His Generosity.

"Yes," said the tired looking woman, "I have a very generous husband, and this is the way he gets that reputation. The other day I worked and slaved in the kitchen for about ten hours making jelly. It was my first attempt, so I had considerable trouble and burned my fingers about seventeen different times. It turned out pretty good, however, and of course I was proud and delighted. That night I put some on the table for dinner, and husband got enthusiastic. "Next day he was visiting a sick friend of his, a man, by the way, quite able to buy anything he might want and whose wife never lifts her finger. On leaving Mr. Generous Husband says: 'My wife made some pretty good jelly the other day. You might like some. I'll send you up half a dozen jars.' "Now, wouldn't that frost you or rasp you? or whatever they say. Half a dozen jars! After all my work to hand that jelly over to a man whose wife is too lazy to breathe! I made exactly eight jars, so we will have one more unless he has already promised it to somebody else."—New York Press.

Sunshine and Dust.

There is more dust in the places illuminated by the sun's rays than in those which we call shady. If you look along a beam of light as it streams through a window or a chink in the door you will see innumerable dust particles dancing about in the light. You will be told by most persons that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Finnegan. Mr. and Mrs. William McDermott, of Piper City, spent Christmas here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Maguire. Frank T. Lardig, of Topeka, Kansas, is here spending the holidays with his grand-father, Thos. Lawless. Frank has not been here since he was a small boy and saw many changes in our village. The funeral of Mrs. Peter McGrath was held Christmas day at 2 o'clock in the Sacred Heart church. The attendance was not very large owing to the stormy weather. Her body was laid to rest in Sacred Heart cemetery. May her soul rest in peace. The services in Sacred Heart church on Christmas were well attended although the attendance would have been much larger had it not been for the inclemency of the weather. The music furnished by the three violins and organ and the singing of the choir were both very fine.

there is just as much dust in the non-illuminated parts of the room as in the more favored spaces, but you cannot see the particles because the rays do not fall directly upon them. You will think that this is eminently plausible, but it is not the case. The sun falling upon the air creates irregular currents, and these currents stir up the dust and collect it in layers along the line of light; hence there is more dust where the sun shines than elsewhere. A curious experience in a museum gave proof of this. It was noticed that there was always more dust on the glass cases exposed to the sunbeams than on those which were never touched by the rays of the great orb, and this led to an inquiry, with the above result.

Traced by a Thermometer.

One night many years ago Dr. White-law was walking along with the messenger when he was set upon and knocked down in a lonely part of the road. His pockets were rifled, and he was left lying on the road with a fracture of the fibula. One of the articles stolen was a clinical thermometer with which he had that evening taken the temperature of a patient suffering from enteric fever. He remembered the temperature registered, also that he had not shaken down the mercury before putting the thermometer back in his pocket, and he communicated these facts to the police. Some time afterward a thermometer registering the identical temperature was discovered in a pawnshop in Glasgow, and by this means the police were enabled to track the doctor's assailants and to arrest them in one of the Glasgow theaters.—Glasgow Medical Journal.

Shell Sculptors.

The workman manipulated the comb of pale, translucent tortoise shell like putty, molding the top with his fingers into small balls. "You thought we carved shell, hey?" he said, with an Italian accent. "No, no. We heat it up and mold it. We are shell sculptors." He took three pieces of shell from a pot of steaming water and laid them very carefully, one on top of the other, in a press. "Shell is like glue," he said. "These three pieces will weld together, and not a sign of a seam will show. Sometimes we weld nine, four, twenty pieces together. I learned my trade in Naples. I don't want to boast, but Neapolitans are the best workers in shell and coral that there are in the world."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Charles—"I heard the other day that Gerald is going to get married." Edward—"Well, why shouldn't he? He's comfortably well off." "That's just the whole point. Why doesn't he remain so?" Mr. Farmer: Get your sale bills printed at this office.
