more or less talk of Secretary Carlisle's suggestion favorable to the issuance of bonds to provide for the Government deficit, but that with other financial questions will probably go over until after the tariff question shall be settled. There is a general feeling that primarily the tariff is of greater importance than any other question at present, and the belief is gaining ground that there will be a great effort to provide for the deficit in connection with the tariff bill in some way without issuing bonds. It is known that the silver men who approve bonds have practically appealed their cases from Congress to the country, and they will be prepared to use a vote for bonds against any man who does not favor silver, and to make the war all the fiercer on account of bonds.

MILLIONS OF IDLE MONEY.

New York Associated Banks Still Accumulating Cash.

The New York Financier says that the surplus reserve of the associated banks of New York has now reached the enormous sum of $80,815,150. The official report of the clearing-house shows an increase in the reserve of $2,877,375 for the five business days ending Dec. 30. The actual cash on hand, composed of $106,316,400 in specie and $101,708,200 in legal tenders, amounts to $207,424,600. To an ordinary mind this sum is almost inconceivable, but it becomes plainer when it is known that if it was all in gold eagles and it was to attempt to count it, he would be more than three years and six months going through the operation, if he counted one gold piece a second and worked for five consecutive hours each day. What to do with the surplus cash has become a problem with the more intricate than the famous fifteen puzzle.

The banks are making no money, and it is more than probable that at least one bank will shortly go into liquidation on account of the unprofitable business which it is forced to carry. The aggregate deposits of the clearing-house banks is over $700,000,000, and the gain for the past week amounts to $7,550,100. Money continues to flow to this center in an unchecked stream, the increase in cash being $1,774,900, of which $1,795,700 was in specie and $3,979,200 in legal tenders. Loans were expanded $1,351,100 and the circulation was contracted $141,800. It is quite probable that Congress will authorize a bond issue in the near future, and there is no doubt that the New York banks will take a large portion of the issue. The averages, as exhibited in the statement, compared with the same time last year, are as follows:

	Dec. 30, 1893.	Dec. 31, 1892.
Loans	$417,696,900	$437,72[illegible]
Specie	106,316,400	75,96[illegible]
Legals	101,708,200	42,08[illegible]
Deposits	406,457,900	444,89[illegible]
Circulation	19,111,900	5,854,600
Total reserve	$207,424,600	$117,946,900
Reserve required	126,069,450	111,147,850
Excess of reserve	80,815,150	6,799,050

GLOBE THEATER BURNS.

Boston's Famous Play-House a Prey to Flames for the Second Time.

Fire at Boston originating in the Globe Theater, Monday night, caused the destruction of the theater and nearly all the other buildings in the square bounded by Washington and Essex streets, Hayward place and Harrison avenue. The total damage is not known, but will reach into the millions.

The fire was discovered in the coat-room of the theater, and in fifteen minutes the entire building was in flames. The building is so located that it was impossible for the firemen to enter it, or to reach the flames except on one side, and in the rear was an old section filled with old buildings which would go very quickly if once ignited. Across the street from the theater are three large hotels, and almost a panic existed among the guests, for at this point Washington street is not more than forty feet wide, and the heat from the theater fire was intense. Fifty fire engines poured water upon the flames, but so hard was the fire to get at that no perceptible effect could be seen. At 2:40 there were five explosions of considerable force, which scattered the embers of the fire skyward and threw down the wall between the theater and the store next south toward Essex street. The whole block seemed doomed, and in five minutes the square bounded by Hayward place, Essex street, and Harrison avenue was a solid mass of flames.

The theater building covers 15,500 square feet of land. In this square there are fifteen buildings besides the Globe Theater on Washington street. The explosions were caused by the calcium tanks in the theater. At 3 o'clock the fire was put under control by the falling of a great party wall which served to smother the flames within the square. There was still the danger of the explosions, but anxiety was soon allayed in that respect. There is not a building of the dozen or more in the square that is uninjured and with only three or four exceptions not even the walls will be saved. Among the losers by the fire are the Bryant & Stratton Business College; R. T. Almy & Co., retail clothing; Thomas White & Co., Flinn & Mahoney, European agents; S. C. Chase & Co., rubber goods; Hotel Pierpont; Burleigh's trunk store; A. T. Regan, shoes; Leache's sewing machine parlors, Willcox & Gibbs, sewing machines; A. F. Robinson & Co., and others. The Globe Theater is the second theater of that name on the same site.

TOOK A FIRM STAND.

United States Action as to Brazil Prevented European Interference.

What might have been a serious international complication growing out of the Brazilian troubles is now regarded as having been practically settled by the firm attitude of the United States in the matter. The sharp rebuke administered to Admiral Stanton for saluting the insurgent flag and the massing of armored cruisers off the Brazilian coast have certainly had a more important purpose than the mere desire to maintain an indifferent neutrality between Mello and the republican government of President Peixoto or the protection of the private interests of American citizens. A Washington dispatch says that Secretary Gresham was advised some weeks ago that there was something more behind the plans of Admiral Mello than the discontent of a few naval officers, and that unless shrewd diplomacy was used the United States might become involved in hostile relations with some of the great European powers.

