LONG DEBATES ARE AHEAD OF CONGRESS.

House Will Grapple with the Tariff, and the Senate with the Federal Elections Law—Hawaii May Intrude—Many Amendments Offered.

Getting Down to Business. Washington Correspondence. DEBATE and not action will mark the preceding a few days in the House the feature will be the tariff debate, and in the Senate the bill to repeal the federal elections law. Amid the Hornblower nomination, it is expressed, it is the impression of the majority report of the Judiciary Committee adverse to confirmation to insist upon final action, so in view of the fact that which Senators have interested themselves in the case, it may occupy the attention of the body in executive session for two days.

Otherwise Senator Gray, of Delaware, will call up the elections repeal bill. The bill will be made by an unfinished business and before the Senate until passed or defeated. It is understood that the Democratic Senators have decided to refrain from extended debate on this subject and will content themselves with two or three speeches, which may be made by Senators Gray, Bate and Hill. The Republican speakers will be Senators Lodge, Frye, Chandler and Hoar, and perhaps others. The present expectation is that the debate will consume at least two weeks.

Coming events will cast their shadows before in a village of a tag speeded to be delivered by Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire. Of course there is always present a possibility of resolutions and speeches on the subject of Hawaii during the morning hours, and this probability is ruled out by the fact that the recently published correspondence, but tariff will be the almost exclusive talk in the House. The House will take up the consideration of the bill under the five minute rule, and the paragraphs upon the amendments. The desk of Chairman Richardson is covered with amendments that will be proposed by various members who want to make sure that their propositions will receive proper attention.

Routine Proceedings. In the House, Wednesday, Mr. Boutelle (Rep.) of Maine, again precipitated a Grand Jurors' report on the Hawaiian resolution. Then Mr. Hopkins (Rep.) of Illinois, took the floor to conclude his speech on the tariff bill. Thursday, Mr. Cummings (Rep.) of New York, from the Naval Committee, reported the Boutelle resolution calling on the Secretary of the Treasury for information on Hawaiian matters.

Authority for delegating to Commissioner Blount control of the United States mail service, the resolution was reported back with an amendment asking for information in the Navy Department from March 4, 1892, instead of December 1, 1892. The resolution was immediately considered. As this required unanimous consent, Mr. Dockery (Rep.) of Maine, declined to be projected. Mr. Cummings then asked that the resolution lie on the Speaker's table without losing its privileges, and this was ordered.

The resolution on the tariff was continued. Congressman Tom L. Johnson characterized the bill as a protection measure. In the Senate a resolution by Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Nevada, which was in force in the office of the supervising architect of the treasury to prepare a statement of the public buildings was laid before the Senate in the morning hour, and was the subject of a discussion.

Hawaii was debated in the Senate Tuesday. Mr. Turpie denounced ex-Minister Stevens and Mr. Davis the flag incident. Speeches were made upon the tariff bill were limited to one hour. Many members took part in the debate.

Discussion of the tariff bill under the five minute rule began in the House Monday. Numerous amendments were offered. By a vote of 39 to 24 the Senate rejected the nomination of W. B. Hornblower to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court. The Senate passed a bill authorizing construction of certain levees across the Kansas and Mississippi rivers and the Arkansas, Missouri and the junction of the Colorado and Gila rivers for use as a territorial prison.

Little routine business was transacted by the House Tuesday. A number of amendments to the tariff bill were offered and accepted. A long and interesting discussion was precipitated by the resignation of Mr. Burrows' effort to secure the balance of the amendment would not recognize Mr. Burrows. The Senate held a short secret session, which will be held to repeal the federal election laws. The House will take up the House bill to amend the laws so as to require original receipts for deposits of postmasters to be sent to the Secretary of the Treasury for the Postoffice Department.

was taken from the calendar and passed. Mr. Hollinger introduced the Senate on the subject of the resignation of Mr. Burrows, and the resolution offered by the Senate that it is the wish of the Senate that it is laws do attempt any change in the tariff law. The bill to establish an administration. Senator Ferra, Idaho, was on motion of Mr. Dubois taken from the calendar and passed.
