

people of Dwight when informed by the 'list of Advertisements' that Canda & Hinckley GRAIN DEALERS had changed their business to the Ice Cream and Candy trade—good business in its self, but quite a fall.

While we were contemplating him and others with the Latin maxim in our mind O TEMPORO O MORE a grand shout announced the birth of the stranger and the triumph of Dwight.

SERGICAL.

A Mr. Dyke living East of town met with a severe, if not dangerous accident on last Saturday while riding a young horse. The animal took fright at a passing locomotive and in its effort to run fell, throwing its rider over its head and stepping on him. The wound was dressed by Dr. Chalfant. The sufferer was doing well at last accounts.

CORRECTIONS.

Some inaccuracies and typographical errors have crept into the articles on our first and fourth pages though we thought with our proof reader Mr. Wilmot that we were correct and clean in every particular. We will try and avoid mistakes hereafter by a more careful attention 'Celebrity' in the marriage notice should read CELIBACY, we might speak of others but this will put the reader on his guard—for errors of like kind.