It is well recognized by the friends of the Brazilian Republic in this country that Admiral Mello stands for the monarchical element in Brazil and that he has been endeavoring to secure the support of some of the great powers in overturning the republic. Monarchist circles in Paris and some of the other European capitals have been in a flutter of expectancy regarding Mello's movements, and it is declared they have been looking to the young son of Count d'Eu, who is the grandson of Dom Pedro, to become the head of the restored empire.

FIFTY MILLIONS STARVING.

National Congress at Lahore Asks the Government to Succor Them.

The resolutions adopted by the National Indian Congress declare that 50,000,000 of people are on the verge of starvation, and urge the Government to take immediate steps to succor them. The resolutions adopted by the Congress also record the deep regret of the members at the hasty enactment closing the mints, which it was claimed further burdened the people with taxation and disconcerted important trades and industries, notably the cotton-spinning industry. In addition the Congress emphatically protested against the exchange of compensation to undomiciled European or Eurasian employes and banks. The next Congress will meet at Madras.

Newspaper Men.

"While there are reporters who 'hound' public men, there are also public men who badger the newspaper folk," writes Julian Ralph in an article on "The Newspaper Correspondent" in Scribner's Magazine. Stories of reporters' presumption are widely circulated, and in some cases are undoubtedly true. But there are men engaged in newspaper work who do not forget their own claim upon the respect of others. Mr. Ralph says:

I once congratulated an English reporter, who told me he had reported Gladstone's speeches for nearly twenty years, upon knowing that statesman so well.

"God bless you," said he, "I don't know him at all. I was once unable to escape from his car without passing him, when he came in unexpectedly, and a friend introduced me to him. But I never presumed upon that, you know."

To "beat" his fellows is still the chief aim and glory of every man who writes on the news pages, but the "beat"—as an exclusive piece of news is called—is growing to be more and more a product of intimate acquaintance with public men, and less and less a result of agility of mind and body.

I remember a delightful half-hour when a Tribune man tried to reach a country wire first in order to get his dispatch started ahead of the rest. We had to run three miles over a plain that was one great glare of ice.

He was the faster runner, and appeared to have everything his own way, but suddenly he slipped and rolled down the side of a gully to bring up at the bottom badly hurt. The tearing of his clothes and peeling of his face did not bother him, but his ankle was sprained and he could not walk without help.

"I give up," said he. "Will you help me to the village?"

"I don't know," I replied. "Is the wire mine?"

"Of course," said he: "I'm done."

But I gave him his turn at it.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Pacific Whaling.

The old-fashioned whaling ships have been practically ousted from the whaling industry in the Arctic Ocean by the new steam whalers. They have been trying to hold out against very great odds, but the disastrous experience of the past two years has convinced most old skippers that their day is past, and the greater number of the old whalers will not fit out this season. While more whales were taken in the Arctic last season than ever before, the catch of the steamers being 271, yet eight steam sailing vessels failed to take a single whale, and nearly all were losers by the season's trip. Fifteen sail whalers will tie up at Oakland this winter, which will throw about five hundred men out of employment and cause many thousands of dollars to be unspent.

Cold Process of Preserving.

The use of salicylic acid and salyx in canning is injurious. The Medical World of March, 1893, says, in an article on the adulteration of food: "The use of cheap adulteration of food is deleterious, but worse than all is the use of powerful antiseptics to prevent food from decomposition."

The United States Dispensatory says: "Salicylic acid has been used for the preservation of various kinds of food, but the employment of it should be interdicted. A commission by the French Government reports that its prolonged use, even in small amounts is dangerous, especially to aged persons."

While some physicians occasionally prescribe it in small quantities, others have abandoned the practice.

As all fruits, etc., may be preserved successfully by means of heat, without leaving any injurious effects, it is the part of wisdom to use the good and shun the evil way.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Edison on Flying Machines.

"Once I placed an aerial motor on a pair of Fairbanks scales and set it going," said Thomas A. Edison. "It lightened the scales, but it didn't fly. Another time I rigged up an umbrella-like disk or shutters, and connected it with a rapid piston in a perpendicular cylinder. These shutters would open and shut. If I could have got sufficient speed, say a mile a second, the inertia or resistance of the air would have been as great as steel, and the quick operation of these shutters would have driven the machine, but I couldn't get the speed. I believe that before the air-ship men succeed they will have to do away with the buoyancy chamber."

ARABIC figures were not invented by the Arabs, but by the early scholars of India. Cleopatra's Needles were not erected by that Queen, neither do they commemorate any event in her history. They were set up by Rameses the Great.

THE USUAL treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary benefit. A cure certainly can not be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient.
