ever do in the night what you are ashamed to own in the day time, as did the scrub lawyer who befouled the STAR with his vile midnight lampoons, some weeks since but begin early and learn to be an honor among men and men of friends. In the great walk of life no man can retrace his steps or undo that which he has done, be very certain then that you are prepared for the journey in every particular and on the right road, it is better to 'make haste slowly' or if your objective point is success, the path will be rocky, its sharp points are here on purpose to deter those who are not brave enough to skirmish with fortune's pickets. If for no one else, be a man for your own sake; do right for the golden reward it always brings; stand still and let the crowd you cannot stop, rush upon the breakers that line the shores of dissipation and careless expenditures; begin each week with money in your pockets honestly earned, with happiness and good will to men in your heart, with the smiles and approval of your friends for your future success; and with the glorious reward of wealth in life which results from being a man, then you will enjoy many others, as you should and will this coming New Year.

DISTINGUISHED VISITOR

Governor Bross the great hand traveler, Across THE CONTINENT of America will lecture before the members of the Dwight Lyceum on next Wednesday evening. A general invitation is extended to all who are interested in the great West and the resources of the Territories, now being opened up to the world by the great Union Pacific R. R. We hope there will be a large attendance.

Mr. L. Kenyon came into our Sanctum this week justly incensed about an article appearing in our columns last week in which he had an equivocal mention. For the benefit of Mr. Kenyon and others interested, we will say that we published that article for the purpose of showing him and others that they have no immunity from what we suppose to be the same dirty pen that befouled us in the vile midnight lampoons of last month. We still hold the original misspelled MSS for purposes of our own.

QUERRY.—Would not the slyster charlatan who indulges his vicious propensities, in writing vile and disgusting midnight lampoons, like to beat old man Kenyon out of the town Clerkship? He is a AU FAIT as a professional in every branch from liberal lying to making drunken temperance speeches before a lodge of Good Templars. We hope the Courier employs him to good advantage even if they DO have to correct his orthography in every word.
