ROOSEVELT MAKES A TAFT PLATFORM

RECOUNTS ACHIEVEMENTS OF PRESENT ADMINISTRATION IN EULOGISTIC TERMS.

HIS SPEECH IN SARATOGA

Less Than Two Years Ago Colonel Roosevelt Gave Successor Credit For Far-Reaching and Beneficent Legislation and for Great Progress.

The nomination of President William Howard Taft at the Republican convention in Chicago in June is now practically assured. Already the platform builders of the party are considering the planks to be put in the platform that shall assist in the victory that Mr. Taft is to win in November.

It has been suggested that no better platform could be constructed than that which Colonel Roosevelt already has built for President Taft. Roosevelt built the platform in a speech that he made as temporary chairman of the Republican state convention in Saratoga, N. Y., September 27, 1910.

Roosevelt's remarks at that time were highly eulogistic of Mr. Taft. He said:

"We come here feeling that we have the right to appeal to the people from the standpoint of national achievement. A long list of laws embodying legislation most heartily to be commended as combining wisdom with progress have been enacted by congress and approved by President Taft.

"The amendments to the interstate commerce law; beginning of a national legislative program for the exercise of the taxing power in connection with big corporations doing an interstate business; the appointment of a commission to frame measures that do away with the evils of over-capitalization and of improper and excessive issues of stocks and bonds; the law providing for publicity of campaign expenses; the establishment of the maximum and minimum tariff provisions and the exceedingly able negotiations of the Canadian and other treaties in accordance therewith; the inauguration of the policy of providing for a disinterested revision of tariff schedules through a high-class commission of experts which will treat each schedule purely on its own merits with a view both to protecting the consumer from excessive prices and to securing the American producer, and especially the American wage worker, what will represent the difference of cost in production here as compared with the cost of production in countries where labor is less liberally rewarded; the extension of the laws regulating safety appliances for the protection of labor; the creation of a bureau of mines—these and similar laws, backed up by executive action, reflect high credit upon all who succeeded in putting them in their present shape upon the statute books; they represent an earnest of the achievement which is yet to come, and the beneficence and far-reaching importance of this work, done for the whole people, measure the credit which is rightly due to the (Sixty-first) congress and to our able, upright and distinguished president, WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT."

Could a better one be framed?

AIMS BLOW AT CONSTITUTION

Doctrine of Recall of Judges Menace to Our Institutions.

"The system of judicial recall strikes down at a single blow the independence of the judiciary, and changes the nature of the judicial office from one of disinterested, unselfish and impartial action to one of a political character. It introduces a new standard of judicial conduct and responsibility. Under the present system a judge must obey and enforce the provisions of the Constitution and the statutes and of established law, whether they are popular or not. He must be controlled by the law as it exists, and not by what he thinks it ought to be, or by public opinion. Under the system of recall he will inevitably feel constrained to take into account the ebb and flow of public opinion." — From the resolutions against the recall adopted unanimously by the Union League club of New York.

HANDS OFF! SAID LINCOLN

Do Not Tamper With Constitution, Said Great Emancipator.

"I wish now to submit a few remarks on the general proposition of amending the Constitution. As a general rule I think we would be much better off to let it alone. No slight occasion should tempt us to change it. Better not take the first step which may lead to a habit of altering it. Better, rather, habituate ourselves to think of it as unalterable. It can scarcely be made better than it is. New provisions would introduce new difficulties, and thus create an increased appetite for further change. No, sir, let it stand as it is. New hands have never touched it. The men who made it have done their work and have passed away. Who shall improve on what they did?" — From a speech made by Abraham Lincoln in the national house of representatives, June 23, 1848.

MEN OF BUSINESS ARE ALL FOR TAFT

PRESIDENT HAS MIGHTY AND INFLUENTIAL ARMY WORKING FOR HIS RENOMINATION.

GIVE REASONS FOR SUPPORT

Men of Affairs in Chicago, Men Known the State and Country Over, Tell Why They Want Man Like Taft in White House.

Men of business everywhere are found enlisted on the side of President Taft in the present campaign. These men are not only the ones who control large affairs, but they comprise as well the man who has not yet acquired a competence. It is one of the most significant facts of the struggle for the Republican nomination, is this solid array of business men under the Taft banner.

Why is this so? Simply for the reason that the business men of the country believe in the president, that they know he is right and they know he is safe and conservative. Read what several well-known Chicago men have to say on the subject. They present a number of good sound reasons why they are favoring the renomination of the president:

John V. Farwell's Views.

John V. Farwell, president John V. Farwell Company:

"I was an admirer of President Roosevelt when he was president, because I believed in his point of view on most questions, and his energy in making his convictions felt for the moral good of the people."

"I am sorry he refuses to endorse the renomination of a friend who had his confidence as Mr. Taft had, just because Mr. Taft does not believe in exactly the same methods in carrying out the old policies or refuses to follow him in the wilderness of chaos which would be produced by the recall of the judges or of certain classes of decisions."

