

SILAGE FOR HORSES.

Interest in Silos and Silage Increasing. Important Questions Answered.

Now that the silo is coming into general use by progressive farmers in many counties of Illinois, many important questions are being asked relative to the value of silage for feeding various animals, and most of these questions are being answered by experiments at our agricultural experiment stations, so that the practical farmer need waste no time nor make any mistakes in securing desired information. Recently we have received many inquiries about feeding silage to horses, and as horses are not only fed on all farms, but are more widely distributed in cities and towns than any other kind of live stock, their feeding is of universal interest.

Objects in Feeding.—We usually have one or more of three different objects in view when we feed horses—to maintain health and condition, to enable them to expend a greater amount of energy at work, to improve their general appearance as a matter of personal pride of the owner, or to enhance their market value. While it is true that the amount of fat deposited on a horse increases his market value, it is also true that feed which will cause an economical increase in weight may be generally considered as economical in furnishing energy for work.

Silage Good for Horses.—The Pennsylvania agricultural experiment station recently conducted a feeding experiment with twenty-one horses and found that silage which is made from mature corn, is free from mold and has not been exposed to air too long before feeding and is properly supplemented with other feeds which will make up the deficiency in protein can be fed to horses with safety when care is used to have them become gradually accustomed to it; that when fed silage as a portion of their ration they consumed less grain, made their gains at lesser cost per pound, were sleeker and better finished than when fed on rations not containing silage.

Corn Silage Economical.—Corn silage furnished digestible nutrients at less cost than any other roughage grown in the state. Corn silage and alfalfa hay make practically a complete or balanced ration and thin horses may be fattened more economically with this ration than with any other, and it can be produced on any farm in Illinois.—Illinois Farmers' Institute.

Help and Be Happy.

Happiness is not a task. It is not even an occupation. It is a quality of life. Happiness depends on helpfulness. That's the reason joy is social. Helpfulness keeps happiness because it adds to the area of affection. People are not happy when they seek after happiness. They become steeped in happiness when they undertake to promote the joy of others.—Walter Williams.

The president has appointed Superintendent Verner of the Pontiac schools, together with the officers of the association, as an executive committee. A committee consisting of Superintendent Verner of Pontiac, Superintendent Brothers of Dwight, Superintendent Baumgartner of Forrest, Superintendent Smith of Odell, Superintendent Hill of Flanagan and Superintendent Smith of Chatsworth, which is to promote athletics among the various schools of the county.

The president has appointed a committee consisting of Superintendents Verner of Pontiac, Smith of Chatsworth, Bassler of Cullom and Brothers of Dwight, who with himself, are to devise a means looking toward fixing a certain standard of work that shall be accepted at its face value from high schools offering less than four years of work.

FORGER ARRESTED.

William Spencer, a Kentuckian Works Confidence Game on Merchants in this City.

William Spencer, a resident of Lexington, Ky., was arrested in this city last Saturday evening by Chief of Police Hansen on the charge of forgery.

Spencer landed in this city about a week ago and at once secured a position on the farm of Clement Steichen, one and a half miles east of this city, husking corn. Saturday he came to town with Mr. Steichen, who wrote him out a check for $5.00 which he had cashed at one of the saloons. Later in the day after he had been drinking with various persons, he became short of money, and realizing how easy the other check was cashed he forged Mr. Steichen's name to several checks ranging from $5 to $14 each. Six of these he cashed on various business men, the seventh being found on his person when arrested. After the six checks had been cashed the business men began to compare notes with the result that they came to the conclusion that the checks were all forgeries and Chief of Police Hansen was notified to be on the lookout for the man who had done the work. He was soon arrested and identified and was taken to the county jail in Pontiac Sunday. Monday night he was given a hearing before Justice Gaff, where he waived examination and was held to the grand jury under bonds of $500 which he was unable to furnish.

SCHOOL NEWS

*****

You received this week the first of the official reports sent every two months from the grades to the home.

This report is the personal statement of your child's record of attendance and examination grade and should be of great significance and value to you.

