THE STAR.

VOL. 1. DWIGHT, ILL., MAY 14, 1868. NO. 2.

POETRY.

THE STAR.

By Avalanche.

It was on monday morning last
While quiet in the store,
And musing o'er the past
The happy days of yore

A greeting fell upon my ears,
A radiant mellow light,
And in this mellow light appears
The little "Star" of Dwight.

I picked it up and viewed it o'er
Delighted with the beams,
That gently flowed from every pore
In calm unruffled streams.

Methought this paper claims the aid
Of all the friends in town,
So that in future t'will be made
A volume of renown.

Its pages tell us of the "Biz,"
With which we daily meet,
And how the ladies by us "Phiz,"
While walking on the street.

And by our aid it will relate
Good news from time to time,
Until all o'er the ' Sucker State,
This "Star" will brightly shine.

Come, rally then with nerve and mind
Progressive may we be,
And in the end the goal we'll find
Reserved for you and me.

CHAWIN' GUM.—

She did not smoke, nor did she drink
Beer, porter, ale, or rum;
But oh! she had one serious fault—
That lovely girl chewed gum.

TRIFLING ABSURDITIES.—The man who thought he could coax the lawyer to take the dollar less, is now trying to set fire to an iceberg with a cigar.