"Certain people or newspapers seem to call a man a reactionary or a stand-patter if he does not swallow without consideration all the new medicines that the most radical element recommends."

"As the highest type of man is one who keeps his passions and feelings under self-imposed control, so the highest type of a Republican form of government is one where the people are willing to put their temporary opinions under such restraint. The recall of the judges removes it and leads toward popular license."

"Mr. Taft's firm stand on this foundation of all true liberty will in the end win him the votes of the people because I have enough confidence in the people to believe that they understand, as our forefathers did, the wisdom of putting that restraint on themselves."

"Not only on that ground, but also on his record of achievement in laws passed he deserves re-election."

"His advocacy now of a liberal compensation act and his appointment of a commission to study industrial conditions show his feelings towards human rights; his international peace policy proclaims him a humanitarian and one of the far-seeing statesmen of the world."

"He will be renominated."

What E. S. Conway Says.

E. S. Conway, president of the W. W. Kimball Company:

"I favor the renomination of Mr. Taft because he is a cool, safe and level-headed man. If we ever needed such a man in the White House it is now, when the country is so filled with froth and foam. I am one of those optimists who believes that this old world is just as good and even better than it ever was. I believe that this country is growing better all the time. The charge that we are in a state of moral decadence, are becoming corrupt and all other foolishness is the charge of a politician out of a job, a politician who wants another job from the people. Mr. Taft has made a good president. He has done things. He deserves and will get a renomination."

J. Harry Sels on Situation.

J. Harry Sels, Schwab & Co., shoe manufacturers:

"I am anxious to see Mr. Taft renominated for many reasons. One of them is because William Howard Taft is an honest man. Another, and to my mind this is most important, is because his views on the tariff question are right."

"Mr. Taft steadfastly has shown in his every act, in his every deed, that no influence except that which is right and good can move him. He places the good of his country above all else. This is high praise for any man. It shows that he is the right kind of man."

"On the question of the tariff he has shown that he knows what the country needs and wants. He has shown that he is willing to work to get that legislation. Mr. Taft is not weak on the tariff as many imagine. He has done more in the time that he has been in office to get the right kind of tariff legislation than any other president we ever have had. His tariff board is an evidence of that. His work is not done. He must have the chance to finish it."

Keep Judges Independent. "You give up an independent judiciary and you might as well give up your Constitution." — President Taft on the issues of the day.

NATIONAL GRANGE HEAD FOR TAFT

FORMER GOVERNOR BACHELDER OF NEW HAMPSHIRE COMES OUT UNRESERVEDLY FOR PRESIDENT.

URGES HIS NOMINATION

Says President's Wise Statesmanship Makes Him Man Worthy of Support by Every Citizen—Roosevelt Taken to Task in Conservation Question.

Numbered among the strongest of the millions of admirers of President Taft is Nahum J. Bachelder, former governor of New Hampshire and past grand master of the National Grange. It was the National Grange, an organization of farmers, that led the fight against the Canadian reciprocity movement as advocated by Mr. Taft, and Governor Bachelder was one of the leaders in the fight.

Still in the present campaign the sturdy old man of New Hampshire, who is revered and honored and looked to by the people of his state as few men are, is found on the side of President Taft. And that there may be no mistake about the matter, Governor Bachelder presided at the meeting addressed by President Taft recently in Concord, N. H. In introducing the president, Governor Bachelder said:

"We are assembled here today from all sections of New Hampshire to welcome a distinguished guest. We have followed his administration of national affairs for three years with intense interest and great satisfaction. If there has been anything in that administration that has failed to receive the individual approval of anyone, it was insignificant compared to the great accomplishments and great achievements."

He Stands for Square Deal.

"We recognize the wise statesmanship manifested in our diplomatic relations with the great nations of the world, the importance of promoting universal peace, the investigation made of industrial conditions, and the enactment and enforcement of laws for the welfare of the common people, the defense of the Constitution and the preservation of the integrity and supremacy of our courts. The square deal in all public actions and integrity between man and man."

"Ladies and gentlemen, it is my distinguished honor to present the greatest American citizen, the President of the United States."

It was only a few days later that Colonel Roosevelt made a speech in Portland, Me., in which he took occasion to severely criticize Mr. Taft for practically abandoning the policy of soil conservation. To the defense of the president came Howard H. Gross of Chicago, president of the National Soil Fertility League. Mr. Gross says:

"Colonel Roosevelt's allegations are not true in any sense. I know this at first hand. I know that President Taft has never abandoned that policy; in fact, he has been its very firm friend."

"President Taft is a member of our advisory committee. He has kept in close touch with the movement and has contributed largely in bringing success to it."

Roosevelt Was Too Busy.

"Colonel Roosevelt was asked to join and declined on the ground that he was too busy."

"If Colonel Roosevelt will read President Taft's notable address at the Kansas City Conservation congress in which this plan is strongly and specifically endorsed, he will see that there are no grounds for his criticism of Mr. Taft."

