EDITORIAL NOTES.

Bad Breckinridge is going to lecture. Miss Pollard is going to lecture. Will it be a joint debate?

The Republicans have been holding public praise meetings all over the country, but they seem to be still on a still hunt in Livingston.

The Chicago Tribune has commenced to abuse the country Republican editors again. The Tribune has no more courtesy than it has reliability.

McKinley and Wilson as the opposing candidates for president, in 1896, would draw the lines very tight and straght and decide forever which the people want—protection or free trade.

The very best thing the republican party can do is to nominate Wm. McKinley for president in 1896. McKinleyism won the last election and McKinley can win the next, because his "ism" is al right.

Col. J. B. Parsons has filed a $400,000 bond. Evidently the campaign story that he was not honest is not credited by his bondsmen. The new county officers will capture most of the court house one week from next Monday. That would be a good time to jubilate.

Dick Yates, of Jacksonville, Ill., who, it will be remembered, was defeated for congressman at large, two years ago, on the republican ticket, was this year elected county judge in his county, running two hundred votes ahead of his ticket. Everyone will be pleased to hear of the old war governor's son's success.

It should be clear to every business man that when a wholesale house offers to give you printed stationery, they are not doing it for their health. They either charge more than the goods are worth to make up the extra or furnish an inferior quality and the consumer eventually gets the worst of it. The houses to deal with are those who do not offer bribes for trade, but sell good goods at a fair price.

The Bloomington Bulletin, in speaking of the recent actions of Senator John F O'Malley, of Chicago, said in substance, that what seemed to be the matter with O'Malley was that he could not drink like a gentleman. The Bulletin evidently draws the line on shooting people outside the family. A man drinks like a gentleman, until he commences to try and kill people, and after that, in the opinion of the Bulletin, he's no gentleman. The editor's estimate of gentlemen is about the same as O'Malley's.

There are occasional merchants who yet are foolish enough to imagine they get something for nothing when some wholesale house offers them free printed stationery with a bill of goods. Everyone should know that houses that do that kind of business either make the price of the stationery up by selling inferior goods or charging a higher price, or both. The best wholesale houses do not do that kind of business. The dizzy ones use stationery as a sort of a sandbagging corruption fund, as it were.

Chairman James Morrow and Secretary Ralph Bradford, of the Livingston county republican committee, sent out congratulatory letters to all captains in the county, informing them that they were captains, in a political sense, or words to that effect. That's the way to do business—give credit where credit is due. Livingston county was well organized and worked together from the head to the foot. The chairman and secretary of course had the hardest part of it, but they received all the assistance they asked for and they appreciate it.

Miss Nellie McWilliams returned last week from her foreign trip, having enjoyed a very pleasant visit. John McWilliams met Miss McWilliams in New York City and returned with her.

The coming attraction of "Side Tracted" will prove a worthy attraction for this city. Jule Walters, as the tramp, is said to be very amusing. Next Wednesday, Nov. 28, at Dwight opera house.

The M. E. Danish fair held in Mrs. Koehnlein's hall on Mazon avenue last Thursday evening, was well attended. The display of articles for sale was very pretty, and everything passed off nicely.

The amusing comedy features and excellent specialty work seen in Jule Walters' "Side Tracked," makes it one of the most popular that has visited us this season. At Opera House, Wednesday, Nov. 28.

The six mile limit of speed ordinance, regulating trains going through Dwight, amounts to about as much as the protection to crossings request. It's about time the village board attended to this business. The protection of the lives of our citizens demand it.

We hear it rumored that H. A. Kenyon has purchased the residence recently occupied by Spencer Eldridge and family, and that the latter has purchased the residence recently occupied by Conductor Gage and formerly owned by Geo. Baker. They were both the property of members of the Leslie E. Keeley Co.

Revs. Kent, of Forrest; Watson, of Danvers; Wright, of Dwight; Swanson, of Odell; and Davis of Chenoa, the Congregational ministers who took part in the recent fellowship meeting in Dwight, are none of your long-faced, chilly ministers, but light-hearted, fun-loving christian gentlemen. They make things lively wherever they are in a christian, moral and social sense. Come again gentlemen.

A number of young friends gathered at the home of Miss Rosa Lightholder on last Tuesday evening and enjoyed a taffy pull. The occasion of the gathering was the celebration of the 16th birthday of Miss Rosa. After the making of the candy and serving of refreshments, the usual games were enjoyed till late in the evening, and when the gathering broke up, it was to go home realizing that the evening had been one of rare enjoyment.

Friday evening, Nov. 16, will long be remembered by Miss Eva Lesser and her many friends who gave her a pleasant surprise, it being her birthday. They assembled early in the evening ready to enjoy the festivities of the occasion. Numerous games were played, until supper was announced, and then the merry hum of voices told of the "Good Wishes" bestowed upon Miss Eva's future. So the pleasant event was brought to a close, and another picture now hangs on memory's wall.

Dolls—of all kinds, shapes, sizes, colors, conditions and prices—are, and have been, the matter of absorbing interest in Y. W. C. T. U. circles for weeks. The weekly meetings have been wholly given to the pleasant task of increasing the number and variety of these interesting creatures, and on Dec. 18, the most pleasing and unique exhibition will be opened under the auspices of the young ladies in the shape of a "Doll Bazaar." No one should miss this exhibition. There will be found dolls representing about 170 different nations and tribes, with as many different languages and dialects, and for the convenience of strictly American visitors, guides and interpreters will be at hand, through whom conversation can be carried on just as gracefully with the little black Hottentot doll as with the large, truly American wax lady. You can't afford to miss this rare exhibition.

Fellowship Meeting.

The "Fellowship Meetings" which are being held in this district, arrived in Dwight Wednesday. These meetings have been instruments of much good for the churches and for the cause of Christ, wherever they have been held. The first meeting here was Wednesday evening at 7:30, when song service was held. Rev. C. W. Ayling followed in a fervent prayer. This was followed by an eloquent sermon by Rev. C. E. Watson, of Danvers.

Thursday morning praise service was held at 9:30, followed by a very able discourse entitled, "Sunshine in the Soul," by Rev. L. G. Kent of Forrest. At 10:20 Rev. I. T. Swanson, of Odell, delivered a splendid discourse on "Troubles of Children of Discipleship." This was followed by public discussion in which several took part. About 11:10 Rev. Watson, of Normal, spoke on "The Church Prayer Meeting." This was also followed by an interesting discussion.

Thursday afternoon the opening exercises were at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. B. Davies, of Chenoa, addressed the audience on "Social Phases of Church Life," and Rev. C. E. Watson followed with an able discussion of "Prayer Meeting." Mrs. S. P. Root, of Odell, read an able paper on The Y. P. S. C. E. in Local Church Work—Its Opportunity and Responsibility. A comprehensive discussion of the same closed the afternoon exercises.

The last evening was a very interesting one. Song service was followed by a very fine address by Rev. Kent, his subject being "Christ in the Home." He was followed by Rev. Swanson in an interesting short address, the subject of which was "All At It; Always At It." The latter was a gem and we should like to publish it in full if space would permit.

Thus closed a splendid meeting.
