KEELEY LEAGUE NEWS.

Work on the new club house is progressing slowly.

Col. N. A. Reed Jr., of Chicago, was a Dwight visitor Tuesday and Wednesday.

The club house entertainment hall is to be re-painted inside and will still be used for morning meetings and Tuesday evening entertainments.

John V. Haney, of Chicago, a graduate of the Hammond Keeley Institute, visited Dwight Thursday in company with Dr. W. P. McGinn, the former physician in charge at Hammond.

The following officers were elected Tuesday: President, L. D. Many, Chicago; 1st Vice President, Anthony A. Scheidt, Dyer, Ind.; 2nd Vice Pres., Emil Weber, Bloomfield, Mo.; H. E. Root, of Ft. Worth, Texas, was appointed Sergeant at Arms.

At the Tuesday evening entertainment, able addresses were made by Rev. Ayling and Col. N. A. Reed Jr., editor of the Banner of Gold. Miss Lizzie Winkler sang a beautiful solo, Miss Cora Adams playing the accompaniment, Frank Ford played a piano solo in his usually excellent manner.

The veteran actor, John Dillon celebrated the thirty anniversary of his graduation last Monday by running down from Chicago to spend the day in Dwight. An informal reception was held by him for a couple of hours in Secretary Brown's office, where he received the congratulations of the patients who complimented him on his youthful appearance. Mr. Dillon is passing his annual vacation with his daughter in Chicago. He expects to be in Dwight next fall with his theater company.

JOHN BURNS.

The most conspicuous man among the newer members of the Labor party in the British House of Commons is John Burns, writes Justin McCarthy, M. P. He has about him the charm of a strong, self-reliant manhood—he is above all things a man. You can see this in his dark, soft, gleaming eyes. They are eyes which invite confidence. John Burns is a working engineer who has led a toiler's life, aloft and ashore and under various conditions. He has worked along the mysterious African rivers which are associated in the minds of most of us with the explorings of Stanley and of Emin Pasha. He has worked in London sheds and yards. He is a fine and powerful speaker, and can control a vast meeting of workmen with irresistible force. He is a great democratic influence, and political parties and social organizations can hardly reckon without him. He seldom speaks in the House of Commons, but when he does speak he speaks well and goes straight to the point. He never speaks but on some subject which he thoroughly understands and about which he has something important and direct to say. He has a fine and even thrilling voice, and one always feels that some day when his time comes and his own question is uppermost he will make a great speech.
