...s, for pay. We are fortunate, in saying we can prove these facts, as witnesses were present. His parting advice was 'don't butt against Church organizations.'

DRIFTS.—The Oyster supper of the Methodist society takes place on the evening of the 2d prox. A good time is anticipated. Let all be there who feel interested in the massification of bivalves.

Yankee Arnold is still in the field as a competitor for public favors, and from the appearance of things in and about his store he is eminent-ly successful. A few more men of his stamp would bring merchandize to an honest basis.

Seymour the Druggist has anticipated the holidays by at least a month, from the immense amount of childrens presents he is constantly receiving.

ORDINANCE.

The Town Trustess passed an ordinance at last meeting, prohibiting cows from running at large, as they have been doing. Making every man who is a voter, an officer in the good work of impounding the troublesome bovine belonging to his indifferent neighbor, and giving him a chance to make a dollar and a half by so doing, thereby putting up on said indifferent neighbor, the small sum of three dollars lost, for being negligent. We wish some enterprising young man would go into the impounding business—he would have our full and undivided sympathy.
