NEIGHBORING NOTES.

Gardner.

Quite a number from here will attend the Mark Hanna rally, at Joliet the 25th.

The prospects are that this part of old Grundy County, will give an increased republican majority.

There was a large crowd here to hear Congressman Hopkins last week, and he made a splendid talk.

A large crowd from here, went to Coal City, Wedn.-day, to hear Governor Tanner speak. The Governor's speech, is very highly spoken of by all, and there was an immense crowd. The Governor is very popular among the miners.

Pontiac.

Reports from all over the county indicate the largest republican majority ever given in the county.

Austin Gibbons, was here Friday. Austin is the minority candidate for the legislature and will undoubtedly, be elected. He is a first class business man.

What has become of the democratic candidate for congress. He was never heard of before he was nominated, and never will be again. If the democrats ever think there is a chance to elect a man they will not nominate a fellow like him.

Pitchfork Tillman talked about the constitution following the flag, but he didn't say anything about his trying to destroy the constitution, and shoot the flag to death during the rebellion. He is a fine specimen to send up here to teach the loyal north their duties in anything.

The Pitchfork-Tillman-Alschuler meeting at Pontiac was a great fizzle. There did not seem to be any enthusiasm. The northern people are not quite ready to have any southern traitor who lent valuable assistance to destroy this country and pull down the stars and stripes for the stars and bars, to come up here and tell them their duty as patriots. Alschuler was well received and made a good speech from his stand point. The trouble with Alschuler is that he don't believe half he says and he shows it in his manner of speech. He knows well enough that the state was in a deplorable condition under Altgeld, and that the state treasury university, and nearly every state institution was pillaged and that a lot of men are now in Joliet for thieving, and still Alschuler says the voters ought to turn the business over to democracy. Now Alschuler is acknowledged by all to be a good, able man, but he represents the principals of his party and would have to follow his party dictates if elected. Alschuler knows that "imperialism" is nonsense, he knows what "free silver" would do for the country, still he is a candidate on a platform, both state and national, which advocates free silver, 16 to 1. It must be galling to a bright young fellow like Alschuler to have to get on the stump and advocate a lot of stuff he don't believe, simply to keep in line with his party.

W. J. Bryan, seems to be having difficulty in stirring up enough opposing interest, to make the campaign look even like an argument.

If the Democratic candidate Wm. J. Bryan would be candidate as Governor of his own State, he would receive greater honors than otherwise if he falls, as he will.
