

THE STAR.

CITY LOCALS.

DEMOCRACY.

A Democratic mass meeting was advertised last Monday evening to be held at Gersons Hall with speakers from a distance. The speakers from a distance fizzled, and the meeting nearly so, however to what few put in their appearance, that rising and popular orator Jos I. Dunlop held forth in a telling philippic of sharp invective. For a full hour he rolled his ponderous argument over the Republican platform, and finally rolled it out so thin, that in its attenuated thickness the glowing inconsistencies incorporated in its "body proper" became visibly transparent and disgusting to those opposed to it.

OH THAT DINNER.

John Campbell is our friend and we like him. John says and does many good things eminently worthy of historic record. We wish we could transfer him to paper in one of his happy moods, for instance in his humorous story of the "Yellow handless Crockery and the blue string." We like him because through him we received an invitation to as recherche an entertainment in the way of dinner as we ever sat to. It was a sabbath dinner at the M'Pherson house. It may have been an ordinary dinner, but it was huge. Jim and his lady evidently understood keeping a hotel. At any rate they suit us. All was harmony and good will as we discussed the rare delicacies under which the heavily laden table fairly groaned, every eye danced to the musical viny of the STEELE implements we ate with and on every countenance shown the glorious sunshine of contentment and a keen appreciation of the good things before them. We were well seated and though a comparative stranger and naturally inclined to diffidence we found ourself occasionally forgetting our dignity as a representative of a literary luminary of no mean magnitude and pitching into the good things before us like an ordinary boarder—Heaven forgive us. May the powers above take a liking to the Steele & Dunbar association and send us many happy repetitions of a like kind.

Chas. L. Palmer,

DEALER IN

Books, Stationary,

Periodicals, Music,

Cigars, Tobacco,

CONFECTIONERY

Raisins,

Nuts,

Lemons,

Figs,

ORANGE NECTAR,

BACK NUMBERS OF

PERIODICALS

Constantly on hand.

GIVE ME A CALL

AND SEE MY STOCK.

Frank W. Colais,

DEALER IN

ALL KINDS OF AGRICULTURAL

IMPLEMENTS

PLAWS, CULTIVATORS,

REAPERS, MOVERS,

A party at Gersons Hall this Eve.

8. d some time since... eets among our ex... which, having no... more than anxious... r from which they... elish their pages... to furnish brains... mpy fool in the... We, THE STAR are... ging spontaneous... and symetry we... ividuality without... er and moonshine... xistence of some... ed it. We want... ur favor, we can... own jonahs, raise... ig our own clams... mptible croakings... imbecile contem... urn good for evi... interfere in our... a mission, part of... ost' the Dwigh... popularity equa... ll do it if we have... a half sheet go in... washing and re... to the miserable... segar stumps for

DRY GOODS & GROCERIES

Dealer in

J. C. HETZEL,

ival next week.