You Can Make Your Farm Pay 6% on $1000 Per Acre Value

There is one piece of ground on Frank Mann's farm, near Gilman, Ill., that for seven years produced an average of 5 tons of alfalfa per acre. The next year it produced 20 tons of silage per acre, the next 115 bushels of corn, then 88 1/2 bushels of oats, and last year 52 1/2 bushels of wheat. The average gross return each year for these eleven years was more than $80 per acre. Making a most liberal allowance for all the labor and other expense of growing the crops, there is still enough net profit to pay 6 per cent interest on a valuation of $1,000 per acre. Land is worth as much money as the crops will pay interest on.

You Can Farm Like Frank Mann

You can make your farm worth $1,000 an acre by raising crops like Frank Mann's. FRANK MANN'S SOIL BOOK will tell you how. This book contains the meat of the practical experience of a man who has made good. It puts forward no unproven theories. Every point that the author makes is proved by facts from his own farm. It is a book of practical experience that any Middle Western farmer can follow on his own farm, and double his profits while he is doing it.

How To Get This Great Book

Fill out the coupon below and hand it to the editor of this paper with one dollar for a three years' subscription to PRAIRIE FARMER, the great Illinois farm paper, and a copy of Frank Mann's Soil Book will be given you free as a premium. The Dwight high school basketball team defeated the Pontiac Y Specials last Friday evening at the Dwight high school gymnasium by a score of 20 to 19. This makes the second time the Dwight boys have defeated this team. We are glad to hear this and hope that the boys keep this good work up.

The storm was the worst that has visited this part of the universe for several years. The rural route carriers had a hard time of it, and two of them, the ones east and southeast, Tavares and Brown, could not get through at all—the former went out two miles and returned, and the latter got as far as Mr. Jeffries and had to stay there until Thursday morning. They report the east and west roads drifted up to the top of the fences in many places. Cook, Baker and Hoffman got around, but it was a tough job. The rural boys were fortunate in having a holiday the next day. Reports from all directions are the same—the worst storm in years. The drifts were three and four feet deep in many places in town. And the weather man said it was going to be pleasant. He can't always hit it.

You need a Hoosier. 'Tis a fact. Additional items on pages 6 and 8. Hans Smith spent Sunday in Peoria on business.

The nineteenth annual fremens ball was held last Friday evening at Mazon Hall and proved to be a grand success, there being about one hundred and fifty couples in attendance. The music was excellent and from all appearances everyone had a jolly good time.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Chester and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chester leave next week to occupy their large farm of 780 acres which they recently purchased near Valparaiso, Indiana. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Watkins and George Chester will work out the year on the old home farm, now owned by Col. Frank L. Smith, and then move to their Indiana home next fall. The farm they have purchased is a large one and well improved with two houses and five barns, cribs, etc. They also purchased a large number of horses, cattle, etc., and farm machinery. The farm has about thirty acres of fine timber, a deep well and a running spring. The Chesters intend to run both a stock and grain farm, and there are a great many fruit trees. The family has resided in Dwight for many years and have many friends who are sorry to see them go, and who wish them prosperity. While they were sorry to dispose of their fine farm, they thought it better to buy a larger one, and provide for the future for the children, and they are well satisfied with the change. We join their many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous future.
