Neighborhood Surprise Party.

A few friends of Mrs. Katie Orr and family surprised them Monday evening with an old fashioned neighborhood gathering at their home on East North street, the occasion being Mrs. Orr's birthday.

During the evening various card games were played by some and others visited and spent the evening in a social way.

After a two-course luncheon was served which all did ample justice to, the guests departed for home wishing Mrs. Orr many more happy birthdays.

Brick Hauling Completed.

On January 8th, Philip Conway signed an agreement with Keys & McNamara by which he was to distribute one million brick to the several different streets to be paved, the brick to be handled and piled with care and accuracy. This was about the largest hauling contract ever drawn up in this locality. The work was completed within a period of three weeks, without an accident and finished to perfection, as is generally the result of Mr. Conway's contracts.

SCHOOL NEWS

The fifth grade had very poor attendance Feb. 21.

The third grade gave a very nice program Friday afternoon.

The second grade gave a program Wednesday afternoon; part of it was to build a fort in the sand which was done beautifully.

The following have the highest marks in their respective classes for the semester: Seniors, Arta Drew, 90 per cent; Juniors, George Joost, 93 per cent; Sophomores, Rebecca Epstein, 86 per cent; Freshman, Hertha Ehlen, Esther Knudsen, Cecelia Geis, 95 per cent.

The following program was given by the seventh grade Wednesday:

Song, "Speed the Republic"..... School Recitation, "Old Glory".....
..... Amelia Matzen Debate, Resolved that the scenery east of the Mississippi is more beautiful than the west. Affirmative, Arnald Strufe; Negative, Walter Roeder. Recitation, "An Incident of War"..... Charlotte Bagnell Recitation, "The Stars and Stripes"..... Rachel Smith Recitation, "When Father Covers the Dick"..... Dalton Kelagher Dramatization, "The Spy"..... Emmett Long, Leslie Wilson Recitation, "When Teacher Gets Cross"..... Meta Nelson Debate, Resolved that Chicago is a greater city than New York. Affirmative, Leslie Fay; Negative, William Roeder. Dialogue, Taking the Census..... Genevieve Hagerty, Harold West Song, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground"..... School

The following program was given by the eighth grade Wednesday afternoon:

Song, "The Star Spangled Banner" "Independence Bell"..... Clarence Riley "Somebody's Darling"..... Mary Taylor "Yorktown"..... Harvey Kime "After the Battle"..... Henriette Weicker "Barbara Fretchle"..... Zola Seibert "Lincoln's Gettysburg Speech"..... Thomas Hagerty

Song, "Keller's American Hymn" "Sheridan's Ride"..... Ruby Bartholme "The Blue and The Grey"..... Eva Williams "Burning of the Lexington"..... Myrtle Larsen Song, "America"

The First Day of the Revolution.

When King George III. sent the "Somerset," a man of war, across the ocean with twelve hundred men on board, the Americans appointed Paul Revere with thirty men to watch the British on the "Somerset" and those on shore. One day they noticed that there was bustle and commotion on the "Somerset" and that it was not so quiet on shore. So Paul Revere told his friend to hang one lantern in the North Church if the British went to Concord by land and two if by sea, for the Americans had stored powder, shot and food at Concord, and Paul Revere was afraid that they were going to destroy the stores. That night he waited till eleven o'clock for the signal. Then he saw two faint lights. In a second he was away giving the alarm.

When the British came to Lexington, and were going to take John Hancock and Samuel Adams, they found sixty minute-men on Lexington Green. Both sides fired, and then more British came and the minute-men retreated. When the British came to Concord and found no stores there they were disappointed, but they burned the court house and knocked in the heads of a few barrels of flour, and then they marched north of Concord and at the North Bridge they met four hundred minute-men.

The British were so tired that their commander halted for two hours to rest the men, but in two hours the minute-men came in from all directions. Then the British fired a volley which the minute-men returned, then they charged and the British retreated. Then more British came and formed a square and the soldiers flung themselves into it. Then more minute-men came and fired upon the British from all sides. The British retreated faster and faster and finally broke into a run. Thus it was that the first day of the Revolution ended, April 19, 1775.—Paul Holbrook, sixth grade.

Birthday Party.

A surprise party was given Mr. L. J. Trunnell last Monday evening by his wife and daughter, at which a number of his friends were present. The occasion for the gathering was Mr. Trunnell's 60th birthday. He was called home from the Commercial Club rooms by Mrs. Trunnell and upon arriving there found several of his gentleman friends gathered to help him celebrate the event.

The early part of the evening was enjoyably spent in playing progressive bridge whist, there being three tables.

Later all were called to the dining room where each gentleman found his place by a name card at the plate. In the middle of the table was a large basket containing several bundles, being tied with a ribbon, the ends of the ribbons lying opposite the different plates. Each guest, upon pulling a ribbon was rewarded with a present. This caused considerable merriment.

A lunch was then served consisting of grapefruit, chicken with mushrooms and green peas, bread and butter sandwiches, cake, ice cream, coffee and cigars. It is not necessary to say that this was enjoyed by everybody.

Several interesting anecdotes and stories were told and an hour enjoyed socially, after which all departed wishing Mr. Trunnell many happy returns of the day.

Knights of Pythias Anniversary.

The Knights of Pythias Lodge celebrated their forty-eighth anniversary program and banquet Thursday evening at their Castle Hall, a large number of members and guests being present.

Music was furnished for the evening by the Persnick orchestra. An address of welcome was given by C. H. Thompson which proved to be very well prepared for the occasion and a brief talk given by Rev. Farrington was very interesting. About 9:30 the guests were ushered to the Opera House, where a special prepared show was given. Returning to the hall a most elaborate and delicious lunch was served, after which dancing was enjoyed until a late hour when everyone expressed their opinion that the K. of P. Lodge sure knew how to entertain.

DWIGHT, ILL., March 1, 1912

To the few who are not our customers and the many who are:-

We have for some time been seriously considering a change in our credit system, and having now perfected same, beg to here inform the buying public.

We have been discriminating, but not intentionally.

We now realize that we have not justly treated our regular cash customers, by requiring of them the same price for goods we receive from our credit customers, who in many cases are accommodated by extended periods of credit.

We appreciate and solicit both classes of customers, but feel a little advantage is due the former over the latter.

After March first all cash purchases of twenty cents or over will be discounted five per cent, excepting on a few special goods which may be net, if so they will be so marked.

For the past two years we have been rendering itemized monthly statements of purchases made during the previous month, and find in most cases our customers appreciate regularly receiving a statement while the transactions are fresh in their minds, that they may check same and report error if any appear.

We have a two fold object in rendering a monthly statement--to afford our customers an opportunity to check up his account and to remind him of his indebtedness.

Hereafter we will allow a 2 per cent discount for settlement of an account which is paid on or before the 15th of the month following purchase. This we have not practiced in the past.

We are equipped to handle your business and do it right, and shall endeavor at all times to please you.

When you are satisfied please tell your friends, when displeased for any reason kindly tell us.

Thanking you for past and soliciting your future favors we are

Very respectfully yours,

C. M. Baker & Son
