On the return trip to Pontiac from Interurban Park last Thursday evening the car struck a calf that wandered on the right-of-way and came very near causing a wreck. In some manner the calf rolled under the wheels, but owing to the promptness of the motorman the car was stopped before any damage was done. The car was crowded with people returning from the Pythian Sisters picnic.

Harry Baldwin, the express agent here, received a crate of carrier pigeons from Red Wing, Wis., Wednesday morning with a request to turn them loose and to telegraph the time of their departure. They were turned loose and after circling around town for a short while departed for the north. There are a number who are anxious to know the time they made the return in, but nothing definite has yet been heard.

The Streator Chautauqua Assembly, which closed Sunday, was a success in every respect. For some time it was feared that the assembly would not be held and the situation was turned over to the Redpath Lyceum Bureau and they carried the assembly through in the best shape it has been done in years. They will manage the assembly again next year and had a pledge of 1,000 season tickets before the assembly closed.

A number of her Dwight friends and acquaintances received news Thursday of the death of Mrs. Ada Clifton Wieschaw, who died last week at San Pedro, Honduras, where her husband held some government position. No particulars can be learned at this time, except that the body would be brought back to Chicago, and the funeral party left San Pedro last Sunday the 14th. The deceased was raised in Dwight, and lived here until a number of years ago when she went to Chicago to live, and there married Mr. Wieschaw. She was the daughter of Mrs. Luther, who is now living in Chicago, and who is prostrated over the early death of her only daughter.

A recent issue of the Ida County Pioneer, of Ida Grove, Ia., contains the pictures of the graduating class of 1912 of the Ida Grove High School, among whom is noticed the likeness of Mr. Leslie E. Radcliff, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lon Radcliff who live east of Dwight. Leslie has attended school in Ida Grove for the past five years, and enjoyed his schooling there very much, taking manual training and agriculture, which is taught with the school work. There were seven-teen in the graduating class.

Keeley Trumbo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Trumbo, of Pontiac, and who is known here by a large number, having visited at the Chester farm a number of times, had the misfortune to have the index finger of his right hand mangled in a machine at the plant of the Pontiac Shoe Manufacturing Company Tuesday morning so that it had to be amputated at the knuckle joint. The Pontiac Leader says, "Keeley displayed considerable grit in the matter, although he is but a boy, going direct from the factory to the physician's office, where the wound was dressed, after which he informed his parents what had happened. He is getting along as well as can be expected."