Too frequently it is allowed to become a mere matter of form, is presented the last minute for the parents' signature and is then hastily scanned and signed. Under these conditions the card is a failure and might just as well have not been sent.

The difficulty may be with the school, or it may be with the child. We feel, however, that this difficulty can be best determined, and removed if the home and school are acquainted, if the parent and teacher can talk over the situation.

These grades on the cards are nothing but the examination grades. The daily grades are kept on file by teacher. We hope that these cards, give you a real message, and that they will aid the children, school and parents.

The third graders have begun to write in ink.

The second grade have a new border showing Flight of Birds.

The first grade have a flying geese border and one of turkeys.

The seventh grade is now studying Longfellow's poem "Evangeline."

Mrs. Haise and Mrs. Johnson visited the third graders this week.

The fourth graders have been studying Ploughing in their Picture Study work.

Edward Humbert has been absent from the seventh grade the past two weeks.

Mrs. Condon, Mrs. Graham and Louise Baker visited the first grade last Friday afternoon.

The Physiology class in the fourth grade studied the heart, lungs and windpipe from specimens.

Henrietta Cunliffe entered the fourth grade this week and her sister the second grade on the west side.

The seventh graders regret the accident which necessitates the absence of Torrence Peterson from school.

The highest averages in the fourth grade in the recent examination were Florence Strufe, 96; Frank Dieter, 91.

The sixth grade have finished the stories of "The Knights of the Round Table" and are reading "Robin Hood and His Band."

The clay modeling the past week was that of bare trees, in the first grade. Some of the trees were exceptionally good.

The third grade in Miss Edborg's room had perfect attendance this week, and the second had perfect attendance for the fifth time last week.

The second room have some very good mounted cuttings, showing a "Day in the Woods," and new spelling books, with covers of Barrels full of Apples.

West Side Notes.

The first graders made some very neat number booklets.

The first graders made some very good dominoes to use in their number work.

The second grade earned a quarter holiday last week, by having perfect attendance.

The second grade made straight line booklets this week. They put their whole week's work in them.

High School.

The High School girls have organized a form of student government, consisting of: A senate and general assembly.

The senate consist of:
(a) Seniors: Dorothy Baker, Ruth Brendley, Mayme Chase, Gertrude Diefenbach, Agnes Korsgaard, Lucile Van Eman, Evalyn McKee.

(b) Juniors: Helen Johnston.
(c) Sophomores: Helen Patterson.
(d) Freshman: Ida Thompson.

The senate met November 1 and elected Lucile Van Eman as president, Agnes Korsgaard as secretary, and Miss Scott and Miss Brown as advisory teachers.

The following resolutions were passed by the senate and later were unanimously adopted by the general assembly:

(a) The advisory teachers shall have veto power over the acts of the senate.

(b) In order to adopt a measure, it must first be presented to the senate in writing; if passed, by the senate, must be ratified by the advisory teachers, and then presented to the general assembly to be voted upon. A vote of three-fourths of the girls is necessary to pass any measure.

(c) The girls are to come upstairs as quickly as possible, and not linger in the halls longer than is necessary for removing wraps and getting a drink.

(d) The girls shall form a triple line to go downstairs, at noon and at four o'clock.

(e) The Senior girls are to give the signal for passing downstairs. They shall take their turns in alphabetical order and perform this duty a week at a time.

(f) Every girl shall have a certain hook for her wraps in the cloakroom. They shall be arranged in the order in which the girls leave the assembly room, so as to avoid confusion and save time. The president appointed the following committee to attend to the cloak room: Mayme Chase, Helen Johnston, Ida Thompson.

(g) The senate is not to report on any girl unless she repeatedly breaks the rules which have been adopted by the general assembly.

(h) The senate is to report existing evils and suggest ways and means of correcting them.

i) The senate shall meet Monday night each week.

(j) It shall be the duty of the president of the senate to call the meetings of the general assembly.

This is Miss Ruth Brendley's week in the hall. The lines have been very satisfactory.
