ROAD ITEMS

A little rain Monday night changed the condition of our roads. Did it happen that you were ready to deliver grain or wanted to get that load of hard coal (long delayed) on Tuesday? A little shower spoiled your plans. The dealer could not hold that hard coal order for you. With hard roads that little shower would not have delayed you.

Does it happen that you have a financial obligation to meet about the first of the year? The condition of the roads may embarrass you in meeting that obligation.

Mr. Tenant, March 1st is moving day for many of you. February is often a soft month. How unpleasant it may be for you to move to your new home. With hard roads it would be something like a picnic for the boys to do the moving. If you should not move the share grain before moving would it not be a great benefit to you to be able to move the share crop over hard roads at a time when the weather would not permit you to work in the field?

Time is money to you, Mr. Farmer. No one investment will save you more time than hard roads. Not necessarily a fine boulevard with well kept grassy sides but a substantial road bed that will carry a 3-ton load at any time, rain or shine.

With Parcel delivery you need good roads for speedy delivery. Dollars to doughnuts the next Illinois legislature does not do anything very startling on the good roads question. However, they have a $500,000 fund handed down to them, derived from auto license tax.

Give Your Wife a Hoosier Cabinet-- Save Miles of Steps For Her Tired Feet

Do you know how many miles of steps your wife takes in her kitchen. Her table is the center of her kitchen work. To that she must bring everything and then carry it all away.

You can see her now as she works around her kitchen—never still—never stopping—always moving until you are impelled to say to her—

"Don't You Ever Stop!"

A woman never stops—she can't—there's too much to do. The time she might spend in resting she puts in walking back and forth in an inconvenient kitchen, getting things together that ought to be all in one place.
