The circulation of the STAR and HERALD is increasing rapidly in Broughton and Union and if the Dwight merchants wish to bring the trade this way they should offer some inducements through its columns to the people there. This is a time when people are looking for the most for the least money.

In last week's issue we made some errors in the names of the officers in the G. A. R. Post. We give this week a corrected list: C. W. Ayling, C. William Constantine, S. V. C.; Henry Spillman, J. V. C.; Moses McLain, Chaplain; James Williams, Q. M.; Martin Reinhardt, Serg.; Henry Fox, O. D.; Martin Seabert, O. G.; F. W. Ford, Adj.; S. H. Howe, S. M.; J. Weller, Q. M. S.

A telegram was received in Dwight announcing that the California tourists had arrived at Los Angeles safely at 8 o'clock last Saturday evening, all well and happy. Letters were also written from Little Rock and San Antonio, which said that Mr. Pollard was standing the trip well. We expect to receive some communications from Mr. McWilliams during his absence.

We are in receipt of the Rockford Daily Star which gives "A Turkish Bath" a great send off, and says "Marie Heath, the bright and particular star of the aggregation, is brighter this season than ever before. Her singing is sweeter, and her work more clever in every respect. She is an incessant worker and yet never appears to work at all. Her pranks and antics come with an easy grace that is refreshing." Monday evening next at the opera house.

Rev. P. M. France of Lyndon, Ill., formerly pastor of Congregational church in Dwight, made us a pleasant call Friday. His congregation kindly voted him a vacation. It will be remembered that Mrs. France recently died, after a long and painful illness, and Mr. France was completely unnerved from constant watching and care, and his present rest was much needed and appreciated. Mr. France and A. Brubaker celebrate their natal day together Thursday. Mr. France will visit in Sycamore next week.

Good Fertilizer.
Engineer A. L. Jones, of the accommodation, informs us of the fact that the Alton road has a contract for hauling out of Chicago thousands of carloads of good, rich manure, and that it is being left along their line already as far out as Braidwood, and he thinks that it would be brought to or near Dwight if someone would go to the trouble of asking the authorities, or applying to Road Master Driscoll, or maybe, his assistant, Wm. Thornton, of Dwight. This manure is being used on nearly every farm near Chicago, and with excellent results. One case which Mr. Jones cites last season: A farmer used it liberally on forty acres and raised eighty bushels of corn to the acre and another close by who used nothing raised thirty.

If any of the farmers in this neighborhood wish to test this fertilizer and will leave their names at this office in sufficient number the editor of this paper will see what can be done about it, or they can go personally to the C & A agent or Assistant Road Master W. H. Thornton, who, we are satisfied, will do all they can consistently for this community.

Death of Mrs. Mary Essington.
Mrs. Mary Essington, one of Plainfield's oldest residents, died at the home of her son, Albert, on the Joliet road, Monday at the ripe age of 74 years. Mrs. Essington came from England with her husband in an early day, and he was a blacksmith in Plainfield for several years, but died about four years ago. Mrs. Essington's funeral occurred at the home of her son, Joseph Buffham, Rev. Hamand pastor of the Universalist church, of which she was an honored member, officiating.

Mrs. Essington's maiden name was Mary Ann Green. She was born near Gosberton, Risga, England, and was married to John Buffham, who died some years later leaving a family of three children, two sons and a daughter.—John, Joseph and Mary—the latter marrying John Stafford. Mrs. Stafford died two years ago. Mrs. Buffham lived a widow about seven years, and in 1856 married George Essington, a widower with eight children. They shortly afterward sailed from Liverpool on the ship "Constellation" arriving at Castle Garden about the middle of April, 1856. They then proceeded to the home of Mr. Essington's brother, at that time a resident of Barber's Corners, Will county, Illinois. Soon after they bought a home in Plainfield, and with their combined family of eleven moved there in the fall. She has been a resident of Plainfield and vicinity ever since. Two children, Seth and Albert, were born to the latter union, Seth dying in infancy.—Plainfield Enterprise.

Quiet Wedding.
A brilliant though quiet wedding took place at the home of Miss Mabel Koehler, 128 Seminoles street, last Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock. The bride was Miss Hazel Koehler, the beautiful and accomplished doll of Miss Mabel. The groom is Mr. Glade, a highly respected and very quiet young man. Mr. Walter Koehler rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march on his mouth organ, as the bridal party entered the parlor and took their places before Rev. One Lung who, in his most impressive manner made the happy couple one forever, or, until they should be parted by being broken.

After congratulations, a most tastefully arranged wedding supper was served and the bride and groom started on an extended wedding trip. Some useful and beautiful presents were received. The invited guests were, Misses Winnie and Louise Leach, Fannie Knudson, Florence Judd, Clara Naffziger and Litta Haase.

At Havlin's.
A Turkish Bath is the Charley Hoyt-ish title of the bright and witty comedy at Havlin's this week. In many ways it out-Hoyts Hoyt, the Yankee playwright, and produces just as many laughs in a given time as his famous money-makers.

As the Turkish Bath's name tacitly admits, the play is a farce of the screaming variety. All the people get twisted up in the first act, the "dip," yet worse tangled in the second, the "sweat," and become wholly inextricable in the third and last, called the "plunge." Pretty Marie Heath is the bright particular star on top of the programme and does much to ingratiate herself and her following with the audience.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

Heather Lad and Dwight Elie Wm.
J. R. Oughten was in receipt of a dispatch from Ame Orr Wednesday which said "Three first." Ame is in New Orleans at the bench show, and although the dispatch is not exactly clear, it is thought Heather Lad has taken first in best Gordon Setter dog class and first in open class, and Elie first in bitch class.

Mr. Oughten is also in receipt of a letter from a prominent kennel owner of Chicago, M. A. Bruette, M. D. C., asking permission to use a cut of Heather Lad on the cover of a book he is about to issue regarding blooded dogs. Mr. Bruette considers Lad the finest specimen of Gordon setter. Mr. Oughten will allow the use of the cut.

Harness Taken.
A harness was taken from Simon Rhode's stable a few days ago. The party who took it is known, and to avoid trouble, he better return it to the stable immediately. SIMON RHODE.
