PROMINENT PHYSICIAN DEAD

Dr. William Louis Rabe Passes Away Monday Morning After Brief Illness From Pneumonia

Dr. William Louis Rabe, for many years one of Dwight's most prominent and well known physicians, passed away at his late home on Mason Avenue, on Monday morning, January 13, at 7:30 o'clock, after an illness lasting a little over a week. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia.

Dr. Rabe was born near Steubenville, Ohio, May 8, 1839. He was a skilled physician and surgeon of Dwight, whose knowledge of the science of medicine was broad and comprehensive, and whose ability in applying its principles to the needs of suffering humanity gained for him an enviable prestige in professional circles. Dr. Rabe's elementary education concerts in New York and other principal cities of the United States.

Dr. Rabe was married to Miss Emma Clay Temple, of Bloomington, Ill., in 1867, and to them were born four children, Mrs. Mildred Barnes, of Syracuse, N. Y.; William Louis, of Peoria, Clarence Parke, of Chicago, and Miss Lucile, who lived at home with her father. Mrs. Rabe died in 1888.

Dr. Rabe was a constant reader and a valuable contributor to the standard medical journals. He was a member of the State and Interstate Medical Societies, the American Medical Association, the North Central Illinois Medical Society, and a correspondent of the World's Congress.

was conducted chiefly by his father, an intelligent farmer and teacher.

Subsequently he was trained in the higher branches, first taking a course in Richmond College, and then Matriculating in Cleveland Medical University.

During the Civil War he served as assistant surgeon with the Union forces, and was wounded upon the occasion of Gen. Morgan's capture. As hostilities drew to a close in common with other industrious citizens, he prepared to resume the occupation of the clerical and the medical professions.

In 1862 he was chosen president of Richmond College, of Ohio, which position he resigned after filling it for two terms. In 1865 he entered both McCormick Theological Seminary and Rush Medical College of Chicago, two years thereafter receiving a diploma from each of the institutions named.

After his graduation he was honored with calls from the First Presbyterian churches of Bloomington and Mattoon, Ill., and LaPorte, Ind. In 1867 he located at Bloomington, Ill. There he remained for nine years, when he removed to Dwight to engage in the practice of medicine. Here for more than thirty-five years he has given faithful and effective attention to his professional duties.

The paternal grandfather of Dr. Rabe was Captain Jacob Rabe, a soldier of the war 1812, and a brother of the famous Rabe sisters, of Germany, who in the early thirties and forties twice crossed the ocean to give er of the regular and rational practice of medicine and a leading assailant of the fake and secret patent medicine inequities. He was the author of monographs, several medical treatises, published addresses and recondite contributions to medical journals which have brought him honorable mention in the Encyclopedia of American Biography, the American Statesman and the American Academy of Medicine. He was a conservative in the practice of medicine as he was in theory.

He was greatly esteemed by the people of Dwight and the surrounding territory, both as a physician and as a man, and was regarded as a public spirited and useful member of the community.

Dr. Rabe will be missed by many of the Dwight people. He was a friend to the poor and needy and who gladly gave his services free of charge when he knew the person worthy of his help.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Congregational church, Rev. F. F. Farrington officiating. For many years Dr. Rabe has been a regular attendant at this church. A quartette composed of Miss Bonnie Baker, Mrs. J. C. Nelson, Mr. Louis Weicker and Mr. I. H. Baker, sang "Lead Kindly Light" and "Crossing the Bar." The church was filled with the friends of the deceased, the business houses of Dwight all closing out of respect to his memory. The body was then taken to Oak Lawn cemetery for burial.
