The Dwight Courier prospectus is laid on our table this week for a passing notice in the columns of our valuable and much read family newspaper THE STAR.

The prospectus is neat and clean in appearance and presents evidence of taste and a superior order of workmanship, reflecting much credit upon the labored effort made in its production, and as John the Baptist it suits us. We ask in behalf of the gentlemanly proprietors of the still unborn sheet—that our citizens will extend it the same kind welcome that hailed the advent of THE STAR in days gone by. For though we are satisfied that they will lack in every essential particular we possess, of reaching the masses in a live paper of sparkling brilliancy, yet it is our generous wish that they should LIVE, not only live but keep sufficiently AHEAD to afford an occasional cigar such as we only have at our News Depot.

It may be as well to say in passing to our readers that The Star will continue in the future, as in the past, to observe a strict neutrality in politics, unless some of the Columbiads at Washington in the GRANT intrest should become dazzled by its brilliancy and offer liberally for its valuable space, then—deliver us from temptation!

TRIX at the News Depot.
