Measure an Automobile by its Engineering Strength

NO automobile can be better than its engineers designed. But a well designed car can fall short of being what its engineer planned if the workmanship is faulty and the manufacturer has not been generous in the matter of quality.

THE engineering board of the HUDSON Motor Car Company is noted throughout the industry for the number and skill of its members. Howard E. Coffin, known to every automobile man in America and recognized by Europeans as this country's leader, presides over the meetings of these engineers. He created the HUDSON "33." His associates—skilled specialists in all the various lines of automobile building—have joined with him in making the 1912 model the best value ever offered under $2500. It is a simple, strong, beautiful car of few parts. The best of materials are used throughout. Every moving part is dust-proof. This keeps down operation cost. Even the man who knows nothing of automobile requirements can appreciate the extreme simplicity and accessibility of the HUDSON "33," and understands that dust wears out an automobile more quickly than anything else.

CARS equally well built but not so well designed must fall under expert comparison, for an automobile can be measured only by the strength of the engineers who designed it. The "33" is dust-proof—therefore is practically wear-proof. It has 990 fewer parts than has the average automobile. It runs as quietly as an electric fan.

1912 Torpedo—$1600 Complete

The HUDSON "33" is furnished in four models: A Touring Car, a Torpedo, a Torpedo Roadster, and the Mile-a-Minute Roadster. The price of each is $1600 f. o. b. Detroit. All models except the last named have closed bodies, genuine mohair top and wind shield. Mountable Rims, extra rim, tire irons, 24x4 inch tires, highest grade black enameled lamps, Bosch Magneto, Prest-O-Lite tank, tools, etc.

The Mile-a-Minute car has storm apron and 100-mile-an-hour Warner Auto-meter. Both Roadsters have luggage box on rear, around which extra inflated tire can be carried.
