Morris Dog and Pony Show.

The dog and pony show Friday and Saturday last week, afternoon and evening, was a very interesting and unique exhibition. The trick ponies were good and several original tricks were introduced which were unique. The show was up-to-date and many times worth the money. Clown acts were frequent.

Respectful Resolutions.

There was probably no citizen in Dwight who had served the city more faithfully than the late Homer A. Kenyon. Considering this fact it was deemed proper for the city council to pass resolutions of respect for his memory, which was done as follows at the last meeting Tuesday, as follows:

WHEREAS, The citizens of the Village of Dwight mourn the loss of our fellow citizen, Homer A. Kenyon, who for more than thirty years have been personally identified with every village improvement, and

WHEREAS, For the past four years he served faithfully as one of the Renfrew Park Commissioners, as is evidenced by the many improvements made therein, and

WHEREAS, As much as we regret his untimely death, yet we bow submissively to the will of the Great Creator of this universe, to whose tender care we commend his wife and family, in this, their sad hour of bereavement; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That out of respect for his memory, a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the Village of Dwight, and that an engrossed copy be prepared and presented to his widow.

W. H. KITCHAM,
JOHN GEIS,
SIMON P. KLITZ,
Committee.

Morris Line-up.

Work of the Storm.

The storm of last Saturday did considerable damage in the vicinity of Ransom. It unroofed a crib and upset a timothy stack, besides blowing down several apple trees on the farm of Michael Corrigan. It also laid his field of corn flat on the ground. The lightning struck in Pat Turner's field, and also in John Smith's field. It struck the barn on Alex. Magee's farm and burned the barn and contents. The Ed. Griffith machine was threshing at Magee's place, and the help saved the horses and other buildings from the flames. Al. Sulzberger was stunned by lightning while taking off the belts from their threshing machine, which was doing the threshing at the farm of Ed. Phelan. It gave him a hard shock.

Former Dwight Boy's Heroism.

Port Chester, N. Y. Daily Item: Faith Groser and Lena Miller, both of White Plains, who are camping at Oakland, were saved from drowning yesterday afternoon by the prompt assistance of Tom Harding, of Maine, who is also camping with a party of Port Chester young men at the Beach, and Miss G. Osse's father. The young man is the son of Captain Harding, U. S. N., now stationed in Manila, in command of the U. S. hospital ship, Relief. The young ladies had swam to Bar Rock and resting there awhile, they started for the steps leading up the bank a little above Rye Beach. Harding, who at the time happened to be watching them, noticed that they were losing ground instead of nearing the shore. He dove into the water and swam to their assistance. The father of Miss Groser noticed their peril too, but he was dressed. Drawing off his trousers he also started to their aid. When the young ladies were brought ashore, both were exhausted.

The tide was on the ebb and as it swept around the rocks, it formed a strong current to baffle against.

Many of the Dwight people will remember Mr. Harding as the little boy who lived with Mrs. Carr until a few years ago. He is a grandson of Mrs. Carr and a nephew of Mrs. Will Losee.

Obituary.

Odell Outlook.
Geo. Haas, an old resident of this community, having lived here from 1877 to 1898, died at the home of his son, Henry, in Streator, Monday evening, August 6, 1900, aged 66 years, 4 months and 7 days. The funeral services were held at the home of his son Thursday morning, after which the remains were brought here on the morning train and laid to rest in the old cemetery.

The deceased was born in Baden Germany, March 26, 1834, and was married there, but had been a resident of the United States thirty-five years prior to his death. His wife died twenty-two years ago. Mr. Haas was a window glass worker by trade. His first connection with a glass works in this country was at Chicago. He afterwards moved to Ottawa and followed his trade, remaining in that city over fifteen years, or until the first window glass factory was erected in Streator. He then moved to that city and was employed as master teaser there until the factory burned down for the first time. After a brief residence at Fort Scott, Kansas, he returned to Illinois and settled on a farm near Odell, where he remained until a few years ago, when he went to live with his son, Henry. He leaves three sons, George and Jacob, of Highland, and Henry, of Streator; two daughters, Mrs. Andrew Marcussen, of Odell, and Mrs. John Gerhard, of Chicago, who were all in attendance at the burial here, as were also Henry Miller and children, of Ottawa, and Peter Miller, of Streator.

The new time card makes no particular difference with the mails. The afternoon mail to Chicago closes at 2 p. m. arrives at 1:45. The Pontiac pouch arrives at 11:15 and is returned to Pontiac at 5:30. The other mails are the same.

Wm. Van Deventer, of the Lone Pine Fruit Farm, is one of the most energetic fruit men in Illinois. The STAR AND HERALD is indebted to him for a fine crate of plums and we take pleasure in recommending him to all.

Rev. R. S. Van Eman, of Clark, Penn., will preach at the Congregational church morning and evening tomorrow, August 19. He is a brother of J. L. Van Eman.

Mrs. Thomas Hughes and daughters, Julia and Emma, left Tuesday to visit Niagara Falls and other points in the east.

Clinton Ahem left Monday for Joliet where he will visit during the week.
