The Springfield News, in commenting on the program, has the following to say of him: Captain W. H. Jenkins, of Pontiac, will tell the story of the Thirty-ninth Illinois Volunteer Infantry regiment in the war between the states. This regiment was known as the Yates Phalanx, in honor of the great war governor. The Grand Army of the Republic and Sons of Veterans and other patriotic societies are especially invited to hear Captain Jenkins' address.

Pontiac bankers have not yet received notice of the organization plans for the reserve bank of this region, although it was expected that the call would be sent out on May 1. The latest intimation is that there will be a meeting of representatives from all the banks in this district at Chicago the latter part of this month or early in June. Some believe that it will not come before July. Representatives from the Chicago district, in which Pontiac is located, will number somewhere near 1,000. They will gather at Chicago on the first call to elect directors, when plans for the big bank will be completed.
