PERSONAL.

For the past few days we have noticed the kind hearty face of Mr. A. W. Plattenburg on our streets. Mr. Plattenburg is an Insurance agent and our readers are aware that we are not over partial to gentlemen(?) following that business for a living. We however, must make an exception in the case of Mr. P. who in every particular is a man and a gentleman 'than which, no finer dust was ever vitalized,' a gentleman who elevates the business of Insurance and dignifies it, a man to whom one can listen without being disgusted as plan after plan is unfolded, a man who makes every thing plain in a few words and in a common sense manner without boring you, and leaves you to elect for yourself. We like Mr. Plattenburg and think if all companys would select just such gentlemen to represent them, soliciting would be a more respectable calling and GENTLEMEN would readily be found to engage in it. But Mr. P. represents one of the best—if not the best company in America. The Washington Life of New York a company that offers the fairest and best advantages to the poor man of any other in the U. S. It is a wealthy company and well secured and needs no 'blow' to recomend it, its name being all sufficient—a tower of strength in its self. We hope Mr. Plattenburg will do well while here and leav us feeling that Dwight has not forgotten him nor his excelant family.
