Five Generations of the Burger Family

The above is a picture of five generations of the late J. J. Martin Burger family. The picture was taken shortly before Mr. Burger's last illness and after it was finished it was taken to him while a patient in the Silver Cross Hospital, Joliet, so that he had the pleasure of seeing it before his death two weeks later, Nov. 1, at the home of his son, Martin Burger, Jr., in Goodfarm township.

Reading from left to right, those in the picture are as follows: Upper row: Left, Mrs. Don Wander; extreme right, Mrs. Warren Erven; both are daughters of Mrs. C. A. Fleetwood, center. Mrs. Fleetwood is a granddaughter of Mr. Burger, and a daughter of Mrs. Theresa Both. Lower row: Mr. J. J. Burger and his daughter, Mrs. Theresa Both. The babies are Guy Wander [left] and Craig Erven, great-grandchildren of Mrs. Both and great-great-grandchildren of Mr. Burger.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD W. RIEKE

Tuesday evening, August 24, saw the lovely wedding of Miss Vivian Dorothea Von Qualen, of near Gardner, to Mr. Edward W. Rieke, of near Reddick, being solemnized in the St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church of Dwight. After their honeymoon the couple will reside on a farm near Reddick.

The Harold Morse family were the tenants of last week's Mystery Farm, a weekly feature in the Star and Herald. Pictured above are June, Mr. Morse, Harold Jr., Mrs. Morse and Jeannine. The fifth Mystery Farm is a McWilliams Farm, located four and one-half miles west of Dwight on Route 17. The family have farmed the 240 acre plot for the past seven years and prior to that had lived on a farm near Dwight. Like most farms, in these parts, grain is the chief product, but Mr. Morse has one dairy herd in Livingston County also. Nearly every month he ranks high in the Livingston County fair.
