

STENOGRAPHER'S BILLS.

They are Hard to Collect—How to Get a Remedy.

These are bitter days for stenographers. There is just as much work now as ever before, but collection is slow and uncertain. One of them told me the other day that he had been doing $1,200 worth of work for every $100 he had received during the last year. A movement is now on foot to raise a fund to send a competent lawyer before the Supreme Court and argue against the celebrated Bonyage decision.

Mr. Brooks's Trunk. Among the many fine traits of Phillips Brooks's character was that of kindness, a consideration for all, and a lack of selfishness to his own comfort or convenience.

They went by boat, changing at Rockland in the early morning for the Mt. Desert steamer, which leaves as soon as possible after the arrival of the Boston boat.

Mr. Brooks looked at the poor cripple for a moment, and then, handing him the bag, said, "All right; you just run along with this bag and I'll manage the trunk."