"It may be well for the colonel to remember that he holds the record for starting things and also that he handed over to his successor more unfinished business than any other president have ever inherited. Mr. Taft may have made some mistakes. I question whether or not any living man could have escaped under such conditions. He has been honest without bragging about it and is showing a high order of constructive statesmanship. He is making good under a heavy pressure. He is safe, sane and sincere. It ill becomes Mr. Roosevelt to criticize him."

TAFT A TRUE PROGRESSIVE

President Believes in Making Government Represent People.

Mr. Taft is just as progressive as anyone in this country when it comes to the aim of destroying special privilege and making the government truly representative of the people. But he believes that all this can be accomplished without breaking down the restraints of the Constitution or upsetting the system of checks therein established. And he is right. Great progress already has been made toward fulfilling the ideal of equal rights for all and curing the evils which spring from the undue influence of financial interests in the government. What reason is there for doubting that this work cannot go on to complete success with no more disturbance to the constitutional system than has been necessary in accomplishing the great reform already achieved? — From the New York Sun.

DEATH OF DR. BROUGHTON.

Former Dwight Resident Passes Away at Rockford, Ill.

On Friday morning word was received of the death of Dr. Russell Broughton, at Rockford, Ill. Dr. Broughton spent nearly ten years at Dwight as a physician with the Leslie E. Keeley Co., and during that time he and his estimable wife made many friends here.

The following is taken from the Rockford Register-Gazette of Friday, April 5:

Dr. Russell Broughton, founder of the sanitarium which bears his name, died at the institution this morning at 6:30 o'clock. His condition became critical two weeks or more ago and he had been in an unconscious condition since last Saturday night. He was 69 years old.

Angina pectoris was the cause of death, but he had suffered also from arterio sclerosis. His condition became serious February 23. There was an interval of two weeks when he showed considerable improvement, but he failed again and hope for his recovery was soon dissipated.

The body will be taken to Brodhead, Wis., Dr. Broughton's old home, and where he was known to every family for miles around, for burial. Funeral services will be held there Saturday afternoon, probably at 1 o'clock. It is expected that the Masonic fraternity and the Grand Army will participate in the obsequies. He was a member of Bickwell lodge, A. F. and A. M. at Brodhead and the G. A. R. Post of that city, and of Evansville Chapter, R. A. M. at Evansville, Wis.

There will be a brief service at the sanitarium before the funeral party leaves for Brodhead Saturday, accompanied by Rev. R. B. Davidson, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Broughton literally died in the harness. He was thoroughly absorbed in his work, giving it practically all his time. It was only at rare intervals he could be induced to participate in social events, although he was one of the most genial and kindly of men.

Dr. Broughton was a native of Wisconsin, born at Racine May 16, 1842, the son of John and Amanda Broughton. His parents were pioneers of Green county, where his father bought a quarter section of land from the government and developed it into a productive farm. The father died in 1896. Dr. Broughton's mother, who is 92 years old, lives with a daughter in Janesville, Wis.

In his youth Dr. Broughton worked on his father's farm, studied in the public schools and at Milton college at Milton, Wis., and the old Bryant and Stratton business college in Milwaukee.

He matriculated in Rush college, Chicago, and was graduated with the class of 1869. He engaged in the practice of his profession at Brodhead, Wis., where he made his home for twenty-one years, becoming one of the best known and best liked men of that community.

Dr. Broughton achieved a reputation as a specialist in drug and liquor treatment at the Keeley Institute at Dwight, Ill. He spent nearly ten years at that institution, making a close study of nervous diseases and those attributed to drugs and alcohol.

Dr. Broughton saw service in the Civil War as a member of Company C, Fortieth Wisconsin volunteers, in which he enlisted in May, 1864, at Milton, Wis. He was a charter member of W. W. Patton Post, G. A. R., at Brodhead.

The doctor is survived by his wife and two sons. Mrs. Broughton before their marriage was Miss Julia A. Smiley, daughter of Hon. Daniel Smiley, now dead, who was a prominent resident of Albany, Wis. Their wedding was celebrated in 1869. The sons are William S., who is in the government treasury office at Washington, and James E., who lives in Parker, Ariz.

William Broughton will come from Washington to attend the funeral, but the other son will be unable to be present. Both were in Rockford a few weeks ago.

Three brothers and three sisters survive the doctor. They are John and Albert, of Brodhead; Eugene, of Mount Rose, S. D.; Mrs. D. M. Enfield, Clarinda, Ia.; Mrs. Hannah Reed and Mrs. Hattie Graham, of Janesville, Wisconsin.

Dr. Broughton was a man of most lovable personality. He was a good and a true friend, a brotherly man, whose sympathies were large and abiding. He was delightfully modest, but he was nevertheless a prominent figure in his profession, one of the best known in his specialty in the country. He was always the student, ever patiently seeking to extend his knowledge in the field to which he had devoted his fine ability. He encouraged worthy movements in his profession and contributed to them. He retained his membership in the Wisconsin Medical society, which he joined in 1877, and was a member of the Winnebago County society, Illinois State Medical society and American Medical association.
