

Change means Progress when it is the Adapting of Oneself to better Conditions

THE flying machine is a reality. Inventors are now concentrating their efforts to develop stability which will mean safety in flight.

In all things further development and stability come only after a beginning has been made. In business, in the home and in the general community growth depends upon the stability, the fixed ideal of its people and its industrial facilities.

Your individual advancement—and that means all that peace, happiness, comfort, money and health bring—begins when you decide to save. And your further progress is governed only by the increased effort you make to earn more. Saving is security for you and yours.

Arrange your affairs upon a sound financial footing by doing your banking here. Stability, safety and service make this your logical banking center.

"A Spade's a Spade"

"A spade's a spade;" it is not always true by any means—neither are scythes or sickles always the same just because they are highly polished and finished.

There's a vast difference in quality as you no doubt have come to know during your experience in using them.

Unless your edged tools are of the best tempered steel all the grinding and sharpening you may do will not keep them in condition. Handles that break and pull loose are every day occurrences in inferior goods.

When you buy here, you stand no chance—we sell only the best.
